CAUCUS AGREES TO TAX PROFITS AND ISSUE BONDS

Democrats, 122 to 13, Indorse Revenue Bill Expected to Produce $200,000,000.

BUSINESS IMPOST IS 8%

$100,000,000 in New Bonds Authorized and $300,000,000 in Short-Term Notes.

INHERITANCE TAXES RAISED

Imposts Up 50 Per Cent.—North and Preparedness Advocates Will Pay 'Practically All,' Kitchin Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—After a spirited but ineffectual fight by the pacifist element, the Democrats of the House, in caucus tonight, approved the Emergency Revenue bill as drafted by the majority of the Ways and Means Committee. The title of the bill justifies the measure on the ground of "preparedness."

The new revenue bill, designed to raise in excess of $200,000,000 by taxation, increases by 50 per cent. the present tax on inheritances, levies upon the "excess profits" of corporations and copartnerships, provides for the issuance of $800,000,000 in short-time certificates of indebtedness to meet temporary deficits in the Treasury balance, and authorizes the sale of $100,000,000 in bonds in addition to $281,000,000 in Panama Canal bonds which are already authorized.

The Revenue bill was approved by the caucus by a vote of 122 to 13. All the dissenting Democrats reserved the right to vote against the bill, although it is not expected that more than a half dozen of the number will oppose it on final passage. The bill will be introduced in the House tomorrow by Chairman Kitchin of the Ways and Means Committee and passed during the coming week.

Opposition to the bill was based on the argument that additional revenue legislation would not be necessary except for the enormous appropriations for preparedness. Representatives Page of North Carolina, Bailey of Pennsylvania, Callaway of Texas, Quin of Mississippi, and Sherwood of Ohio were the leading opponents of the measure.

Kitchin Defends the Bill.

Chairman Kitchin contended that the inheritance and excess profits taxes would fall heavily on those "who have been clamoring for preparedness." Addressing the group of insurgent Southern Democrats, Mr. Kitchin said:

"You can tell your people that practically all of this tax will go north of Mason and Dixon's line. The preparedness agitation has its hot-bed in such cities as New York. This bill levies a tax on those who have been clamoring for preparedness and are benefiting because of preparedness appropriations."

The revenue raising possibilities of the bill were outlined as follows by Mr. Kitchin:

Increased inheritance tax, $22,000,000.
Sale of new long-term bonds, $100,000,000.
Certificates of indebtedness, designed to meet an impending deficit in the Treasury during the last three months of the current fiscal year, $300,000,000. These certificates are redeemable within a year, but probably will be redeemed within three months, to save interest.

The new measure is entitled "A bill to provide increased revenue to defray the expenses of increased appropriations for the army and navy and extensions of fortifications." It creates what is called a "Preparedness Fund," and the use of this phrase mollified to some extent the group of Southern Democrats who bitterly fought the measure at the outset of the caucus.

The insurgents planned to offer a resolution instructing the Military and Naval Committees to reduce the appropriations for preparedness, but this plan was abandoned when Chairman Kitchin won over a number of the recalcitrants by the argument that the tax would fall mainly on the wealthier classes "and those who have been yelling for preparedness."

The thirteen Democrats who stood out against the measure to the end did not say they would vote against the bill in the House, but reserved the right to do so. These Democrats were:

Taylor of Arkansas, Callaway of Texas, Olney of Massachusetts, Thomas of Kentucky, Bailey of Pennsylvania, Dies of Texas, Thompson of Oklahoma, Page of North Carolina, Quin and Stevens of Mississippi, Burnett of Alabama, Doughton of North Carolina, and Sherwood of Ohio.

The sections of the bill are arbitrarily numbered by the House committee, and no confusion should result to the reader because of the unusual section numbers. Instead of numbering the sections 1, 2, and 3, the committee numbers the sections of the bill in hundreds, 200, 300, and 400. This form was followed in the

550 Killed by Earthquake In Malay Archipelago

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Five hundred and fifty persons were killed in the earthquake on the Island of Bali, according to an official report received at the Hague and transmitted by Reuter's Telegram Company.

A dispatch from London under date of Jan. 25, said that news had been received in Amsterdam that fifty natives had been killed and 200 others injured in an earthquake on the Island of Bali, in the Malay Archipelago. More than 1,000 houses were destroyed, it was added, and the Governor's palace was damaged seriously. Bali, which has a population of about 700,000, is one of the Dutch possessions forming the Dutch East Indies. The island has an area of about 2,100 square miles.

KILLS BLIND NIECE, THEN TRIES TO DIE

WOMAN SEVERELY WOUNDED

Murderer Gains Access to Home and Lies in Wait with Pistol Drawn for Victims to Enter.

Bella Hendrich, 14 years old, blind from infancy, and a pupil at the West Side Institute for the Blind, was shot and killed by her uncle, Irving Felts, while she pleaded last evening for the life of her mother, Mrs. William Hendrich, who had been attacked by Felts in the Hendrich home at 630 Bergenline Avenue, West New York. Mrs. Hendrich was twice hit by bullets from her brother-in-law's revolver. Felts then fired a bullet into his own head. The woman will recover. Felts was said to be dying in the North Hudson Hospital.

The girl boarded at the institute, which is at Thirty-fourth Street and Ninth Avenue, but spent the week-end with her parents. Yesterday, according to custom, Mrs. Hendrich took her daughter home, arriving at 6:30 o'clock. Felts stepped from behind a door as they reached the dining room, having got into the house by raising a window. He held a revolver and fired at Mrs. Hendrich. The bullet shattered a rib on the right side and dropped to the floor.

"What's the matter?" asked Bella, groping in an attempt to find her mother. Mrs. Hendrich struggled to her feet and pushed the girl into an adjoining room, and when startled, ran toward the front door. Felts fired again, wounding Mrs. Hendrich in the right hand. She fell. Lying in the hall, she heard her daughter say:

"Don't harm mother! Who are you?"

Bella was in a room between the hall where her mother lay and the door of the dining room, where Felts stood with the weapon in his hand. The girl came out of the room to the hall, touched the wall, and then turned and advanced with outstretched arms toward the dining room. Felts glared at the girl. Mrs. Hendrich called softly to her daughter to come to her. The girl stopped, but evidently believing the summons came to her from the dining room, she went on.

Felts watched Bella until her hands almost touched him. Then he pointed the revolver at the sightless girl and fired the bullet piercing her heart. Mrs. Hendrich fainted. When neighbors got to the house they found that Felts had shot himself in the right temple.

At the North Hudson Hospital Mrs. Hendrich, when she had recovered her strength somewhat, said that Mrs. Felts had left her husband a week ago and had gone to Boston to live with friends. Felts had for some time accused Mrs. Hendrich, she said, of encouraging his wife to desert him. Felts was a trainman on the West Shore Railroad.

AMERICANS FIGHTING MEXICAN TROOPERS

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 26.—According to telephone advices from Arivaca, Ariz., about forty miles south of Tucson, fighting has been in progress all day at a place called Stonehouse, between Mexican troopers and American cowboys.

When the cowboys attempted to drive their cattle from the boundary line, the Mexicans opened fire, and report said the Americans retreated and were reinforced by fourteen men from Troop E, Utah Cavalry, who returned the fire.

All Americans have assembled at a house on the Arivaca Land and Cattle Company's ranch, it was reported. Eighteen American troopers, with several thousand rounds of ammunition, were dispatched at 5 o'clock to aid the Americans already engaged.

At 7 o'clock tonight it was reported that no Americans had been killed. The scene of the fighting is three miles from Ruby, Ariz.

W. J. BURNS GUILTY, FINED $100; MORGAN AGENT ACQUITTED

APPEAL TO HIGHER COURT

STOLEN PAPERS DESCRIBED

William J. Burns, head of the Burns Detective Agency, was found guilty in Special Sessions Court yesterday of committing a misdemeanor in entering the law offices of Seymour & Seymour at 120 Broadway ten months ago and copying letters which he turned over to J. P. Morgan & Co. It was these letters which led to the discovery of the now famous leak in the offices of the fiscal agents of the British and French Governments. A sentence of a fine of $100 or thirty days in jail was imposed, and Mr. Burns paid the fine under protest, pending an appeal. Mr. Burns's conviction of a crime may result in his having to fight to retain his license as a detective. Martin Egan, publicity man for J. P. Morgan & Co., who was accused with Mr. Burns, was acquitted.

The conviction came after a trial bristling with revelations as to the activities in this country of representatives of the warring powers, which the court quickly halted on the ground that it was against public policy to go into that phase of the case. The name of Count von Bernstorff and his visits to an Adirondack camp were mentioned; allegations of attempts to bribe purchasing agents of the Allies were made, and it was charged that the German Government, as well as the men who got possession of the Morgan secrets, profited by the leak.

The court made it plain that the conviction of Burns was not based upon the belief that he had done a willful wrong, but that he had violated the law in making public private documents. The Justices took the stand that the acquittal would belie the principle of law that a man's house is his castle, and, said the court, that applied to his office as well.

In sentencing Mr. Burns, Presiding Justice Freschi said:

"It may be taken into account that we feel that no detective, no private detective, has any right to enter a place of business in order to get information for purposes of his own. If your conduct was malicious, we would not hesitate to vote a prison sentence. We are satisfied that you did what you did from the very best of motives. The court feels justified in imposing only a fine. We are informed by your counsel that the judgment here will be reviewed. We hope it will be."

Carlos Moore, to whom Samuel Paul, the Morgan employe, gave the information taken from the Morgan offices, was the first witness. He said that he had formed a company known as the Export and Import Company, which had an office on the twenty-seventh floor of the Equitable Building, two floors below the Seymour & Seymour offices. He had been at first in the Singer Building.

"I moved to the Equitable Building," he said, "after John Clifton had introduced me to Paul."

Mr. Clifton of Washington had been brought into the case as the man who had promised to pay Paul for information. It was alleged he was an attorney for Count von Bernstorff.

The witness testified that he was a brother-in-law of Archibald White, the banker, and friend of the German Ambassador. He said that during the time he was getting information from Paul he saw Mr. White on an average of once a day.

Moore than testified that during the time he was getting the secret information from the Morgan offices about British and French bids for war supplies, which were furnished to manufacturers, he was in consultation once a day with O. B. Phillips, one of the four alleged war brokers, who had desk room in the Seymour & Seymour offices. Moore said that Paul had given him altogether between 60 and 100 memoranda of messages sent to J. P. Morgan & Co. by the foreign Governments.

During the luncheon recess Mr. Clifton issued a statement in which he denied that he knew that the information was wrongly obtained from the Morgan offices, and saying that he was not counsel to Count von Bernstorff, but had represented the German Government in the Appam case.

Mr. Burns testified that on Sunday, March 12, 1916, Mr. Egan told him that important information was being obtained from the Morgan offices and that he wished Mr. Burns to investigate. Mr. Burns said that Mr. Egan had named Sultzer, Hillis, De Witt, Phillips, Moore, and Seymour & Seymour, and that at once he sent out detectives to shadow them. Mr. Egan arranged with the management of the Equitable Building for Mr. Burns's admission to the Seymour offices. Mr. Burns said that he went to the offices at night, taking his secretary to help install the detectaphone. He said then that on the desk used by the four men he had seen a letter containing the identical information Mr. Egan had mentioned as leaking from the Morgan offices. Mr. Burns said he told his secretary to copy that letter and any others containing anything relating to war orders that looked like information taken from Morgan's.

Mr. Egan told how messages received by the Morgan firm late in the afternoon and decoded that night had been in the hands of the "grapevine" crowd before the Morgan firm had time to act on them the next day.

"We owed protection to every decent manufacturer in the country to protect his prices," he said.

Detective Burns said after adjournment that he had heard that businessrivals had made an application for the revocation of his license. Deputy State Controller Boardman, to whom said application would be made, said last night that no such application had been made.

London Banker Criticises Our Reserve Board, Says Allies Had $7,000,000,000 Credit Here

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Speaking at the annual meeting of the London City and Midland Bank today, Sir Edward Holden, Managing Director of the bank, said that, of £232,000,000 of gold which had flowed into America up to the end of 1916, about £212,000,000 represented the amount contributed by the Entente Allies to form the basis of loans.

Of the total foreign loans of America since the beginning of the war, aggregating about £460,000,000, he said, £423,000,000 were borrowed by England and her allies. The amount of gold required for reserve on this basis, he added, would be only £69,000,000, and therefore £143,000,000 of the Allies' gold had been used for some other purpose, and it would appear that £76,000,000 were locked up under the Federal reserve system. Continuing he said:

"After the Allies had so handsomely contributed to the gold reserves of the United States, thus facilitating the exportation of American commodities to the extent of £1,913,000,000 between July, 1914, and Nov. 30, 1916, it seems difficult to understand why the Federal Reserve Board should have endeavored to place difficulties in the way of American bankers creating further loans, and particularly when they could have had collateral security for new loans."

Sir Edward expressed hope that new agency arrangements with the Bank of England and with France might be the means of clearing up any difficulties which might have arisen in the past, and that the Entente Allies, after the great exertions they had put forth to increase the reserves of gold in America, would be enabled to take advantage of the increased loan superstructure. He also gave utterance to the hope that it also would be mutually beneficial in continuing to support British exchange in America.

The speech of Sir Edward was a review of the entire financial position of Great Britain and her allies before and since the war, with comparisons of the effect of the war financially in Great Britain and Germany. Regarding the financial position of Germany, he pointed out how Germany had adopted every means to maintain the gold reserve of the Reichsbank at the necessary one-third of the note issue. Germany, he said, had issued notes to the extent of £800,000,000 and Great Britain to the extent of £368,000,000. The gold in the Reichsbank now was £126,000,000, which gave Germany a percentage of 15.7, while Great Britain had £81,000,000 gold, giving her a percentage of 22.

On the basis of the 15 per cent. reserve required by the American banking system, Sir Edward argued that the Entente Allies, by the amount of gold they had sent to the United States during the war, were entitled to a loan up to £1,400,000,000, but that they had received under £430,000,000.

MRS. BYRNE IS GAME AS STRENGTH WANES

Workhouse Officials Testify to Her Fast, but Suspect She Has Had Water.

DEFER FORCIBLE FEEDING

Mrs. Ethel Byrne had, at 6 o'clock last night, fasted in her cell on Blackwell's Island for ninety-six hours, and physicians keeping constant vigil over her fixed Monday as the day that would probably mark the end of her endurance. Yet she remained obdurate in her threat to starve herself to death if necessary as a protest against her thirty-day sentence as an advocate of birth control.

It was predicted when Mrs. Byrne started her strike last Monday that she would hold out not more than five days without water, and the fact that her physical condition was comparatively good last night created a suspicion in the prison that she had taken water surreptitiously. This she denied.

Mrs. Irma R. Howard, the workhouse physician, remained on the Island last night, which gave rise to a report that Mrs. Byrne had already been forcibly fed. This was emphatically denied.

It was officially added that Mrs. Byrne's condition had grown somewhat worse during the day and that she had complained of pains in her back. Physicians on the Island said these pains were probably due to the fact that she spent most of the time lying in bed and not to her self-imposed fast.

The Commissioner's Bulletins.

Commissioner of Correction Lewis issued yesterday morning this bulletin on Mrs. Byrne's condition up to 10 o'clock:

Blood pressure—Within normal limits but wavering.
Pulse—Moderately weakened.
Temperature—Slightly below normal.
Respiration—Within normal limits.
Slept two or three hours last night; washed hands this morning in basin of water; walked about; says she feels weak.
Do not know whether she has eaten or drunk.
Hospital cell cleaned by other inmates.
General condition—Slightly weaker.

Mrs. Byrne's inability to sleep is the one factor that may bring the time for forcible feeding before Monday. This bulletin, issued at 6 o'clock last night, showed no improvement in her condition:

Blood pressure—Within normal limits.
Heart sound—Within normal limits.
Pulse—Accelerated moderately.
Respiration—Normal.
Temperature—Subnormal.
Has not eaten; has had no medicine; claims she has had nothing to drink.
Hospital cell was cleaned by other inmates.
General condition—Still fair.

When asked when Mrs. Byrne was to be fed forcibly Mr. Lewis said that he rested entirely with the physicians in care of her. The Commissioner has his private opinion about the hunger strike which may be elucidated by his reply to the question as to why Mrs. Byrne washed so many handkerchiefs.

"What is the significance of that, I cannot say," he replied. "I cannot say that she drank any water, but her handkerchiefs have needed washing with suspicious frequency."

He was asked if there was any possibility of food being smuggled to Mrs. Byrne without the knowledge of the workhouse attendants.

"In an institution of 5,000 inmates," he replied, "it is next to impossible to prevent food being smuggled to an inmate. So far as I know, Mrs. Byrne has not eaten, but I cannot be absolutely certain of it."

According to the Comissioner, no special efforts are being made to induce Mrs. Byrne to eat. No tempting dishes have been set before her. She has merely been told at each meal time that if she wanted anything to eat she could have it. She is allowed considerable freedom, and yesterday, for the first time since she entered the workhouse, she took a bath. She is being kept in a hospital cell, so that she can be watched more closely. Those who have been in constant touch with her said last night that though she was weaker physically, she was still determined to make a martyr of herself.

While Mrs. Byrne has maintained that, because she is a trained nurse, she can prevent forcible feeding, the doctors on the island say she is wrong. One factor is that she will not be fed forcibly until she is in a weakened condition. Unless the patient is violent, the operation is painless.

The patient is wrapped in blankets, when this method is employed, and held rigidly or strapped, while a soft rubber tube with a firm nozzle is introduced into the aesophagus through the nose or mouth and liquid food poured through it. If the patient exhibits strong resistance, the nostril method may be used; otherwise a gag will be forced between her teeth and the tube introduced through the mouth. Everything is in readiness for forcible feeding whenever the doctors think Mrs. Byrne's life is endangered by further abstinence from food and drink.

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, Mrs. Byrne's sister, was bitter yesterday because a pass to see the prisoner was denied her.

"Officialism is running riot," she said, "when one sister is not permitted to see another who is in a dying condition."

NEW MAGAZINE FOR, OF, AND BY SOCIETY

NEITHER ADS NOR PICTURES

Price May Be $1 a Copy—Mrs. Astor and Francis Burke Roche to Write for First Issue.

A society magazine—to be called The Chronicle—exclusively for society, with its contributors confined to society and its subscription list to people in the highest social circles with a woman social leader as its managing editor, will make its first appearance about Feb. 1. It will carry no advertisements and no illustrations. It will not be frivolous. Indeed, the intention is to make it a bit of a "highbrow" publication, one that will appeal to the intellectuals and the philanthropists of the so-called frivolous social world.

Mrs. Vincent Astor, who has been entertaining of late in the interest of "Americanization," will contribute an article on that subject to the first number. Mrs. Benjamin Guinness, who has opened a shop in which she works daily, and the profits of which go to war relief, will contribute another on practical shopkeeping; and Francis Burke Roche, an erstwhile leader of cotillions, will occupy space in detailing the workings and objects connected with the Lafayette Fund.

Mrs. Whitman, the wife of the Governor, will write for the second issue on a topic not as yet announced, as will Mrs. W. Astor Chanler. Her subject will be the Lafayette Château for War Heroes. Mrs. Chanler's experience in France, it is expected, will make her article specially interesting. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman will write on subjects dearest to her heart. Lady Colebrooke is also down for an article, and Mrs. Bayard Van Rensselaer of Albany will be represented by an article on Schuyler House, lately turned into a museum. Miss Elisabeth Marbury, Mrs. Philip Lydig, and George Gould, Jr., also are to prepare contributions for the new venture. Young Mr. Gould is reputed to be wonderfully proficient on the violin and to possess unusual knowledge of music for a lad under 20, and his effort will relate to music.

There are to be various departments, and the book and play reviews will be handled by Lemist Esler, and a society authority on sports will treat of them, and, in fact, some member of the society world will write to depict every feature of the various interests appealing to those in that realm.

Discussions of the ideas and views which are calling the publication into existence will be invited, and the columns of The Chronicle will be open to suggestions deemed of value, if offered by persons whose names are familiar in the fashionable, intellectual, or philanthropic spheres. Mrs. Frederic Esler is the managing editor of The Chronicle. The names of other fashionable folk who are to be contributors are withheld for the present.

The price probably will be $1 a copy, in keeping with its exclusive pretensions, and it is hoped will keep it off the subway news stands.

ATHENS, Tuesday, Jan. 23, (via London, Jan. 26.)—(Delayed.)—Premier Lambros today asked Garrett Droppers, the American Minister, to use his influence with the Entente allied diplomats to hasten the lifting of the Entente blockade of Greece.

The Premier described at length the sufferings of the people, the danger in which the blockade placed the understanding between Greece and the Entente, and the precarious position of the Government, owing to its inability to ameliorate conditions.

Mr. Droppers promised to present the situation to the British Minister.

Wheat Supplies Exhausted.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Jan. 23, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The blockade has now lasted fifty days and, according to the Embros, supplies of wheat are completely exhausted, bread being made entirely of rye. Today the bread ration was reduced and in the hotels a small slice of bread is sent before luncheon and dinner to each person in his room. This portion must be taken to the restaurant, where no more can be supplied. Supplies of maize are arriving in Athens from Thessaly.

As regards the English requisition of Greek merchant vessels, the proposition made has been accepted by the owners.

Pourparlers are now proceeding with the British Government with a view to exempt from requisition a sufficient number of vessels for the commercial needs of Greece herself. Transatlantic vessels are not included under the recent agreement. These will be the subject, according to report, of another agreement.

RUSSIA OFFICIALLY INDORSES WILSON, DECLARING ANEW FOR A FREE POLAND AND WELCOMING FREE ACCESS TO SEAS

Reported Basis of the Kaiser's Peace Terms: Metz to France, Trentino to Italy, Free Straits, Belgium Evacuated and Indemnified, Poland Freed

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—"Wayfarer," (the pen name used by W. H. Massingham,) writing in The Nation, says:

Is Germany prepared to negotiate on the basis of restitution and reparation? Rumor has it she will and that the President has a sketch of her terms in his pocket. I give this sketch for what it is worth. The informal German offer is said to include:

1. Offer of Metz and part of Lorraine to France, coupled with evacuation but no indemnity.
2. Evacuation and indemnity for Belgium.
3. An independent Poland.
4. Surrender of the bulk of the colonies in exchange for a deal in Central Africa.
5. Restoration of Serbia, with retention of a line of passage for the railway.
6. Neutralization of the Straits.
7. Trentino for Italy, with Trieste as a free port.

Necessarily, the governing condition would be an economic as well as territorial peace and the abandonment of the policy of boycott.

MUST EXPEL TURKS, DECLARES BRYCE

DEPARTURE LONG OVERDUE

Young Turks' Cruel Regime Has Helped to Prove Their Unfitness to Rule, He Holds.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The demand for the expulsion of the Turk from Europe, included among the terms in the allied note in reply to President Wilson, is defended by Lord Bryce in an interview today.

This is the first time the former Ambassador to the United States has appeared in connection with the peace discussion, for while he has been carefully considering President Wilson's moves and the responses made to them, he has refrained from any utterance on the subject. Later the conclusion that he has reached may be published. Concerning Turkey, however, Lord Bryce's views were formulated before the peace notes were exchanged.

"No one who has studied the history of the Near East for the last five centuries," says Lord Bryce, "will be surprised that the allied powers have declared their purpose to put an end to the rule of the Turk in Europe, and still less will he dissent from the determination to deliver the Christian population of what is called the Turkish Empire, whether in Asia or in Europe, from the Government which during those five centuries has done nothing but oppress them.

"These changes are, indeed, long overdue. They ought to have come more than a century ago, because it had then already become manifest that the Turk was hopelessly unfit to govern, with any approach to justice, subject races of different religion.

"The Turk has never been of any use for any purpose except fighting. He cannot administer, though in his earlier days he had the sense to employ intelligent Christian administrators. He cannot secure justice. As a governing power he has always shown himself incapable, corrupt, and cruel. He has always destroyed; he has never created.

"Those whom we call Turks are not a nation at all in the proper sense of the word. The Ottoman Turks were a small conquering tribe from Central Asia, who were ruled during the first two centuries of their conquests by a succession of singularly able and unscrupulous Sultans, who subjugated the Christian populations of Asia Minor and Southeastern Europe, compelling part of these populations to embrace Mohammedanism and supporting their own power by seizing the children of the rest, forcibly converting them to Islam and making out of them an efficient standing army of janizaries, by whose valor and discipline the Turkish wars of conquest were carried on from the early fifteenth down into the nineteenth century.

"As a famous English historian wrote, the Turks are nothing but a robber band encamped in the countries they have desolated. As Edmund Burke wrote, the Turks are savages, with whom no civilized Christian nation ought to form any alliance.

"Turkish rule ought to be ended in Europe because, even in that small part of it which the Sultan still holds, it is an alien power which has in that region been and is now oppressing or massacring, slaughtering, or driving from their homes the Christian populations of Greek or Bulgarian stock. It ought to be turned out of the western coast regions of Asia Minor for a like reason. The people there are largely, perhaps mostly, Greek-speaking Christians.

"So ought it to be turned out of Constantinople, a city of incomparable commercial and political importance, with the guardianship of which it is unfit to be trusted. So ought it to be turned out of Armenia and Cilicia and Syria, where within the last two years it has been destroying its Christian subjects, the most peaceful and industrious and intelligent part of the population.

"If the Turkish Sultanate is to be left in being at all, it may with the least injury to the world be suffered to exist in Central and Northern Asia Minor. There the population is mainly Mussulman and there are comparatively few Christians, and those only in the cities, to suffer from its misgovernment. Even there one would be sorry for its subjects, Mussulman as well as Christian,

BRITISH UNIONS FAVOR LEAGUE

Manchester Convention Indorses Plan Advocated by President Wilson.

HITS PARIS CONFERENCE

Adopts Resolution Demanding "Free Trade for Every Country" After the War.

MANCHESTER, England, Jan. 26.—The labor conference in session here unanimously adopted a resolution today urging that "all the British representatives at the peace conference should work for the formation of an international league to enforce the maintenance of peace on the plan advocated by the President of the United States and approved by the British Foreign Secretary."

The resolution also demanded that the British plenipotentiaries should include an adequate number of Parliamentary representatives of organized labor. The mover of the resolution remarked that many words had been spoken about Russia, but it should not be forgotten that it was Russia that initiated The Hague Conference.

The conference also adopted a resolution declaring that labor was opposed to the after-the-war policy of the Paris conference, and demanded "free trade for every country," with safeguards for the maintenance of international labor conditions fixed by international trade union agreements. Another resolution urged the Government to purchase all imported foodstuffs in the country of their production, and that the Government arrange for their transport and distribution at prescribed rates. It also urged similar measures for the control of the home production of food.

The Independent Labor Party—a small group of pacifist Socialists—will hereafter have one instead of four representatives on the National Executive Council of the Labor Party. By a resolution adopted today the three sections of the congress, instead of having by right an equal proportion of seats in the council, will depend for such election entirely upon voting. This is considered a serious blow to the Independent Labor Party, as, although its membership is smaller than that of the other groups of the labor conference, it has had equal representation on the Executive Council, and until the outbreak of the war largely controlled the policy of the conference.

FIGHTING M. P. LAUDS WILSON'S INITIATIVE

J. C. Wedgwood, Who Won D. S. O., Calls Speech Most Hopeful Thing in Centuries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—In an interview with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent today, Josiah C. Wedgwood, a Liberal Member of Parliament from Newcastle since 1906, who served with distinction in the Boer War and fought in the present war at the Dardanelles, where he won the Distinguished Service Order and received a wound, upheld with vehemence President Wilson's peace address to the United State Senate, saying that it marked an important epoch in the relations of the United States to the affairs of the world. He emphasized the need for the maintenance of the friendliest relations between America and England looking to the time when in a league of nations they would be able to combine tremendous forces for the policing of Europe. With America, England, and France together in such a league, he said, the permanent peace of the world would be an accomplished fact. Mr. Wedgwood insists that the war must be fought out until Germany is beaten, and that then permanent peace can come.

"President Wilson is putting America in a place she has never before occupied in the world's politics," said Mr. Wedgwood. "If America becomes one of a league of nations after this war, it will

FOREIGN OFFICE IS CORDIAL

Says President's Address Has Made a Most Favorable Impression.

FOR LIMITED ARMAMENTS

As to Peace Without Victory, It Says the Entente Never Intended to Crush Their Foes.

WANTS SETTLEMENT TO LAST

PETROGRAD, Jan. 26, (via London.)—The first official expression of Russia's attitude toward the address of President Wilson before the Senate was made today in the form of the following statement from the Foreign Office:

"Russia always has been in full sympathy with the broad humanitarian principles expressed by the President of the United States, and his message to the Senate, therefore, has made a most favorable impression upon the Russian Government. Russia will welcome all suitable measures which will help prevent a recurrence of the world war. Accordingly we can gladly indorse President Wilson's communication.

"President Wilson's views on free access to the seas find an advocate in Russia, because she considers it necessary to have free access to the seas.

"The President's proposal regarding limited armament has the support of Russia, who made representations of this nature at The Hague Conference. In expressing these convictions the President of the United States is at the same time expressing the point of view of Russia.

"The Russian Government notes with satisfaction that President Wilson makes a sharp contrast between the definite reply of the Entente Allies to his first communication and the evasive note of the Central Powers.

"Russia already has definitely announced her unalterable determination regarding the future of Poland. The Russian Emperor has declared that one of the objects of the war is a free Poland, consisting now of three separated provinces.

"As to the nature of the peace to be concluded, whether it be a peace without victory or not, one should remember that it never has been the aim of the Allies to crush their enemies, and that they have never insisted upon victory in that sense over Germany. It is Germany who has taken that point of view and who wishes to dictate peace as a victor."

PREDICTS PEACE MOVE BY TEUTONS AT ONCE

London Writer Figures Tisza Speech, Forced by Political Crisis, Promises a New Step.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 27.—A Hungarian correspondent of The Morning Post, discussing Count Tisza's speech on the peace problem, points out that The Morning Post's Budapest correspondent said some time ago that the Karolyi section of the independence party, and, in fact, practically the whole opposition in Hungary, demanded that such terms should be put forward as would be acceptable to the Allies, satisfy the aspirations of the national character, and give such concessions as would insure permanent peace without annexation.

"When Count Tisza repeats these arguments," says the Hungarian correspondent, "one need only point to the fact that whilst the opposition is preparing for a tremendous onslaught on the Premier and his party in Parliament, he comes forward with a cunningly contrived statement on peace, embodying the principles advocated by Karolyi and his supporters, and adopts almost a conciliatory tone toward the enemies of the monarchy. The fact is, his main aim is to save himself, to gain sympathy by indirectly promising an early peace and thus disarm the opposition once more as he did at the time of the peace offer.

"The present parliamentary session at Budapest was to bring about a most desperate campaign against Count Tisza's Cabinet, according to information about the activities of the Opposition parties. The first act of Tisza to counteract this movement has been to make this statement on the subject of peace.

"The carefully concealed terms, of which he and the Chancellor speak so much and which are described as in their opinion 'acceptable to the enemy and calculated to serve as a basis for a lasting peace,' will be wrested from Tisza during the present session by the Opposition or, failing this, he will have to resign.

"To all appearances peace in Hungary, at least, must be had within a very brief space of time, that is to say, before a general famine sets in. The conditions under which the masses of the people, that is to say the working and salaried classes, are living are even now hardly to be distinguished from famine.

"The fact must not be overlooked that Tisza had only just returned from the conference in Berlin, where, no doubt, the peace terms, which will have to be made public in a short time, had been discussed and a decision arrived at. This alone can explain the phrase in Tisza's statement that the terms to be proposed will be acceptable to the Allies, and I should not be surprised if the birthday of the German Emperor were chosen as the occasion on which they will be communicated to President Wilson.

"Certain it is that another theatrical move on the part of the Central Powers is imminent. A passage in Tisza's speech suggests this. He said: 'We are, therefore, inclined to continue a further exchange of views regarding peace with the United States Government.' This means nothing less than a communication to Wilson of terms which 'will be acceptable.'

"The waning hopes of the people of the dual monarchy have once more been raised by Tisza, and it only remains to be seen what his words may lead to."

DENY TISZA FORECAST STEP.

Berlin Officials Say They Know of No New Peace Move.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—A Vienna dispatch says that Premier Tisza's statement as to peace negotiations should not be interpreted as an indication that Austria-Hungary intends to answer President Wilson's speech to the Senate with a definite diplomatic step. The dispatch says a note to the United States is not called for, not only because President Wilson's words were directed to the United States Senate, but also because his terms are considered too general to serve as a starting point for concrete negotiations.

In regard to Tisza's reference to a possible continuance of an interchange of views with the United States, German officials say they know of no change in the attitude of the Central Government's regarding a further announcement of peace conditions.

The surface view here on President Wilson's step continues to be that, although well meant it is unsuitable for discussion now when the attitude of the Entente is regarded as making prosecution of the war inevitable.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS BACK WILSON'S IDEAS

Want the Government to Affirm Accord with His Principles—Demand Pressure for Peace.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The eighty-nine Unified Socialist Deputies in the Chamber today adopted a resolution urgently asking the Government to affirm its accord with the principles expressed in President Wilson's address to the Senate. The resolution also demands that pressure be exerted on all the belligerents to hasten peace.

The resolution, which was adopted unanimously, reads:

The Socialist group in the French Parliament takes note with joy of the admirable message of President Wilson to the American Senate. The conception of peace founded upon the free will of peoples, and not upon force of arms, should be or should become the charter of the civilized universe. Upon this affirmation of justice, an inheritance from our revolutionary traditions and of our international congresses, President Wilson confers today a new and immense prestige.

And it is the more necessary at this time that democrats of all nations, wherever they may be, should rise against imperialistic ambitions and against their bloody and ruinous consequences. The Socialist group will request insistently that the French Government affirm clearly its accord with the high words of reason of President Wilson.

To prepare and hasten an early and just ending of the present war and to assure a future of peaceful civilization, the Socialist group asks the representatives of all belligerent nations to press upon their leaders a trial in good faith of the noble experiment offered to humanity by the head of the great American Republic.

The group is composed of the extreme Socialists under the leadership of Pierre Renaudel, chief editorial writer of Humanité. Before the war it consisted of 102 members, of whom five have been killed in battle and six made prisoners in invaded districts of France.

Albert Thomas, Minister of National Manufactures and a member of the French War Council, was elected a Deputy as a member of this group.

ROME CORDIAL TO WILSON.

Thinks He Has Formulated a Program Which Must Be Considered.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 26.—President Wilson's address in the Senate has caused a great sensation here. It is thought a new proof that the President has a complete plan concerning the European situation, which he will gradually unfold. Many call Wilson a dreamer, but think he is undoubtedly laying a foundation for a new organization of the world, and that even if it is impossible to bring this into being immediately, he will cause discussion of new problems and new aspirations of the peoples, preparing for a better future according to the traditions of American liberty and civilization. All admit the noble and disinterested aims that inspire Wilson, who, it is felt, deserves admiration for the courage shown in his outspoken language.

The comment of the press on President Wilson's address to the Senate is totally different in tone and substance from that used after President Wilson's note of Dec. 12, which was then most critical. Now all agree that President Wilson has formulated a program both for the conclusion of peace and for preserving it after the war is ended which practically includes the main points which the Allies stated in their reply to his note.

FOR PUBLICITY EFFORTS HERE

Henry Arthur Jones Wants British to Seek Sympathy by Campaign.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 27.—Henry Arthur Jones, the playwright, in a letter to The Times, advocating the immediate need of a vigorous British publicity campaign in America, says:

"Perhaps no greater calamity could now befall civilization than an active estrangement between America and Great Britain upon the tremendous issues of this war, and there seems to be some danger that America may lend her support to bring about a hasty and impotent conclusion to the conflict.

"The successive notes of President Wilson have given to Englishmen the impression that he is not merely neutral between the Allies and Germany, which is a necessity of his high position, but that he is neutral between right and wrong, between the foulest and bloodiest tyranny that ever tried to bestride the earth and the hard-set peoples who are agonizing to overthrow it.

"I say that his notes have given that impression. I do not say that his private attitude may not be quite different from his public attitude, as stamped by his public utterances, but Wilson's public utterances have undoubtedly commanded a large measure of approval from his countrymen. The great body of the American people is apparently acquiescent in statements that represent war as a terrible European squabble, where no great forces of right and wrong are grappling with each other.

"It is to be feared that this feeling in America of indifference to the moral issues of the war and of impatience at its continuance is largely on the increase. The German press campaign in America, constantly and unscrupulously pursued, has succeeded in blinding and befogging many millions in Central and West America who are remote from the war and who are not directly concerned.

"We have no need of lies and misrepresentations; we have only to rehearse the plain facts to bring them vividly home to Americans and I am persuaded that we shall gain their verdict on our two main counts: First—The Allies are fighting the cause of fundamental European and American civilization, and second—there can be no compromise with crime and, therefore, no peace without victory.

"In the interest of a good understanding between America and Great Britain during the anxious months to come, let us see to it that the plain facts of our case are laid before Americans without delay."

BORAH SEES PERIL IN WILSON'S PLAN

Vicious and Heinous Policy, He Says, to Enter European Politics.

MUST STUDY EVERY STEP

Senator Tells Michigan Society That League of Peace Will Surely Commit Us to Dangerous Course.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Senator Borah of Idaho, who will attack President Wilson's peace address when the subject is debated in the Senate, declared in a speech before the Michigan Society of Washington tonight that all proposals of alliances and leagues to enforce world peace inevitably would commit the United States to a course in direct conflict to the policy of Washington and Monroe.

"If the people of this country want to enter European politics," the Senator said, "take part in European controversies, become entangled in its dynastic dissensions; if they want to furnish money and soldiers, ships and men to be subject to the call of some tribunal or league, in which tribunal we will have but one vote, very well. The people have a right to enter that perilous course if they choose, for this is the people's Government. But let us understand perfectly what it means before we take the step. Let us not be deceived nor deceive ourselves. We should debate and consider every step before we take it, for these are the steps which once taken it is impossible for a people to retrace.

"Once in the maelstrom of European politics and it will be almost impossible to get out. Once involved in the matter of economically boycotting or in the matter of enforcing decrees of military force it will be practically impossible to get back to the policy under which we have lived and strengthened for more than a century.

"Some time ago I called attention to the fact that if we were in an alliance or league to enforce peace of which Japan and Russia were also members, and Japan and Russia should have a dispute which one or the other refused to arbitrate or submit to conciliation, we would ultimately have to lend our economic forces or our military forces or both to the other power and engage in the Oriental imbroglio. Our ex-President, Mr. Taft, admits that all this would be true, but puts it aside with rare complacency by the suggestion that in all probability it would not happen and that both Russia and Japan would yield. I doubt if the people of the United States want to bind this country, this Government and themselves by solemn obligations to a course which has no shield against pernicious consequences except the probability that that will not happen which has been happening between nations for a thousand years.

"In June, 1914, the heir to the Austrian Throne was assassinated. Austria claimed he was assassinated by reason of the agitation and activities of prominent Serbians and made certain drastic demands upon the Serbian Government. To most of these demands the Serbian Government yielded, but as to others it asked for arbitration.

"At that time there was a league of peace in Europe known as the Entente Alliance, composed of three rather powerful nations—Russia, France, and England. They urged Austria to submit the matter to peaceable settlement, but Austria refused to arbitrate, and the war came. The difficulty with our esteemed friends who talk about alliances and leagues and the millennium is that they leave out just one essential element, and that is human nature. They discard every element which has worked unexpectedly for war from the beginning of history until now, and ask the American people to give up their policies, their advantages, and enter European politics with no other assurance against being drawn into constant conflicts and interminable dissensions than that which has always been happening will not, probably, happen again.

"But the singular and startling viciousness of this whole proposition of a league to insure peace or enforce peace is this: We enter the league, we contribute our portion of ships and soldiers for a police force of the world—a force large enough and strong enough to crush those who do not submit their vital interests to arbitration or conciliation. Then some question arises as to immigration, citizenship, or of territorial propinquity to which we decline as a people to submit, especially to a tribunal so preponderatingly in numbers against us.

"Then we have agreed in advance that this force which we have helped to create shall attack and assail us as a people. We invite them here from Japan and from Europe under a solemn agreement previously made to engage us in war. In fact, under the agreement which we have made, they are bound under their obligations to attack us. Without assuming to assail individuals, I denounce this principle as perfectly vicious, as perfectly heinous, indefensible in morals, and not even hardly a proper subject for these after-dinner speeches.

"It is a thing we should be as ashamed to talk about as we should be of covertly inviting our neighbors to assault our own family. There is such a thing left in this world as nationality, as a national spirit, and I thank God for it. There are some things which no people under heaven with a single drop of patriotic blood in their veins would submit to arbitration or conciliation, and any scheme which would in advance encourage an attack upon them for failing to do so is vicious to the last degree."

HOPE FOR ACTION BY WILSON.

Members of World's Court League Will Meet Here Feb. 22.

The possibility of an international conference, to be called by President Wilson before the end of the war under the terms of the Naval bill, was suggested yesterday by officers of the World's Court League, which is supporting the President in his peace efforts. The significance of three paragraphs in the bill which give to the President power to call the conference has escaped the general public, they assert. This part of the bill was inserted as a concession to the pacifist element in Congress at the time of its enactment.

The paragraphs in the bill relating to the conference contain the following passage: "The President is authorized and requested to invite at an appropriate time, not later than the close of the war in Europe, all the great Governments of the world to send representatives to a conference which shall be charged with the duty of formulating a plan for a court of arbitration or other tribunal, to which disputed questions between nations shall be referred for adjudication and peaceful settlement." The bill puts $200,000 at the President's disposal to carry into effect the conference.

Whatever the President's course, the league will not anticipate any overtures the President may wish to make, Dr. Samuel T. Dutton, General Secretary, said yesterday. At the same time, he said, it will support the President in his efforts. Intimation that the conference and dinner of the league at the Hotel Biltmore on Washington's Birthday "may not be wholly lacking in international significance" was given yesterday in an announcement.

NOT DUE TO FEAR OF JAPAN.

Wilson's Speech Couldn't Have Been So Inspired, Says Mikado's Envoy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 26.—The Japanese Embassy contradicts the statements made in some papers that the President's speech was inspired by fear of complication with Japan. It notified the press here that the agreements between America and Japan in the Far East remain unaltered and that the understanding is perfect regarding the investment of capital in the Far East. It is likewise stated that Japan follows in China a policy in collaboration with the other powers, having no individual aims of her own.

Therefore, it is stated by the embassy, the affairs of the Far East must be excluded from among the motives which led the President to make his address.

GUYNEMER DESTROYS HIS 28TH AIRPLANE

French Aviator Wins Three Combats in Three Days—British Bag Five Machines.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—For the third successive day Lieutenant George Guynemer is mentioned in the communication from the War Office. This afternoon's announcement credits him with having brought down another airplane on the Somme front. This brings up to twenty-eight the number of airplanes destroyed by this pilot. The text of the War Office announcement on aerial activities is as follows:

It has been confirmed that Lieutenant Herteaux during the day of Jan. 24 brought down two enemy machines. The second fell at a point 1,500 yards to the south of Rocquigny. Lieutenant Herteaux furthermore brought down a German airplane on Jan. 25, and this brings to nineteen the number of enemy machines destroyed up to the present time by this pilot.

A third and a fourth enemy airplane, after engagements in the air with French pilots, have been brought to earth. One was wrecked within our lines to the north of Altkirch and the other to the south of St. Etienne-à-Arnes, in the Ardennes. Furthermore, it has been confirmed that the German airplane which on Jan. 23 was subjected to machine gunfire at close range by one of our machines was destroyed at a point to the north of Craonne.

During the day of Jan. 24, and also during the night of Jan. 25-26, French bombing squadrons conducted the following aerial operations:

Two hundred and ten kilos [462 pounds] of projectiles were thrown down upon the railroad station at Brieulles, where an extensive fire was observed; numerous projectiles were thrown down also upon the railroad stations at St. Quentin and Voyennes, the barracks at Liancourt-Fosse, the railroad station and barracks at Guiscard, the railroad station at Tergnier, and on certain buildings to the south of Chauny.

A German airplane was brought down to the west of Barleux by our anti-aircraft guns.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—British troops have carried out successful raids east of Loos and northeast of Vermelles, on the French front, says the official statement issued from British headquarters tonight. In aerial fights five German airplanes were destroyed and five others were damaged.

WOULD NOT RESTORE ISLANDS.

New Zealand Premier Opposes Giving Them Back to Germany.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Addressing a meeting of Australasians in London last night, Sir Joseph G. Ward, Minister of Finance of New Zealand, said he regretted that the Entente Allies in their reply to President Wilson's suggestions concerning peace did not refer to the islands in the Pacific, which, he said, Australia and New Zealand were determined should never be restored to Germany.

POLES CHEER FOR WILSON.

Young Men Parade in Front of the American Consulate at Warsaw.

BERLIN, Jan. 26, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Polish youths paraded in front of the American Consulate at Warsaw to express their gratification for the mention of the Polish problem by President Wilson in his recent speech in the Senate, according to dispatches from the Polish capital given out by the Overseas News Agency.

GERMAN CRAFT SHELLS COAST OF SUFFOLK

LONDON, Jan. 26.—An unidentified German vessel shelled the Suffolk coast of England last night. There were no casualties. The following official announcement was given out today:

A small unidentified German vessel approached the Suffolk coast last night and fired a number of shells, only a portion of which reached the land. There were no casualties and only insignificant damage.

A dispatch from Lowestoft says that a hostile vessel arrived off the coast at about 11 o'clock. The night was very dark, and the warship could not be made out from the shore. Before beginning the bombardment she fired two star shells, probably for the purpose of identifying possible objectives.

The warship then fired a number of shells, several of which exploded, but the total damage was less than $500. Most of the shells exploded on open ground. The bombardment lasted only three minutes. There was no panic.

BERLIN, Jan. 26, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—A German official communication issued today tells of a raid by light German warcraft in waters south of Lowestoft. The communication says:

During the night of Jan. 25-26, German light sea forces advanced into English waters south of Lowestoft in order to attack hostile patrol boats and outposts which had been formerly reported there.

During the whole raid not one hostile vessel was sighted. The fortified locality a short distance southward was illuminated by rockets and shelled by our torpedo boats. Hits were observed. Our sea forces on the way back did not meet any adversary, and returned safely.

BERLIN REPORTS SEA BATTLE

Says Damaged Destroyers Were Unmolested by the British Ships.

BERLIN, Wednesday, Jan. 24, (by Wireless to Sayville, Jan. 26.)—Details of the engagement between the German torpedo boat flotilla and British light naval forces on the morning of Jan. 21 are given today in an Overseas News Agency announcement.

"Immediately after the beginning of the engagement, which took place in darkness," says the agency statement, "the commander's boat, the V-69, received a full hit on the bridge. The commander of the flotilla, Captain of Corvette Max Schultz, who always had commanded his flotilla with courage and success, was killed, as were two other officers and some men. The steering gear was damaged, causing a collision with other boats. The V-69, in a badly damaged condition, entered the Dutch port of Ymuiden without being molested by the enemy.

"The boat rammed by the V-69, notwithstanding the damage sustained, continued to participate in the combat and inflicted heavy damage on a British destroyer by ramming it. Later a German who recognized the destroyer said it was in a sinking condition. The German torpedo boat, although its speed had been diminished by the collision with the V-69 and by ramming the British destroyer, succeeded in reaching a German base unhindered by the enemy.

"A third German boat in the darkness encountered numerous hostile torpedo boat destroyers. Entering into action, it sank a large hostile destroyer by discharging a torpedo at short range. Owing to the superior forces of the enemy this boat withdrew from the fight and arrived in port undamaged and unmolested by the enemy."

The British Admiralty on Thursday issued a statement denying that any of the British destroyers were rammed in the battle mentioned above and that other casualties were suffered except those announced on Tuesday.

POLITICAL REFORM IN PRUSSIA URGED

DEPLORES DELAY IN MOVE

Beginning of the War, When Enthusiasm Ran High, Was the Time, He Declares.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 26, (via London.)—In an article in the Tageblatt Wolfgang Heine, member of the Reichstag, deplores that the Government has failed entirely so far to draw the proper consequences from the lessons of the war for interior political reforms. Instead of taking advantage of the moment, Heine says they were making mysterious promises. Instead of making use of the tremendous national forces newly born by the war they seem hypnotized, he declares, by certain antiquated powers opposed to any change or reform whose vital interests will not tolerate new life in any shape or form.

Heine argues that "during the first week of the war, when the patriotism of the whole German people knew no bounds, it would have been the easiest thing in the world to abolish for once and all time the electoral privileges still existing in Prussia, because neither the economical base of national life nor the military constitution would have been affected. On the other hand, such a course would have produced splendid emotional effects and strengthened confidence in the nation's future and the indomitable will to save the empire.

"Perhaps a very small part of the population, insignificant for the existence of our military power, the privileged classes," he adds, "might have resented such an act as unjust to themselves, but the jubilation of the great masses of the people and warriors would have outweighed this grievance, and even those thinking they had reasons for complaint would have been too patriotic to refuse to serve their country. And why should they, seeing that great masses of the disinherited, who certainly have good cause for embitterment, come forth united and gladly to serve their country, as they will continue, though their real needs are still unattended? But against the enemy and his slanders there would have been no weightier argument than to show that the German nation was strong enough to create for itself a new form of political life. That is only possible by united action. That could not be done by minute calculations and the weighing of all interests concerned."

Heine wishes it understood that "the mere transplantation of the foreign democratic institution is not in Germany's interests. She must seek a way for the preservation of her unified creative power, which is contrary to the privileged voting system of Prussia. If only for the sake of making the burden of after-war times bearable, electoral reforms must be introduced, for without them the nation will be unable to develop her required strength.

"But no half-hearted measures, such as indicated in the recent Prussian Diet debate, will answer the purpose. In that debate the intention was expressed to abolish part of the hated privileges and to create in their place new ones, trusting that their hatefulness is as yet unknown. The new measures might have deceived the people ten years ago, but after the gigantic efforts in this war nothing would satisfy the nation except the real thing."

He thinks that the German intellectuals have contributed much to concentrating universal hatred on the Fatherland.

"Indeed," he adds, "the intellectuals of all countries were largely responsible for that atmosphere of hatred in the world, without which this war would have been impossible and their contribution toward the war consisted still largely in fanning this hatred, while the masses of the so-called uneducated laborers were out in the trenches looking neither to the right nor left, but fighting for the future welfare of the Fatherland. There was one example in Germany that should be followed by all German States needing the reform of their voting systems, that of Alsace-Lorraine. The Government and a very large majority of the Reichstag consented to this system despite the fact that the interior conditions in those provinces were so much more difficult than in Prussia. To grant such system as exists in Lorraine since 1911 to Prussia and the other States is the most that can be expected. But all promises will remain empty until men are placed at the helm in Prussia."

L'OEUVRE ATTACKS HEARST.

Paris Paper Compares Him with Senator Humbert, Editor of Journal.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—L'Oeuvre, under the heading "Hearst and Humbert," publishes a violent attack on William R. Hearst and Charles Humbert, the latter the director of The Journal, whom it compares as "birds of a feather." The article is signed by Gustav Téry, now director of L'Oeuvre, who for years signed leading articles in The Journal.

Téry represents Hearst as a German propagandist, giving extracts from the Hearst papers since the beginning of the war to support his accusation. Téry then attacks Humbert for trying to present Hearst as a friend of the Allies after having made his acquaintance in America, declaring it to be impossible that Humbert could have ignored Hearst's pro-German sentiments.

NO NOTE FROM DOM PEDRO.

Frederic Harrison's Hoax Causes a Fruitless Search of Archives.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—In spite of the obvious character of the alleged note from Dom Pedro, Emperor of Brazil, to President Lincoln, put forth by Frederic Harrison in The London Morning Post today as showing that Dom Pedro tried to stop the civil war in America by such arguments as President Wilson used in his speech to the Senate last Monday, library assistants and employes of other branches of the State Department today laboriously went through the process of delving into musty tomes to show that the pretended note was a hoax. It is perhaps hardly necessary to say that the search made at the State Department failed to disclose that any such document was in existence, published or unpublished.

There is a charitable disposition in official circles to believe that Professor Harrison was imposed upon.

Austrian Relief Incorporated.

Supreme Court Justice Cohalan signed yesterday a certificate of incorporation of the Austrian Home Relief Association, organized to raise and distribute funds for the benefit of distressed Austrian widows and orphans. The incorporators are Dr. Andrew von Grimm, 227 East Sixty-eighth Street; Ignatz Neumeyer, 35 John Street; Victor Neustadtl, 49 St. Nicholas Terrace; Adolph Rosenthal, 104 Fifth Avenue, and Dr. Edward Polak, 46 Stuyvesant Street.

RUSSIA AS A VOLCANO ON EVE OF ERUPTION

BERLIN, Jan. 26, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The Bulgarian Minister in Berlin, M. Rizow, is credited by the Tageblatt with some interesting statements regarding the Entente note in reply to President Wilson, at the end of which he is quoted by the Overseas News Agency as saying:

"I do not know whether Mr. Wilson will take further steps in favor of peace, for I have not the honor of knowing him or his political intentions. Those who do know him declare that he takes everything into account in advance and is given to displaying the energy necessary to bring to a conclusion any action once initiated by him. If this is true, then it must be that he will continue his efforts for peace and not rest upon the platonic act of his noble initiative, this the more since he possesses rather efficient means of making a continuation of the war exceedingly difficult.

"For instance, he can detain money, arms, food supplies and raw materials, which at the close of 1916 had reached the enormous total value of 20,000,000,000 marks. Such action would be a logical development of his proposals. The words of Lord Kitchener to American statesmen ought not to be forgotten: 'The Entente cannot win without the assistance of the United States.'"

M. Rizow is quoted as asserting that what he characterized as "the aggressive, violent tone" of the Entente note was due to the conditions now prevailing in Russia.

"That country of 'possible impossibilities and irreconcilable contradictions,' as Russia is characterized by her great satirical writers," said M. Rizow, "is like a volcano on the eve of eruption. This is shown by Russian press reports and by other accounts of the proceedings of the Duma, despite obliteration by the Russian censor of some of the truth. Apparently the Entente decided to attempt directly to influence Russian public opinion. The British Ambassador, Mr. Buchanan, delivered public speeches in order to revive Russian confidence in victory and in England. These speeches remaining without effect, England, France and Italy felt obliged to allow Premier Trepoff to make the solemn declaration that the Dardanelles definitely had been promised to Russia. This manoeuvre having made no impression, the Entente donned the lion's garb, assumed the attitude of victors, and sent the answer to President Wilson because it was afraid of a general paralysis in Russia.

"Contemporary Russia is divided into three parts. The first is the Emperor's Russia, that is the present régime, at the head of which is the Emperor, who, despite all his bellicose proclamations, is much more interested in maintaining the rule of his house and the present régime, than in the war.

"The second is liberal Russia, represented by the 'progressive bloc,' which forms a majority of the Duma and advocates war until victory is attained, not because it believes in victory or because it believes the continuation of the war to be necessary, but because it hopes to obtain a constitutional and parliamentary Government by French and English aid.

"The third is the Russia of the laboring classes, the workingmen, farmers, socialists, and others, represented in the Duma by the parties of the Extreme Left, who want peace, liberty, and land for agricultural work. Their ideas are proclaimed by Maxim Gorky, who demands peace because he does not believe in victory.

"A compromise of these three Russian divisions is improbable, if not impossible. Only a miracle could reconcile these 'irreconcilable contradictions.'"

Dr. Wadeff, Bulgarian Minister to Switzerland, is quoted in a Berne dispatch to the Overseas News Agency to the effect that Bulgaria approves absolutely President Wilson's note to the belligerents. Dr. Wadeff declared Bulgaria was not waging a war of conquest, and claimed merely territories which belonged to her, in accordance with the principle of nationalities.

POKROVSKY QUITS CABINET.

Czar's Foreign Minister Was on "Sick Leave" of Two Months.

BERLIN, Jan. 26, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—According to the newspaper Russky Slovo, says the Overseas News Agency, M. Pokrovsky, the Russian Foreign Minister, has tendered his resignation.

A dispatch from Petrograd under date of Jan. 19 said that the newspaper Rech announced that a sick leave of two months had been granted to Foreign Minister Pokrovsky.

LOSS IN WORLD'S TONNAGE.

Destruction in 1916 Exceeded That Constructed by 200,000 Tons.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Loss to the world's merchant shipping in 1916 through war causes exceeded the total tonnage constructed, according to estimates prepared today by the Federal Bureau of Navigation. Vessels sunk are put at 1,149 of 2,082,683 tonnage, and those built at 2,506, of 1,890,943 tons. The net reduction was about 200,000 tons, or 1½ per cent. of the world's total.

The figures were gathered from many unofficial sources, but are declared to be approximately correct.

Great Britain led in shipbuilding, with 510 vessels of 619,000 tons. The United States was second, with 1,213 vessels of 560,000 tons. Ships built by all other countries are given as 782 in number of 720,868 tons. Japan's construction of 246,000 tons was about three times the 1915 output. German construction of 26,000 tons is admittedly too low an estimate.

Some other figures are: Holland, 208,180; Italy, 60,472; Norway, 44,903; Sweden, 40,090; France, 39,457; Denmark, 37,150; Spain, 10,000; China, 7,800.

The entire world's merchant vessel tonnage at present, according to an estimate by Lloyd's, is 48,683,000.

BRITISH PIERCE TURK LINE.

Consolidate Gain of 1,100 Yards Near Kut-el-Amara, on Tigris.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Eleven hundred yards of Turkish first line trenches southwest of Kut-el-Amara and portions of the Turkish second line trenches in Mesopotamia have been captured by the British forces in severe fighting in which the Turks suffered heavy losses, according to a British official communication issued tonight. The communication says:

By a determined assault Friday morning, under the cover of an intense bombardment, we seized and consolidated 1,100 yards of the enemy's first line trenches on the right bank of the Tigris southwest of Kut-el-Amara and a considerable length of the second line, sustaining only slight losses.

The Turkish forces west of the Hai River thereupon delivered four furious counterattacks, the first and third being broken up by our artillery and machine gun fire, the second and fourth attacks gained momentary success, but our troops, returning to the offensive, regained much of the ground from which they had been temporarily dislodged. Throughout the day the Turkish losses were extremely heavy. Seventy prisoners were taken.

GERMANS PUSH ON IN RIGA REGION

CAPTURE 500 PRISONERS

Czar's Forces at One Point Drive Forward for a Mile, but Retire Under Counterattacks.

BERLIN, Jan. 26, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—In the River Aa sector of the Riga region, along the northern end of the Russo-Galician front, East Prussian troops captured additional Russian positions on both sides of the stream yesterday and withstood a counterattack on the east bank. Russians to the number of 500 were taken prisoner. The official statement recounting this success reads:

Eastern Front: Front of Prince Leopold: Engagements on the River Aa yesterday again resulted in complete success for the attacking East Prussian divisions in the capture of further Russian positions on both sides of the river. On the east bank strong hostile counterattacks failed. Five hundred prisoners were brought in.

The military critic of the Overseas News Agency writes: "Russian attacks beginning in January in the region southwest of Riga were quickly answered by a powerful German counterthrust. At 9 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 23, the bad weather having come to an end, German troops, after a short but efficient artillery preparation, advanced on both sides of the River Aa along a front of six miles.

"Although this attack was expected by the Russian command, the German troops obtained small advantages and by noon the left and right wings were attacking the front situated to the east of the Aa River. In the afternoon after fresh artillery preparation a decisive and successful thrust was carried out at the centre, although the storming troops sank to their knees in mud, the Tirul swamp giving way in spite of the frost.

"On the evening of Jan. 23 terrain on both sides of the Aa River for a distance of nearly two miles was conquered. During the night of Jan. 24 more ground was gained on the right wing to the east of the river.

"The Russian position situated near the eastern end of the German attacking lines which had been surrounded on the evening of Jan. 23 was cleaned out, about 400 prisoners being taken. According to declarations made by prisoners, the commander of this detachment received an order to withdraw. He refused, however, to heed the instructions and declared to the soldiers that he would maintain himself. When the Russians saw they were encircled by the Germans they shot down the commander.

"By noon on Jan. 24, Russian prisoners to the number of 1,100, including ten officers, had been brought in. The Germans also took thirteen machine guns.

"German troops made considerable progress to the west of the River Aa on the morning of Jan. 24.

"The greater part of the ground abandoned by the Teutons to the Russians at the beginning of January is now again in German hands. The magnitude of the Russian losses is visible by the declarations made by prisoners. In many regiments counting 3,000 men only 500 returned. The rest were killed, wounded, or taken prisoner.

"To date in the battles on both sides of the River Aa fourteen officers and 1,700 soldiers have been captured by the Germans."

PETROGRAD, Jan. 26, (British Admiralty per Wireless Press.)—Russian troops in two sectors of the Riga region carried out successful offensive movements yesterday, advancing at one point, east of the River Aa, for about a mile, the War Office announced today. Counteroffensives by the Germans later resulted in withdrawals of the Russian forces which had advanced. The text of the statement reads:

Western Front: Between the Tirul swamp and the River Aa, west of Riga, our detachments, having taken the offensive, dislodged the enemy, capturing some prisoners and two machine guns. Afterward, however, under the pressure of the Germans, we withdrew to our original positions.

On the eastern bank of the River Aa our detachments, having conducted an obstinate battle, advanced for about one mile in the direction of the village of Kalnzem, but as a result of enemy counterattacks they were obliged to fall back.

General Ivashkevitch, who led the battle in the first line, although wounded, remained at the front.

In the region of the mouth of the River Beresina our scouts carried out successful reconnoissances, capturing twenty-three Germans. Hostile airplanes dropped bombs on the station at Radsivilov, but caused no damage.

Berlin Denies Loss of the U-56.

BERLIN, Jan. 27, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—"The commander of the British destroyer Delphin reports that he sank the German submarine U-56 west of Huelva, Spain," says the Overseas News Agency. "The newspapers state that neither this nor any other German submarine has been sunk in this way."

FRENCH RECAPTURE VERDUN TRENCHES

HEAVY BLOWS EXCHANGED

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The German troops launched a strong attack last night on the Verdun front, penetrating the French trenches near Hill 304, on the west bank of the Meuse. By what the War Office tonight describes as a "violent counterattack" the French this morning recaptured the greater part of the lost positions.

The German attack was made on a wide front, from Avocourt Wood to Dead Man Hill, a distance of about three and a half miles, several regiments taking part. The French curtain of fire and the machine guns broke up the attack at several places. Near Hill 304, however, fierce hand-to-hand fighting developed, and the Germans were able to occupy several advanced positions. No details are yet available as to how the French rewon their trenches.

On the right bank of the Meuse and in Lorraine there was spirited fighting by the artillery of both sides.

The text of the afternoon announcement follows:

On the right bank of the Meuse, after a violent bombardment, German forces yesterday evening delivered attacks upon four points of our front between Avocourt Wood and a point to the east of Dead Man Hill, but they were repulsed by our curtain of fire and by the fire of our infantry and our machine guns. Our assailants were compelled to make their way back to their trenches, with the exception, however, of certain detachments who were successful in penetrating some of our advanced trenches in the sector of Hill 304. The enemy, during this attack, suffered very heavy losses and left numerous dead in front of our lines, particularly in Avocourt Wood.

During the course of the night German troops undertook several surprise attacks upon some of our minor positions, but these failed under the fire of our men located to the north of Chilly, south of the Somme, and to the northeast of Vingre, between the Oise and the Aisne.

In Upper Alsace, near Largitzen, after a spirited bombardment, forces of the enemy came out of their trenches at two points. Our artillery fire put a definite check to this endeavor.

On the remainder of the front there has been intermittent cannonading.

The night report says:

According to recent reports the attack carried out yesterday by the enemy on the left bank of the Meuse was especially violent. Several German regiments took part in the fighting, which at some points was in the nature of hand-to-hand combats.

This morning, through a violent counterattack in the region of Hill 304, our troops recaptured most of the elements into which the enemy had penetrated.

Artillery fighting has taken place on the right bank of the Meuse, in the region of Bezonvaux-Louvemont, in the Woevre, in the sector of Regniéville, and in the sector of Veho, to the east of Lunéville.

Take 500 French Prisoners.

BERLIN, Jan. 26, by Wireless to Sayville.)—French trenches on Hill 304, northwest of Verdun, were stormed yesterday by German troops along a front of 1,600 meters, the French Office announced today. Approximately 500 prisoners were taken by the Germans, who also captured ten machine guns. The French failed in a counterattack at night. The announcement follows:

Army group of the German Crown Prince—On the west bank of the Meuse, in the sector of Infantry Gen. von Francois, under command of Lieut. Gen. von dem Borne, Westphalian and portions of the Badish regiments of proved valor and efficiency, assisted by artillery, pioneers, and mine throwers, stormed French trenches on Hill 304, on a front of 1,600 meters. The enemy suffered sanguinary losses in hand-to-hand fighting, and left in our hands, in round numbers, 500 prisoners, among whom were twelve officers. We captured ten machine guns.

At night the French launched a counterattack, which failed.

Enterprises on Dead Man Hill and northeast of Avocourt brought the desired result.

A supplementary statement, issued this evening, says:

On the west bank of the Meuse French counterattacks were repulsed.

BRITISH REPORT SUCCESSES IN AFRICA

Germans Retiring in Two Zones—Haskins's Appointment to Command Announced.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—An official statement issued today by the British Press Bureau regarding military operations in German East Africa says:

"North and south of the lower Rufiji the Germans are retiring in the direction of Utete and Utembe Lake, our advancing columns capturing small parties, including prominent European officers.

"In the western zone strong enemy forces are retiring southward in the direction of Mahenge and the Ruhudje River. One detachment of these, after one week's investment at Likuju, was compelled to surrender, we taking 289 prisoners, including the officers commanding the German southern detachment, and a field gun and two machine guns.

"In the Jfinga region fighting is proceeding."

Lieut. Gen. A. R. Haskins has been appointed to the command of the British East African expeditionary force, succeeding Lieut. Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, it was officially announced today. General Haskins assumed command in East Africa on Jan. 23, the announcement states.

The British War Office announced on Jan. 15 that General Smuts would be replaced in the military command in East Africa so that he might attend the imperial war conference in London, at which the British dominions are to be represented.

BISSING'S SUBSTITUTE REPORTED DISMISSED

Gen. von Huehne Said to Have Been Dropped for Deportation Promise to Holland.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 27.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from The Hague says that General Baron von Huehne, interim Governor General of Belgium, has been dismissed and General von Zwehl, Military Governor of Maubeuge, has been appointed his successor.

According to the correspondent, General von Huehne was dismissed for promising Holland that Belgians would not be deported. He adds that General von Huehne asked for a command at the front, but that his request was not granted.

No Changes in Russian Commission.

Denial was made on authority yesterday of reports that changes are to be made in the Russian Purchasing Commission having headquarters in the Flatiron Building. The Russian Government, it was learned, is quite satisfied with the work of the commission, and has no idea of making changes in its personnel.

but the weak Turkish State, such as it would then be, could not venture on the crimes of which it had been guilty when it was comparatively strong.

"That the faults of Turkish Government are incurable has been most clearly shown by the fact that the Young Turkish gang, who gained power when they had deposed Abdul Hamid, have surpassed even that monster of cruelty in their slaughter of unoffending Armenians. The Committee of Union and Progress began by promising equal rights to all races and faiths. This was 'union.' It proceeded forthwith not only to expel the Greek-speaking inhabitants of Western Asia Minor and to exterminate the Armenians, but to attempt to Turkify the Albanians, Moslems as well as Christians, and to proscribe their language. This is what 'union' has, in fact, meant. What 'progress' has meant in the hands of ruffians like Enver and Talaat, Prussianized Moslems worse than the old Turkish Pashas, we have all seen within the last three years.

"The Moslem peasant of Asia Minor is an honest, kindly fellow when not roused by fanaticism, but the Turk as a governing power is irreconcilable, and the allied powers would have been false to all the principles of right and humanity for which they are fighting if they had not proclaimed that no Turkish Government shall hereafter be permitted to tyrannize over the subjects of another faith."

mean that the future peace of Europe is virtually guaranteed. Without America with her force, her influence, and her power in world's affairs in such a league, it would inevitably fail.

"I regard President Wilson's message as one of the most hopeful things that has come to the world in centuries. In saying this I view it from the effect that will accrue to all civilization to successfully bring about the league of nations the President so strongly commits his country to.

"His are not the proposals of a dreamer or an idealist. He has stated what America can do. What he says implies no coercion. All that President Wilson asks is that the warring nations make such terms of peace as America can legitimately back up.

"In what he promises for America's part in a league of nations after the war he offers an enormous bribe to the Allies and to Germany. He says in effect: 'If you will make peace on terms of democracy, terms upon which the rights of smaller nations shall be protected by the bigger ones, and if you will consent to forego mere ideas of territorial expansion, then, as the strongest neutral in the world, we shall be with you.' He speaks for a peace that will be permanent, and says that America will not, for its part, take part in any after-war negotiation that does not have permanent peace as a basis.

"I believe that neither the Government of Germany nor those of the Allies are in a mood to accept President Wilson's peace suggestions today. But the great result of his message is that it has impressed itself upon the public mind of all countries, and that it is bound, sooner or later, to create a public opinion that will be of inestimable value when comes the time to talk peace.

"I am for carrying this war on to the bitter end, and I do not see that this is the time to have a peace talk with the Germans. We have got to have a smashing victory over them. President Wilson, I am sure, must realize that there can be no permanent peace until one side or the other insures victory by force of arms.

"In coming out as he does at this time with a message that both sides may read with the prospect of hope for the future, President Wilson has shown tremendous courage. He has known full well that he would have to face the gibes and jeers of Europe. He has known this because he has had daring enough to put at the forefront of his message two proposals that he knew must be most objectionable to Germany and England. One was the surrender of navalism or power of the sea; the other was the reuniting of an independent Poland. All of his other proposals giving a measure of freedom to the smaller nations will be far more acceptable than these two.

"In telling England that navalism must go—that is, that she cannot hope to have undeniable freedom of the seas in war time any more than in peace, if America is to support peace terms, he has taken a bold attitude. Yet this very pronouncement was cheered to the echo at the Trades Union Conference at Manchester, where President Wilson's name was acclaimed as that of no other politician or statesman has been acclaimed in England in many a day.

"As to British navalism in another war, it must be recognized that if we are going to have an agreement among the nations it has got to be an agreement that comprehends absolute freedom of the seas. That principle could not be worked out in this war because of the German violations of all international rules of the sea, but it can be worked out after the nations come together in a league such as the President proposes.

"Now as to Poland. Under President Wilson's idea it would be given independence. That means that it will never again be buffeted about by potentates. What he says of Poland he means for all small States, and it is an emphatic expression of the highest principle of democracy.

"As to President Wilson being an idealist in his view of the disarmament of the nations, the fact is that he is far from it. Great Britain and France have shown by the way they have raised tremendous armies of powerful fighting strength that a soldier can be made of the rawest of material. America has the same kind of material in her 100,000,000 people to work with and could just as easily as France or England raise an army that would go into the field in quick order and achieve brilliant results.

"As to the navies, it would not be either necessary or expedient for any nation to have a preponderating force, for with a league of nations, stress could be quickly applied if one of the league or if a big power outside of it suddenly launched a war. If Germany should say that she was not in the league of nations, and England, France, and America were, Germany would get only a little way with any war she might try when the combined forces of those three nations were applied.

"So President Wilson's scheme is not Utopian; it is not a dream. It is a vitally practicable scheme that will insure the world's peace.

"To insure this, Great Britain must see that she remains a friend of America. These two great nations must stand together with France and with all the nations that want world peace for all future time. It will mean America helping in the policing of the world, and it will be a gigantic task.

"President Wilson has pointed the way, and England will look to America to see to its achievement after this war is ended."

'WHO GOT PROFITS?' 'LEAK' HUNTERS ASK

TO UNCOVER BEAR TRADERS

Whipple Wants to Know Whether They Speculated "As a Class" on Wilson Peace Note.

The House Rules Committee, which will continue its "leak" inquiry at the Custom House on Monday, decided yesterday to train all its guns on big Wall Street operators who might have profited in the bear movement in the stock market coincident with President Wilson's first peace note.

That much was made known in the third notification—heralded as an ultimatum—to the stock brokers which was given out at noon through the Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange. Thousands of brokers and small investors who had been alarmed at the possibility of complete publicity were greatly relieved, and the scare over the inquiry in Wall Street was a thing of the past.

The latest ultimatum placed decided emphasis on the fact that the Rules Committee was anxious to safeguard the interests of all investors against whom no suspicion could be lodged of having profited by a "leak" in connection with the President's note. It even went so far as to state that only accountants satisfactory to the brokerage houses should be permitted to inspect the reports asked for, and that the "key" which would disclose the names of customers whose transactions were given, might be kept in the possession of brokerage houses unless the committee discovered a strong lead.

Small Fry Eliminated from Inquiry.

No reports will be demanded of sales of less than 1,000 shares of Clearing House stock, thus eliminating many thousands of small investors from the inquiry. The records which are desired are of those who bought stock as well as of those who "sold short," or dumped large quantities of stock they actually owned on the market at the time of the depression. It was explained that records of purchases were required, as they would eliminate the buyers from any suspicion of having profited by a "leak" in a depressed market.

Statements regarding the amount of margins demanded by brokers from customers in these speculative deals will not be required, as the committee has expressed itself as not interested in knowing whether brokerage firms were satisfied to accept narrow margins. These questions of ethics were not involved in the present inquiry, it was reported, and no demand will be made for an actual statement of the money involved in various deals shown by the records submitted. The committee will be satisfied to know simply the size of purchases and sales made.

Shortly after the third ultimatum was distributed to the brokers, Sherman L. Whipple, counsel, and members of the Rules Committee joined in a statement that the inquiry was to be limited solely to an effort to unearth a "leak," and that action to incorporate or otherwise regulate the Stock Exchange was not contemplated by the inquisitors.

"Who Made Profits, and Who Lost."

Here is the message sent yesterday to the brokers affiliated with the Stock Exchange by the Committee on Clearing House:

New York, Jan. 26, 1917.

To the Members of the Exchange:

In explanation of the request made by the Rules Committee through the Governing Committee of the Exchange, and in order to expedite responses, counsel for the Rules Committee states:

1. The accounts and statements filed by brokers with the Chairman of the Committee on Clearing House will be examined only by accountants satisfactory to the houses filing the accounts or approved by the Stock Exchange officials.

2. The list of customers without symbols connecting them with accounts called for by the request will be furnished in sealed envelopes to the Chairman of the Committee on Clearing House and will be opened and inspected only by a member of the Rules Committee or its counsel, and when they have served their purpose will be returned to the firm furnishing them and no copies kept, meanwhile being retained in the custody of the Chairman of the Committee on Clearing House. This list should include all customers who during the period in question bought or sold any stocks, bonds, or other securities, or who during that period had an open account on the books.

3. In lieu of the trial balance as of the close of business on Dec. 9 asked for in the call, it will be sufficient to furnish the stock balances in Clearing House stocks only, both long and short, in those accounts in which the purchases and sales of Clearing House stocks during the period in question exceeded 1,000 shares in the aggregate, the accounts to be designated by symbols. The condition of the account aside from the amount of stock of which the customer was long or short need not be stated, and those stocks in which no transactions whatsoever occurred during the period in question may be altogether omitted. The general account of the firm itself need not be given except in those cases where the firm itself, or its members, has during the period in question bought or sold for its own account or of the members thereof 1,000 or more shares of Clearing House stocks. In such cases the amount of the stocks in which dealings occurred of which the firm was long or short at the close of business on Dec. 9 should be given, but otherwise no information as to the affairs of the firm itself. In the case of a member of a firm the account should be treated the same as a customers' account where transactions in Clearing House stocks are concerned.

4. If any house so desires it will be perfectly satisfactory to the committee for it to retain in its own custody the key index showing the connection between customers' names and the accounts until asked for by the committee and then submitted directly to the Rules Committee by a representative of the firm instead of through the Committee on Clearing House of the Exchange.

The Rules Committee desires it to be understood that the main purpose of the information requested is to ascertain the facts with regard to buying and selling of stocks on the Exchange during the period inquired of who made the profits and who incurred the losses. It is hoped that in all matters of doubt the accounts will be so framed as to contribute this information in the clearest and simplest form. The results of accountants' examinations will be reported to the Rules Committee for use under the limitations that have been already stated.

GEORGE W. ELY, Secretary.

Wants to Satisfy Brokers.

When he was asked if there was any chance of further modifications in the demands, he replied:

"We must and shall find out if any public official comes under the scope of the inquiry, or whether any individuals profited as a result of a 'leak' in connection with the President's peace note. The men who made large profits are the ones we will have to look to in this regard. The ones who lost, of course, were not involved. You don't have to have a tip to lose.

"The committee would be extremely sorry if there was any publicity in connection with customers not involved in any way with a 'leak.' We want to find out the beneficiaries on a large scale, the people who profited as a class, and then find out from them where they got their information, if they had any."

Mr. Whipple will continue his conferences today with members of brokerage firms and the Stock Exchange in preparation for the reopening of the inquiry on Monday.

LAWSON IS THROUGH.

Will Leave "Leak" Inquiry to Others and Go to Oregon.

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston financier, who has figured prominently in the investigation by the Rules Committee of the House of Representatives into the alleged "leak" on President Wilson's peace note, said tonight that he was leaving the "leak mess" to others, and that he intended soon to go to his Oregon ranch for a vacation.

DUBLIN GREETS IRISH FROM CANADA IN KHAKI

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 26, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The Duchess of Connaught's own Irish-Canadian rangers arrived in Dublin, nearly a thousand strong, and today were welcomed on behalf of the nation by the Lord Lieutenant and on behalf of the city by the Lord Mayor. They come to Ireland as to their motherland to see the places of their origin and to revive old sympathies and associations. They will carry with them from one end of the country to the other, colors worked for them by the Duchess of Connaught.

It is a remarkable circumstance that half of the battalion are Catholics, the other half being Protestants, and each half has its own Chaplain. The commanding officer, Lieut. Col. O'Donoughue, is one of the best-known officers in the Canadian Army. He has already had fifteen months' service in France. The Adjutant is Captain the Hon. A. J. Shaughnessy, the only surviving son and heir of Lord Shaughnessy.

Today was the coldest day Dublin has known for many years. The weather might well have destroyed the effect of the march as a popular function, but thousands of citizens lined the streets to hail the return home of the sons and grandsons of Ireland, many of them descendants of the famine emigrants. Accompanied on the march by three bands, the Rangers made a brave, soldierly show, their workmanlike khaki relieved with one touch of color of the blue and gold pennon carried in their midst, the gift of the Duchess of Connaught. The Lord Mayor was on the steps of the Mansion House as they marched to be reviewed by the Lord Lieutenant.

In the course of the review the bands played the once rebel air, "The Wearin' of the Green." The march past, in which nearly a thousand men took part, was exceedingly well done.

INTENSE COLD WAVE GRIPS ALL EUROPE

Much Suffering in Germany Together with Delays in Food and Shell Transportation.

LONDON, Saturday, Jan. 27.—The cold wave in Europe is growing more intense. Dispatches from Holland say that in Germany it is causing much suffering and interfering with the transportation of food and munitions. Navigation of the Rhine was stopped by ice Friday. Rivers and canals in central and eastern Germany already were icebound.

The weather is also severe in Holland, where the inhabitants for the first time in four years have been able to enjoy their favorite pastime, skating on the canals.

Correspondents on the British front in France say the troops are experiencing the most biting weather since the war began. The use of automobiles is rendered almost impossible, owing to the freezing of radiators and carburetors. Many cars are stranded along lonely roads. The soldiers, especially those in the trenches and on sentry posts, are suffering severely, but the general health of the army continues amazingly good.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The question of fuel has become a leading one for the moment, peace manoeuvres and the Chamber's secret debates on the Greek situation being relegated to the background by the icy temperature, which is unpleasantly reminiscent of the "année terrible."

The Journal devotes most of its front page to the question of the coal crisis and the sufferings of the poorer classes, which have already found an echo both in the Senate and the Chamber. Gustave Hervé, in La Victoire, dedicates his daily article "To the women who have to wait in line," having in a former article preached patience to Parisians, and bade them take an example from the soldiers in the trenches. He now admits the administration is to blame in many respects, and that the lines of people waiting in the biting cold to buy a few pounds of coal for their daily needs could be avoided if the municipality would requisition the vacant shops, &c., where distribution of fuel to the poor could be accomplished rapidly.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—Parisians are watching the Seine anxiously for fear that it will freeze over and prevent the arrival of coal barges. For several weeks the normal coal supply of Paris has been short because floods made the passage of tugs and barges under bridges hazardous. Today, although skating is going on on the canals and at Versailles, the river still remains clear of ice.

FRANCE CUTS DOWN RESTAURANT MEALS

Nine Main Dishes from Which to Select Two—Police Inspection of the Menus.

PARIS, Jan. 26.—France tonight followed the example of England and Italy in restricting meals in restaurants. Diners in restaurants are hereafter restricted to hors d'oeuvres or soup, two other dishes, and cheese or dessert.

In regard to the two main dishes the bill of fare, instead of the sixty or seventy items usually presented, is confined to a maximum of nine. The nine consist of one egg dish, two fish, three meat, and three vegetable.

The restrictions have been drawn up in conjunction with the representatives of the provision trades and have been taken in good part by both the public and the restaurant proprietors. Public opinion generally recognizes the importance of stopping the waste in food.

The decree was printed in the official journal today, but does not go into effect until Feb. 15. It is applicable to all establishments where meals are sold to the public, including clubs, hotels, boarding houses, and canteens. Managers must submit bills of fare for luncheon to the police authorities not later than 10 o'clock in the day and for dinner not later than 5 o'clock and must hang up a copy of the regulations in a conspicuous place. The restrictions include an absolute prohibition of puddings and an order to economize flour, milk, eggs, sugar, and vegetables. Salads count as courses unless served on the same plate with meat. Albert Clavellle, Under-Secretary for National Subsistence, said in regard to the decree:

LIEUT. SPENCER ON TRIAL.

Militiamen Tell of Having Been Tied to Gun Carriage Wheels.

First Lieutenant Frank A. Spencer, Second New York Field Artillery, who is charged with having ordered five men of that command lashed to gun carriage wheels, on Jan. 9 last, was placed on trial at Fort Totten yesterday morning. The court is made up of four regular and five National Guard officers. Colonel W. G. Haan, in command of Fort Totten, is President of the court.

Max Kellerman, Earl Pingree, and W. St. George, all of them privates in the regiment, and who were among the five men spreadeagled on Jan. 9, were called as witnesses, and each repeated the testimony he previously gave at Fort Totten, denying that they had refused to work. Each of them testified that he had been without food for nearly twenty-four hours when Lieutenant Spencer ordered them tied to the wheels.

NEWS PRINT CRISIS IN ENGLAND GRAVE

Government Cuts Down Publishers' Allowances to 50 Per Cent. of 1914 Quantity.

APPEAL MADE TO PREMIER

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—On the principle that misery loves company, the suffering publishers in America may draw considerable comfort from the plight of their brethren in England. If white paper conditions are bad in the United States, they are almost impossible on this side. Up to last November newspapers were permitted to use 66 per cent. of the quantity currently used by them in 1914. Publishers thought these conditions were pretty bad, but they were struggling along, doing the best they could, when the Government notified them that their paper allowance would be cut down to five-sixths of the 1916 quantity, which is equivalent to about 50 per cent. of the 1914 quantity. Recently there has been strong talk of making a still further cut to a 40 per cent. basis, as compared with 1914. The proposed drastic action led today to a visit in force to the Prime Minister, when about forty newspaper proprietors, headed by Lord Burnham of The Daily Telegraph, were received at 10 Downing Street. They made vigorous representations as to the necessity of newspapers to the public in war time and the necessity of white paper to the newspapers. They will receive the same consideration from the Government that would be accorded to any other industry.

Even if the Government consents to preserving the present status the newspapers are faced with almost intolerable conditions. The Government restrictions on paper and raw materials arise from the need of shipping tonnage for food and munitions, and they are aggravated by the growing scarcity of labor and other factors that make for high prices. Leading paper dealers tell me the market price of paper for customers today is $130 per ton, but that, as a matter of fact, a new paper starting would be unable to obtain news print at any price. I am told by newspaper managers that they are actually paying the equivalent of six cents a pound for current supplies, and that they expect the situation to get worse before it gets better.

Thanks to the reserve stocks held by some of the papers, the newspapers have not yet fully accommodated themselves to the scarcity of news print and high prices. The Times has gone from two cents to three cents, and given notice of a probable further increase to four cents. All one-cent papers have made drastic cuts in size and are prepared to carry the condensation still further. They do not find that the cut in size has hurt them with their readers. There has been gossip of The Daily Mail's raising its price to two cents, but it is doubtful whether that will be done in face of the certainty that the Daily Telegraph and Morning Post will stay at their old price of two cents. When the war broke out there was a perpendicular drop in advertising revenue. There has been a gradual recovery, although conditions are not yet entirely normal. The advertising outlook is encouraging, as the shops almost universally report good trade. London streets were never so crowded as at present. Visitors from the country and the Continent compete with London housewives in hunting bargains regardless of the war time.

GERMANY PLANNED TO TAKE PHILIPPINES

Dewey Quoted as Saying Admiral von Diederichs Was There to be Governor General.

Senator William Alden Smith, who addressed the annual dinner of the Michigan Society at the Hotel Astor last night, said that Admiral Dewey had told him two weeks before he died that Admiral von Diederichs, who commanded the German Fleet at Manila during the Spanish-American war, was there to take possession of the Philippine Islands in the name of Germany, which had agreed to buy them from Spain.

"Admiral Dewey told me within two weeks before he died," said Senator Smith, "that von Diederichs arrived at Manila Bay with orders to seize them and with an appointment as the first Governor General. He said he had learned that negotiations between Spain and Germany had been going on for some time, that the consent of Spain to sell had been obtained, and that the price had been fixed. You see that there were other hands in the Far Eastern situation in 1898."

After the dinner Senator Smith said that his conversation had been held with Admiral Dewey in the offices of the Naval Strategy Board in the presence of several witnesses.

FRICK BUYS FOUR BOUCHERS

Reported to Have Paid $200,000 for Paintings Representing Seasons.

Four paintings by Boucher, the French painter of joyous scenes, have been purchased by Henry C. Frick for the reported price of $200,000. They represent the four seasons: "The Charms of Spring," "Pleasures of Summer," "Joys of Autumn," and the "Amusements of Winter." They were painted for Mme. de Pompadour, the famous French beauty. Since that time they have passed through the hands of several collectors.

NEWS PRINT MAKER OPPOSES ARBITER

P. T. Dodge Against Action by the Trade Commission on Price Problem.

COMMITTEES TO BE CHOSEN

Chicago Conferees Will Name Them to Seek Relief in Coming Federal Report.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—An informal conference of a hundred or more newspaper publishers with several manufacturers of news print paper was held here today.

Those present, representing the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Print Paper Manufacturers' Association, voted to appoint committees to meet immediately after delivery of the report on the print paper situation next week by the Federal Trade Commission. The committees are to see if knowledge gained from the report points the way to an adjustment of the problem.

The publishers agreed that the present high price of paper has placed the newspaper publishing business in a position so hazardous and menacing that a remedy must be found without delay.

The manufacturers asserted that the increased cost of production justified present prices. Many of the publishers favored an agreement by both sides to abide by any price set by the Federal Trade Commission. The seriousness of the situation was shown by the intense earnestness of those who spoke and of those who only listened. Meals were forgotten.

Among those active in the meeting were George H. Mead, P. T. Dodge, President of the International Paper Company; Alex Smith, Managing Director of the Abitibi (Can.) Paper Company; E. W. Backus of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company, J. A. Bothwell and F. A. Sabbattan, Canadian paper manufacturers, and E. B. Sterling, manager of the West End (N. Y.) Paper Company. The publishers included Victor F. Lawson, Chicago; Roy D. Keehn, Chicago; Frank P. Glass, Montgomery, Ala., Chairman of the Print Paper Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association; E. H. Baker, Cleveland; E. B. Stahlman, Nashville, and Lafayette Young, Jr., Des Moines.

The manufacturers did not have the precise figures which the publishers sought from them in support of the assertions that their prices are justified. It was said that local conditions varied so that this was impossible. Labor was hard to get, wages were from 50 to 100 per cent. higher, transportation facilities were insufficient.

Mr. Bothwell said that he had to pay $15 for pulp wood that cost $8 a year ago. He said the snow was exceptionally deep in parts of Quebec Province, that a short cut of pulp wood was being made, and that many mills would be closed by October for lack of raw material.

Mr. Mead indicated that he thought the Federal Trade Commission could solve the problem, either as the agent of a gentlemen's agreement or through obtaining additional power from Congress to enforce its findings. To this Mr. Dodge was opposed.

"When the Government starts to take control of our business, the International Paper Company will turn its machinery to other uses," he asserted. He reminded those present that he and his colleagues had no power to bind other manufacturers to any course of action. He was of the opinion that the two sides could settle their differences without intervention of any third party.

Mr. Smith stirred up a little feeling by saying that in his opinion Mr. Glass's committee had not shown a spirit of full co-operation.

"You have questioned our sincerity, have you not?" he asked the publisher.

Mr. Glass, with some heat, admitted that he had thought the manufacturers' committee had sought delay.

The manufacturers, answering questions from small publishers, said that they had no objection to co-operative buying of paper and would give the same rates as to the larger publishers.

Mr. Dodge declared that no matter what the commission or Congress might do, most of the 1917 paper already has been contracted for. He said that inquiry among publishers developed that the demand for the year was for 50,000 tons more than the visible supply.

The commission in its investigation determined the cost of production for the first six months of 1916, and closely approximated the cost for the first four months of the latter half of the year. Mr. Lawson remarked that the publishers have confidence in the commission.

"Why not let them determine the cost right now?" he asked.

There was no response from the makers.

Mr. Sabbatan and Mr. Bothwell said that as near as they could calculate the cost of producing a ton of print paper had increased $26 in the last year.

Alexander Smith, Managing Director of the Abitibi Paper Company of Iroquois Falls, Canada, said:

"Publishers are bearing the cost of inefficiency in the business of papermaking. The chief reason for the high cost of print paper is mismanagement of the business of papermaking. This mismanagement has continued for the last twenty years. Capitalists will not invest in the papermaking business because they know that this inefficiency exists in the business."

Mr. Glass read a prospectus issued by a Chicago firm for the bonds of the Abitibi Paper Company, which stated that the company was making $15 a ton on paper and the probabilities were that this would be increased to $30 a ton profit. To this Mr. Smith replied:

"I would not go into any paper company that was not making at least $12 a ton. The statement that the Abitibi Company may make a profit of $30 a ton is mere conjecture."

AUTOGRAPHS BRING $14,459.

George D. Smith Pays $775 for Letter Signed by Washington.

The sale of letters to Mrs. Sarah Josepha Hale, Major Gen. David Hunter, and other autographs, was concluded at the Anderson Galleries yesterday. The total for the session was $8,383.25. The grand total is $14,459.35.

George D. Smith paid the highest price, $775, for Catalogue No. 359, an important autograph letter, signed, of George Washington, believed to be unpublished. It is four pages folio and is dated Philadelphia, Oct. 28, 1777. It bears the unusual signature: "Gen. G. Washington."

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled.

Title I.—Special Preparedness Fund.

Section 1. That the receipts from the tax imposed by Title II. and one-third of the receipts from the tax imposed by Title III. of this act shall constitute a separate fund in the Treasury to be used only for the expenditures incurred under the act entitled "An act making appropriations for the support of the army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, and for other purposes," approved Aug. 29, 1916; the act entitled "An act making appropriations for the naval service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1917, and for other purposes," approved Aug. 29, 1916, and the act entitled "An act making appropriations for fortifications and other works of defense, for the armament thereof, for the procurement of heavy ordnance for trial and service, and for other purposes," approved July 6, 1916, or any other act or acts subsequent thereto making appropriations for army, navy, or fortification purposes. In addition to such receipts from the taxes imposed under Titles II. and III. of this act, there shall be credited annually, beginning with the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, to such separate fund the sum of $175,000,000, such sum being the estimated additional revenue to be derived under the act entitled "An act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved Sept. 8, 1916, in excess of the revenue to be derived under then existing laws: Provided that the Secretary of the Treasury may use such fund for other purposes, but such fund shall be reimbursed for any portion thereof so used.

Title II.—Excess Profits Tax.

Section 200—That when used in this title:

The term "Corporation" includes joint-stock companies or associations, and insurance companies;

The term "United States" means only the States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and the District of Columbia; and,

The term "Taxable Year" means the twelve months ended Dec. 31, except in the case of a corporation or partnership allowed to fix its own fiscal year, in which case it means such fiscal year. The first taxable year shall be the year ending Dec. 31, 1917.

Section 201. That, in addition to the taxes under existing laws, there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid for each taxable year upon the net income of every corporation and partnership organized, authorized, or existing under the laws of the United States or of any State, Territory, or district thereof, no matter how created or organized, excepting income derived from the business of life, health, and accident insurance, combined in one policy, issued on the weekly premium payment plan, a tax of eight per centum of the amount by which such net income exceeds the sum of (A) $5,000 and (B) eight per centum of the actual capital invested.

Every foreign corporation and partnership, including corporations and partnerships of the Philippine Islands and Porto Rico, shall pay for each taxable year a like tax upon the amount by which its net income received from all sources within the United States exceeds the sum of (A) eight per centum of the actual capital invested and used or employed in the business in the United States, and (B) that proportion of $5,000 which the entire actual capital invested and used or employed in the business in the United States bears to the entire actual capital invested; and in case no such capital is used or employed in the business in the United States the tax shall be imposed upon that portion of such net income which is in excess of the sum of (A) eight per centum of that proportion of the entire actual capital invested and used or employed in the business which the net income from sources within the United States bears to the entire net income and (B) that proportion of $5,000 which the net income from sources within the United States bears to the entire net income.

Section 202. That for the purpose of this title, actual capital invested means (1) actual cash paid in, (2) the actual cash value at the time of payment of assets other than cash paid in, and (3) paid in or earned surplus and undivided profits used or employed in the business, but does not include money or other property borrowed by the corporation or partnership.

Provided, That for the purpose of this title a partnership shall have the same privilege with reference to fixing its fiscal year as is accorded corporations under Section 13 (A) of Title I. of such act of Sept. 8, 1916.

And provided, further, That where a corporation or partnership makes return prior to March 1, 1918, covering its own fiscal year, and includes therein any income received during the calendar year ending Dec. 31, 1916, the tax herein imposed shall be that proportion of the tax based upon such full fiscal year which the time from Jan. 1, 1917, to the end of such fiscal year bears to the full fiscal year.

Section 204—That corporations exempt from tax under the provisions of Section 11 of Title I. of the act, approved Sept. 8, 1916, and partnerships carrying on or doing the same business shall be exempt from the provisions of this title and the tax imposed by this title shall not attach to incomes of partnerships derived from agriculture or from personal services.

Section 205—That every corporation having a net income of $5,000 or more for the taxable year making a return under Title I. of such act of Sept. 8, 1916, shall, for the purposes of this title, include in such return a detailed statement of the actual capital invested.

Every partnership having a net income of $5,000 or more for the taxable year shall render a correct return of the income of the partnership for the taxable year, setting forth specifically the actual capital invested and the gross income for such year and the deductions hereinafter allowed. Such returns shall be rendered at the same time and in the same manner and form as is prescribed for income tax returns under Title I. of such act of Sept. 8, 1916. In computing net income of a partnership for the purposes of this title there shall be allowed like deductions as are allowed to individuals in Sections 5 (A) and 6 (A) of such act of Sept. 8, 1916.

Section 206. That all administrative special and general provisions of law, including the laws in relation to the assessment, remission, collection, and refund of internal revenue taxes not heretofore specifically repealed and not inconsistent with the provisions of this title, are hereby extended and made applicable to all the provisions of this title and to the tax herein imposed, and all provisions of Title I. of such act of September 8, 1916, relating to returns and payment of taxes therein imposed, including penalties, are hereby made applicable to the tax required by this title.

Sec. 207. That the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall make all necessary regulations for carrying out the provisions of this title, and may require any corporation or partnership subject to the provisions of this title to furnish him with such facts, data, and information as in his judgment are necessary to collect the tax provided for in this title.

Title III.—Estate Tax.

Sec. 300. That Section 201, Title II. of the act entitled "An act to increase the revenue and for other purposes," approved Sept. 8, 1916, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 201. That a tax (hereinafter in this title referred to as the tax) equal to the following percentages of the value of the net estate, to be determined as provided in Section 203, is hereby imposed upon the transfer of the net estate of every decedent dying after the passage of this act, whether a resident or nonresident of the United States.

One and one-half per centum of the amount of such net estate not in excess of $50,000;

Three per centum of the amount by which such net estate exceeds $50,000 and does not exceed $150,000;

Four and one-half per centum of the amount by which such net estate exceeds $150,000 and does not exceed $250,000;

Six per centum of the amount by which such net estate exceeds $250,000 and does not exceed $450,000;

Seven and one-half per centum of the amount by which such net estate exceeds $450,000 and does not exceed $1,000,000;

Nine per centum of the amount by which such net estate exceeds $1,000,000 and does not exceed $2,000,000;

Sec. 301. That the tax on the transfer of the net estate of decedents dying between Sept. 8, 1916, and the passage of this act shall be computed at the rates originally prescribed in the act approved Sept. 8, 1916

Title Four—Miscellaneous.

Sec. 400.—That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to borrow on the credit of the United States from time to time such sums as in his judgment may be required to meet public expenditures on account of the Mexican situation, the construction of the armor plate plant, the construction of the Alaskan Railway, and the purchase of the Danish West Indies, or to reimburse the Treasury for such expenditures and to prepare and issue therefor bonds of the United States not exceeding in the aggregate $100,000,000, in such form as he may prescribe, bearing interest payable quarterly at a rate not exceeding three per centum per annum; and such bonds shall be payable, principal and interest, in United States gold coin of the present standard of value, and both principal and interest shall be exempt from all taxes or duties of the United States, as well as from taxation in any form by or under State, municipal, or local authority, and shall not be receivable by the Treasurer of the United States as security for the issue of circulating notes to national banks;

And provided further that, in addition to such issue of bonds, the Secretary of the Treasury may prepare and issue for the purposes specified in this section any portion of the bonds of the United States now available for issue under authority of Section 39 of the act entitled "An act to provide revenue, equalize duties, and encourage the industries of the United States, and for other purposes," approved Aug. 5, 1909;

Provided, further, that the issue of bonds under authority of this act, and any Panama Canal bonds hereafter issued under authority of Section 39 of the act entitled "An act to provide revenue, equalize duties, and encourage the industries of the United States, and for other purposes," approved Aug. 5, 1909, shall be made redeemable and payable at such times within fifty years after the date of their issue as the Secretary of the Treasury in his discretion may deem advisable.

Section 401.—That Section 32 of an act entitled "An act providing ways and means to meet war expenditures and for other purposes," approved June 13, 1898, as amended by Section 40 of an act entitled "An act to provide revenue, equalize duties, and encourage the industries of the United States, and for other purposes," approved Aug. 5, 1909, be, and the same is hereby, amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 32. That the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to borrow from time to time, at a rate of interest not exceeding 3 per centum per annum, such sum or sums as, in his judgment, may be necessary to meet public expenditures, and to issue therefor certificates of indebtedness in such form and in such denominations as he may prescribe, and each certificate so issued shall be payable with the interest accrued thereon at such time, not exceeding one year from the date of its issue, as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe:

"Provided, that the sum of such certificates outstanding shall at no time exceed $300,000,000, and the provisions of existing law respecting counterfeiting and other fraudulent practices are hereby extended to the bonds and certificates of indebtedness authorized by this act."

Returns of Dividends.

Section 402.—That Title 1 of the act entitled "An act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved Sept. 8, 1916, be amended by adding to Part 3 a new section, as follows:

"Sec. 26.—Every corporation, joint stock company or association, or insurance company subject to the tax herein imposed, when required by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, shall render a correct return, duly verified under oath, of its payments of dividends, whether made in cash or its equivalent or in stock, including the names and addresses of stockholders and the number of shares owned by each, in such form and manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury."

OF INTEREST TO MILLIONAIRES

How the Inheritance Tax Works Out—The Billionaire's Estate Must Pay $150,000,000.

First $50,000, 1½ per cent	$750
Next $100,000, 3 per cent	3,000
Next $100,000, 4½ per cent	4,500
Next $200,000, 6 per cent	12,000
Next $550,000, 7½ per cent	41,250
Second $1,000,000, 9 per cent	90,000
Third $1,000,000, 10½ per cent	105,000
Fourth $1,000,000, 12 per cent	120,000
Fifth $1,000,000, 13½ per cent	135,000
Total tax on a $5,000,000 estate	$511,500

The tax on amounts in excess of $5,000,000 is 15 per cent. On this basis the tax on large estates will be as follows:

Net Value of Estates.	Tax.
$10,000,000	$1,261,500
25,000,000	3,511,500
50,000,000	7,265,500
100,000,000	14,761,500
500,000,000	74,761,500
1,000,000,000	149,761,500

Should John D. Rockefeller leave as a net estate the billion he has been credited with, it will be seen that his heirs will be taxed nearly $150,000,000. Should his net estate be of only half that value the tax gatherer will still reap a neat harvest. Tidy sums will be collected from the estates of the ordinary run of men worth merely $50,000, to $100,000,000.

Of course State inheritance taxes will have to be added to the figures given above.

JEWELS OF CHINA'S RULERS BRING $3,675

Oriental treasures from the Yamanaka collection at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon sold for $77,385 for 194 numbers. Crown jewels of the Emperor and Empress of China, with forests of little trees blossoming in semi-precious stones, were features of the sale. The new sales gallery was crowded. Many of the most prominent people in the city were present. The crown jewels were not as gorgeous as was expected when they were announced, chiefly the yellow 22 karat Chinese gold and pearls, and the prices were comparatively low.

The Empress's crown ornament brought the highest price among these, $851, going to Bernet, agent. It had a crown-shaped base surmounted by two phoenixes, emblem of the Empress, one above the other, surmounted with an inverted pear-shaped finial of gray mother of pearl. The prices for the other crown ornaments ranged from $425 to $550 each, and all seven were bought by men. They brought a total of $3,675. All were possessions of the Ch'ing dynasty, and were purchased at the sale of the Manchu treasures in Peking in the Spring of 1916.

Parish Watson paid the highest price for an individual article, a Ming decorated jardinière, with brilliant emerald green exterior and flowers in relief, going to him for $1,800; a similar jardinière of the same period with decoration in high relief of galloping horses and flying birds, went to him for $1,300, and he paid $1,100 for an apple-green, bottle-shaped vase of the K'ang-hsi period.

NO PLACE TO BE ILL.

Small Apartments Lead to Overcrowding of Hospitals.

New York hospitals are overcrowded, it was explained yesterday by several physicians and superintendents of the leading institutions, because the method of living has been so radically changed within recent years. The average apartment is not a convenient place for sickness either for the patient or the other occupants.

"The demand for private rooms in hospitals has been steadily increasing for several years," said Charles B. Grimshaw, Superintendent of Roosevelt Hospital, yesterday. "All of our private rooms have been full for several weeks, and since the first of the year there has been scarcely a day that we have not been obliged to turn patients away. As it is, we have a waiting list all the time.

"This increasing demand is not due solely to the fact that at certain periods there may be temporary epidemics, as has been the case this Winter with the grip and other bronchial troubles. It is primarily due to the fact that New Yorkers have given up their private homes for small apartments. In the small apartment rooms a sick person cannot have the attention, the air, or the privacy of a house, and hundreds of persons who are not critically ill and who under former conditions could be well cared for in a private house, now go to the hospital. We need rooms at from $2.50 to $3.50 a day. I believe that if a proper hospital building were erected with from 100 to 150 rooms averaging $3 a day each it would be self-supporting at once."

House Passes the Rivers Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The annual Rivers and Harbors Appropriation bill, carrying $38,000,000, including more than $10,000,000 for new projects, was passed by the House today by a vote of 221 to 131. It now goes to the Senate.

M. Ysaye writes as follows of the Chickering

"It is a pleasure to speak of the lovely tone of the Chickering Piano, which with its round, rich pliable quality blends with that of my violin to perfection. An art and a craft brought to such a superlative degree as that in the creation of Chickering Pianos reflects credit upon the ambitions of Americans.

To the Chickering Piano, internationally known, I extend my congratulations."—Eugen Ysaye.

Even at regular prices good underwear of this class is scarce—very scarce; not alone is labor high and difficult to obtain, but as well, woolen fabrics themselves.

The garments which we place on sale today are classified by their makers as "seconds," but this simply means that here and there a "broken" thread has made its appearance, and has been mended.

There is positively nothing in the little "hurts" to affect the wear in the slightest degree.

All this underwear comes in medium or heavy weights, and the qualities are such as we usually carry in our stocks at 98c to $1.95.

There are just about 3,600 garments in the collection from which you may take your choice today at 79c.

INDICT BRECKINRIDGE AS SWANN REPLIES

Grand Jurors Charge District Attorney's Accuser with Bribery in Strike Scandal.

WHITMAN DEFERS ACTION

Governor Fixes Wednesday for Argument, and Probably Will Name a Commissioner to Hear Testimony

District Attorney Swann's reply to the charges of the City Club demanding his removal from office was filed with Governor Whitman in Albany yesterday. It was made public here also, and at the same time the Grand Jury filed an indictment for bribery against Lucian S. Breckinridge, who, with ex-Judge James A. Delehanty, had made the original charges on which the City Club based its complaint against Mr. Swann.

Assistant District Attorney William Dean Embree carried Mr. Swann's reply to the Governor, and, at his request, Mr. Whitman fixed next Wednesday for the presentation of arguments on a motion to dismiss the charges should Mr. Swann decide to make this move.

The District Attorney's formal defense to the charges of misconduct in office was an elaboration of the statements he has issued here in his own behalf, and asserted again that in procuring the dismissal of bail in the cases of indicted labor union leaders he had not fulfilled a political debt, but had exercised proper discretion in failing to press to trial cases in which the character of his witnesses was so bad as to satisfy him of the unlikelihood of conviction.

It was regarded as certain in Albany last night, according to THE TIMES correspondent, that the Governor would name a commissioner to hear testimony on the charges, and the name of George L. Ingraham, ex-Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, a Democrat and an intimate friend of the Governor, was mentioned in this connection.

The indictment against Mr. Breckenridge was found several days ago, but was not filed. A bench warrant was issued yesterday, but before it could be served Mr. Breckinridge presented himself before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions. He was accompanied by Martin W. Littleton, his attorney, and gave the $2,500 bail fixed by the court.

The indictment recites the charge already made by Mr. Swann, that while Breckinridge was a special Assistant District Attorney charged with investigating and prosecuting crimes related to labor troubles, he took on Feb. 3 last $500 from agents of the Division Street Cloak and Suit Protective Association, "unlawfully and feloniously promising that whenever any one should be charged with an offense against any person directly or indirectly connected with the association he "would procure and assist in procuring evidence against them and would prosecute the persons so charged and would do so more vigorously than he otherwise would have done" and "would use the official position occupied by him to secure more adequate police protection for the aid of the association and its agents named."

Two other counts allege the same set of circumstances and each charges a misdemeanor under a separate section of the Penal Code.

In addition to a general denial, Mr. Swann's reply to the Governor pointed out that the indictments in controversy had been found months before he took office, and asserted that Mr. Breckinridge had had ample opportunity to try the cases before Mr. Swann entered office.

The District Attorney attacked Max Sulkess, whom he charged with having organized a pseudo labor union for the purpose of destroying the real unions in the interest of sweat shop proprietors, saying Sulkess had run a "school of perjury," had been an accelerator of much of the disorder of which he made complaint, and had acted as assistant to Breckinridge in furnishing evidence.

Mr. Swann told of cases "recommended out" by his predecessors and included a letter from Judge Crain of General Sessions, asserting the Judge's belief in the good faith of Mr. Swann in recommending the discharge of "certain defendants."

The additional charge of the City Club that he had "tried to intimidate and coerce Breckinridge," the District Attorney characterized as most vague, and held himself justified in having given the circumstances of Breckinridge's alleged misconduct to the newspapers since, he said, Breckinridge himself had started the newspaper controversy.

TUXEDO AND QUAKER CITY PLAYERS IN RACQUETS FINAL

TWO PAIRS SURVIVE IN RACQUETS FRAY

Mortimer and Pell to Meet Wear and Brooke in Final for National Title.

Spirited competition marked the play in the semi-final round of the national racquets doubles tournament at the Racquet and Tennis Club yesterday. When the final round is contested to-day Stanley G. Mortimer and Clarence C. Pell, representing the Tuxedo Racquet and Tennis Club, will test their strength against the runners-up for the national title a year ago in Boston, J. W. Wear and George H. Brooke of Philadelphia. Mortimer and Pell advanced in the play yesterday by defeating the Boston team of Percy D. Haughton and J. W. Cutler in a thrilling six-game encounter with the score 15—7, 15—7, 17—14, 7—15, 14—17, 15—7. The final round bracket went to Brooke and Wear when they defeated the Chicago team of A. Stillwell and G. A. Thorne in straight games, 17—14, 18—13, 15—2, 15—9.

The match between Mortimer and Pell and Haughton and Cutler was one of the best that the tournament has brought forth. In the early stages it seemed as if the Bostonians would certainly be vanquished by Pell and Mortimer, one time holders of the racquets doubles championship, without providing serious opposition. Cutler was particularly erratic in the early games, and Haughton could not make up for the weakness in stroking of his partner. This enabled Mortimer and Pell, who at all times played a hard, often brilliant game, to run off to a three game lead.

Unexpected strength, however, developed in the Haughton-Cutler team when the fourth game got under way. Cutler had shown signs of recovering from the slump in his play while the third game was in progress, and in the fourth he set a standard that was a surprise to the opponents and to the spectators. Cutler never did play a speedy game, but his placing during the fourth and fifth games was marvelously accurate, and time and again he drove the ball to the corners so that a return was impossible. This was especially true on service, some of his shots nicking right into the back corners. Twice in succession he scored service aces in the fifth game. With Cutler's game displaying such a marked improvement, and with Haughton still driving with force and skill, Pell and Mortimer found themselves unable to cope successfully for the time being with the situation. The Boston pair took the fourth game at 15—7, but in the next Pell and Mortimer struggled fiercely to pull the match. They did gain the early lead and were almost within sight of victory when a rally was staged by Haughton and Cutler. They set the game and then proceeded to override their opponents, and secured the contest at 17—14. In the sixth game both Mortimer and Pell made some beautiful shots and their steadiness enabled them to gain the victory.

Brooke and Wear did not meet with strong opposition from the Chicago pair, Stillwell and Thorne. The first two games were well contested, but Brooke and Wear always had the reserve power necessary to win the victory. The last two games found the Chicagoans' opposition melting and the Philadelphians had an easy time. They took the third game by the one-sided score of 15—2 and gained the fourth at 15—9.

FULTON TO FIGHT WEINERT.

Browne Arranges Match for Feb. 12 at the Garden.

Grant Hugh Browne, manager of Madison Square Garden, last night matched Charles Weinert and Fred Fulton, heavyweights, to fight at the Garden on Feb. 12. Harry Pollok, manager for Weinert, and Frank Force, manager for Fulton, conferred with Mr. Browne in his apartments at the Hotel McAlpin and signed articles.

The first step toward securing a license to conduct boxing bouts in the Garden was taken by the new owners yesterday when Browne appeared with his attorney at the offices of the State Athletic Commission and made formal application for a license. Browne's application was not definitely acted upon, for the organization which proposes holding bouts in the Garden has yet to be incorporated. This matter is already under way and papers have been sent to Albany.

It is expected that the incorporating documents will be received by Browne next Wednesday and the matter of a license will then be attended to. The name under which the present owners will organize will either be the Tower Realty Company or the Madison Square Garden Corporation, and it will be in this name that the license permitting boxing bouts will be made out. The names of the owners will appear in the application for a license.

A. I. Rudolph, father-manager of Al McCoy, generally recognized as middleweight championship title holder, was in conference with Grant Hugh Browne yesterday for the purpose of arranging a match with Les Darcy. No agreement was reached. Promoter Browne then proceeded to get into communication with George Chip, the New Castle, Penn., middleweight, and expects to talk over terms with the latter some time today. Battling Levinsky is the next choice of Browne for a bout with Darcy in the event that he is unable to come to terms with Chip or McCoy. Agreements for a Darcy-Chip bout give the Australian a percentage of the motion-picture returns in addition to a purse of $25,000.

It developed yesterday that Tex Rickard, the Western promoter, has started negotiations for a site on which to build an arena at 132d and 133d Streets and Riverside Drive. Rickard yesterday visited the real estate manager of the Consolidated Gas Company, owner of the property, to get an idea of the company's attitude in the matter, but nothing definite materialized.

DAWSON TO COACH TIGERS.

Former Union Mentor Will Direct Freshman Sports.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 26.—It has been confirmed here that Frederick T. Dawson, who has been coaching the football, baseball, and basketball teams at Union College, has been engaged as permanent coach of the freshman football and baseball teams at Princeton. His appointment is generally believed to be in line with Coach Rush's attempt to establish a definite and permanent football system under which entering men may receive far more attention than they have had in the past. The matter of appointing other coaches to assist training the eleven next Fall is to be left entirely in the hands of Coach Rush. This was agreed upon at a recent meeting of the Football Committee. So far Rush has made no announcement of his choices.

CALDWELL FORGES AHEAD IN LAST LAP

Boston A. A. Runner Wins 1,000-Yard Event at Young Men's Democratic League Games.

Local distance runners were outgeneraled last night in the games of the Young Men's Democratic League at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory in the feature race at 1,000 yards when Dave Caldwell of Boston A. A. fame trotted out from the pack to a lead and opened about four yards between himself and Sidney Leslie, formerly of the Long Island A. C. and now competing unattached.

Caldwell ran a waiting race, employing all the generalship and cleverness that was expected of this star of Hubtown, and for most of the distance he was satisfied to trail along behind Dick Egan of the Irish-American A. C. and Matt Geis, wearing the colors of the Millrose A. C. Caldwell calculated their strength before the first furlong had been negotiated and was evidently determined to guard against the Long Islander. He never attempted to command the leading position until the start of the last lap was in sight, and then his reserve energy was called forth for the sprint that was to insure victory for him.

The Bostonian shot ahead when the finish was in sight, and by an unexpected spurt he was able to force Leslie into a pocket with Geis and Jim Rowe of the Irish-American A. C. holding the Long Islander close to the inside rail. It was comparatively easy for Caldwell to open up an advantage of ten yards over the pack before Leslie could extricate himself from the pocket, and the winner jogged on to victory while Leslie was exerting his strength to reduce Caldwell's lead from ten to four yards.

Tommy Lennon, the University of Pennsylvania athlete, was the victor in the 300-yard special, scoring in clean-cut fashion by a yard over Irving Howe of the Irish-American A. C. R. George of the New York A. C. was third, and Billy Moore, the Princeton crack, fourth. The luck of the draw for positions had much to do with the result, for Lennon drew the pole and Howe was next. The pair shot to the front while the others were trying to break their way through, and the race was between them all the way. Howe got to Lennon's shoulder half way around the last lap, but the Pennsylvania man was able to retain his lead on the turn and had plenty left at the finish.

B. Pearman, the New York A. C. walker, won the one-mile handicap from scratch, and was credited with the fast time of 6 minutes 46 seconds.

While Eddie Goodwin and A. Attardi were racing for the lead in the two-mile bicycle scratch event both came to grief, and the finish was fought out by the men who had been trailing the leading pair. George Wagner of the New York A. C. profited by the accident and finished first.

A field of about 200 starters ran through the city streets over a course approximating six miles as a curtain raiser to the games. F. J. Burke of the St. Joseph's Young Men's Association profited by the liberal handicap of 5:30, thirty seconds less than the limit, and won without much trouble in 36:00. A clubmate, S. Duggan, trailed in second place, from the same handicap mark. The interest in the third man was in the fight for the time prize honors, because of the entry of Harry McGlan of the Paulist A. C., who has developed an almost monotonous persistence in winning time prizes from the scratch marks. Last night, however, McGlan fell a victim to stitch in his side, and could only finish seventy-sixth in 38:35. The winner turned up in [illegible] of the [illegible] A. C., who was from the [illegible] mark [illegible] to finish in [illegible]. His place at the tape was forty-fourth.

The St. Joseph's team captured the team prize in the road run, in which thirteen clubs had teams running [illegible]. The St. Joseph's Club also won the trophy for the club scoring the most points in the meet. The summaries:

ICE CRAFT BREAK THROUGH.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Jan. 26.—Two of three ice yachts sailing in an eight-mile race over the North Shrewsbury Club's triangular course in a strong west wind accompanied by snow squalls, broke through the ice today. As one runner sank beneath the surface the wind blew the boats over and the runner planks sank in the muddy bottom of the river about eight feet below. The sailor and sheet tender of each boat held on to the rail of the cockpit and crawled on the ice to safety. With the aid of planks and ropes the ice yachts were finally pulled out and righted, and except for the sails, which struck the ice and water, there was no damage.

Robert Johnson's Gull, Grant and Morford's Tyro, and Thomas Irving Brown's Say When were making fast time over the course when the Gull, handled by Ferdinand White and Lester Conover, broke through a thin sheet of ice off Robbins Point. A short time later the Tyro, sailed by Oscar Brand and Walter Thompson, which had jumped into the lead, went through the ice off the steamboat dock near the home stake. With the Gull and Tyro disabled and stuck in the mud, Allie and Oliver Haviland, sailing the Say When, decided to take no chances of meeting a similar fate and put in for the strong ice near shore. With some repairs and tuning up work, these yachts will be ready for a race scheduled for tomorrow.

Much interest is being taken by the ice yachtsmen in the proposed 100-mile race with relay crews, which will be sailed as soon as ice and wind conditions permit. This will be the first event of its kind in the annals of ice yachting.

Carty had five stymies against him during the day, with four in the morning which left him with a dead one hole at noon. G. A. Bobyne, Boston, won over J. R. Martin, Minneapolis, in the third flight final, and J. V. [illegible], Merion, took fourth flight honors in a runaway match from J. V. Davidson, Clearwater, Fla., by 10 and 9.

FRATERNITY PLANS MEETING FOR FANS

Will Hire a Hall and Carry On Spellbinding Campaign to Present Strike Case.

The Baseball Players Fraternity is planning a campaign to place its side of the strike agitation directly before the baseball fans. President Fultz will call a mass meeting of fans at one of the theatres here, and speeches will be made by the players' leader and by some of the players. Fultz thinks that the players' cause has been misrepresented a great deal, and the fraternity wishes to place the facts of their differences with organized ball before the fans themselves.

It has not been decided when this meeting will be held, but if successful it will probably be followed by the same sort of meetings in other cities. Fultz does not know yet what players will perform best as orators, but some of them have had enough experience in wrangling with umpires to be able to put up some kind of argument before a jury which is not unfriendly.

When the strikers start their spellbinding campaign the fraternity's battle with the magnates will take on the attitude of a real strike. The baseball fans who were asked for an opinion of the open meeting crusade stated that if the players would talk in a theatre as they do on the ballfield they would attend in droves. They also suggested that the idea might be developed and a debate arranged between the players and magnates. It would be an easy matter to get the services of the umpires at the debates, invested with the same authority as they are on the ballfield. It would add a familiar touch for the umpires to shoot. The batteries at this debate will be: Wheezer Dell and Chief Meyers for Brooklyn and Johnson and Tener for the magnates. Umpire Bill Byron would gladly take the job.

Two more Brooklyn players yesterday joined President Ebbets's troupe of balky ball tossers. George Cutshaw and Wheezer Dell both sent word from Florida that they would remain true to the fraternity until the strike agitation had been settled. Cutshaw, who had a war-time salary, is said to have received a cut in salary, but Dell was offered the same figures he had last season.

President Thomas J. Hickey of the American Association has denied President Fultz's statement that eighty-five players of that organization are pledged not to sign. President Hickey sent out notices to all his players yesterday urging them to return to the old-fashioned rivalry that made our game the greatest competitive sport in the world. "There is too much of the Damon and Pythias stuff on the ballfield nowadays," he said. "With this idea of action in the game, a player of one team will throw his arms around the neck of his rival instead of watching for an opportunity to sneak in an extra base. I do not mean I want rowdy tactics, but I want to see each team come out with blood in its eye and with the players strangers to each other while the game is in progress."

ALEXANDER OUT FOR COIN.

Phillies' Star Pitcher Demands $15,000 Yearly on Contract.

The holdout of Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phillies has become a very serious problem for President Baker. Baker announced yesterday that he had sent a letter to Alexander refusing the player's demand for a three-year contract at $15,000 a year. The Phillies' owner told the pitcher that he was astonished at his demands and also stated that his offer of $8,000 a year stood and would not be increased by any great amount. Baker also stated that on account of his salary Catcher Bill Killifer of the Phillies had refused to sign. [illegible] Douglas and Prendergast. Both are former Federal Leaguers and do not belong to the fraternity.

CRESCENTS TROUNCE HOCKEY CLUB SEVEN

Crescent A. C.	3	0	1.000
Irish-American A. C.	2	1	.666
Hockey Club	1	2	.333
St. Nicholas S. C.	0	3	.000

The hockey match between the Crescents and the Hockey Club at St. Nicholas Rink last night waxed so warm that there were two or three gingery side scraps, aside from the main controversy. The New Mooners from Brooklyn won, 5 to 1, but they did not make a move throughout the game that was not hotly objected to by the Hockey Club players. With Roach, Des Jardins, McCarthy, and Conway on the forward line, the Crescents opened up a wide path right up to the Hockey Club goal.

In the second half Reggie Young of the Hockey Club and Tom McCarthy of the Crescents came together hard, and went down in a heap. They began to blame each other strenuously, and were separated. Just as soon as they were free they began again, and it required the services of everybody on the ice to effect peace. Finally the players were sentenced to finally each other's company off the ice for three minutes. A little later Browne of the Crescents got into a jam with Lewis, the Hockey Club goal guardian. Lewis immediately lost his interest in the hockey game and left the net to swap right swings and left hooks with big Browne. While Lewis was away from his post, Conway shot a goal for the Crescents. Aside from these few particular outbursts, everybody in the game was [illegible] battered and bruised on the ice or against the side boards.

The Hockey Club was without the services of the two Howard boys, who played such a good game last week. The Crescents were far superior to their opponents in team work and accurate shooting. Mickey Roach contributed the first goal for the Crescents on a shot from scrimmage, while Des Jardins raced the whole length of the rink and shot the second one from the side. Roach scored the third in the second half [illegible] without assistance. Jimmy Britton tallied the only Hockey Club goal when he snatched the disk from Des Jardins and cut his circuitous way down the rink, cleverly dodging every opposition, and shooting the rubber through the net. [illegible] The Crescents played together with perfect unison after that and after Des Jardins carried the rubber down the rink [illegible] McCarthy [illegible] another goal for the New Mooners.

For a time hockey was forgotten and the attention of the spectators [illegible] watching the players get rid of an abundance of bad temper. When the Young-McCarthy bout had been settled [illegible] the Browne-Lewis bout got under way, and it was then [illegible] Conway shot the final goal for the Crescents. The line-up and summary:

ROWING BODY PRIES INTO ROONEY CASE

Supervisor Lee Defends Champion—Explains His Duties as Playground Attendant.

An investigation of the amateur standing of Thomas J. Rooney, national single sculls champion, has been instituted by the Investigation Committee of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, of which Frederick R. Fortmeyer is Chairman. The investigation is the sequel to the charges which were made against Rooney recently in several newspaper articles, the allegation being made that his position as superintendent of one of the city playgrounds put in jeopardy his amateur status.

The first step in the investigation, which has been started by Mr. Fortmeyer, was in discovering just what Rooney's duties were with the Park Department, and to this end he addressed a communication to William J. Lee, Supervisor of Recreation. In the reply it was learned that Rooney's official title is Playground Attendant. His duties are defined, and Mr. Lee says that if they make Rooney a professional every public school teacher directing games and calisthenics is also a professional. Had Rooney not been confident that he was preserving his amateur status in taking a playground position, Mr. Lee says, he could have been attached to the Department of Parks in a clerical position which would have failed to raise a storm.

In defining Rooney's duties the letter to Mr. Fortmeyer reads:

His duties consist of the supervision and care of the public parks, playgrounds and recreation centres to which he happens to be assigned, namely, the care and supervision of the activities of the swings, seesaws, slides, and athletic apparatus for children and adults, together with assisting in the supervision and direction of the various games and exercises, and the promotion of health and character.

Continuing Mr. Lee says:

If Mr. Rooney's duties as a playground attendant, dealing mainly with amateurs and the children of the city playgrounds, where no admission is paid or dues received, make him a professional, then under the present statutes the physical and military training as required by the State of New York and in accordance with the syllabus just issued by John H. Finley, President of the State Board of Regents, every public school teacher or private school teacher who assists in the instruction of games, calisthenics and exercises throughout the entire State are professionals, and all officers in the Police Department, the National Guard and physical and military training camps, while under pay to teach and direct games and physical training exercises, are professionals.

In the past it has been our practice to clear out our surplus stock of both heavy and light weight clothing about this time of year. There was no profit in it, but even if we averaged only raw cost or less, the old stock could be replaced with new to the advantage of our manufacturing department.

That was when prices were comparatively stable. Now conditions are different.

The garments we are selling to-day were made of piece goods bought a year ago and before they were offered to you the fabrics had advanced materially. Our prices, however, were based on actual cost and not on those advances.

We have about completed our contracts for next Winter's supply of woolens, for we have to work nearly a year ahead, and there has been a still further advance in all wool cloths. Next Winter you must pay more for good clothes or wear poorer quality, and the rate at which cotton is being mixed with wool for the general trade would surprise the uninitiated.

No cotton in ours, so long as the acid holds out to test each delivery; and our woolen mills know that we exact the same high standard of absolutely all wool and fast color, and seldom try to put it over on us.

Don't you see that this means that (if sure of your dealer) what you buy to-day is better value than can be had next Winter for the same money?

NEARLY $10,000 FOR ACTORS' FUND

LAURETTE TAYLOR AS PEG

Julia Arthur Plays Juliet and the Climax of "The Girl of the Golden West" Is Revived.

In the unusually abundant entertainment provided yesterday afternoon at the Century as a benefit for the Actors' Fund, the outstanding events were the momentary reappearance of Laurette Taylor as Peg, the revival of the big blood-dropping scene from "The Girl of the Golden West," and the appearance of Julia Arthur as Juliet. The benefit cleared nearly $10,000.

The program was enigmatic as to the nature of Miss Taylor's contribution to the afternoon, and when the rising curtain disclosed the familiar setting for "Peg o' My Heart," there was a roar of welcome from the audience. Miss Taylor and Henry Stanford played there the scene of the first meeting between Peg and Jerry. It was her first return to the curls and the brogue of her most celebrated rôle since she came back from London. Everything was as it used to be—except Michael, who seemed to have grown into a cross between a mastiff and a Russian wolfhound, so that when poor Peg walked in with him she looked for all the world as if she were carrying a young horse in her arms.

Frank Keenan and Blanche Bates recaptured the fine old thrill in the famous Belasco melodrama of the golden West, and Miss Arthur, assisted by a nicely fervent Romeo in the person of Robert W. Fraser, pleased mightily in the balcony scene, although she had to say, "Thou knows't the mask of night is on my face," the while the electrician bathed her in the most overwhelming amber spotlight in the Century's possession.

Others who contributed to the entertainment were Lucile Watson, in a sketch of her own writing, called "Lotus," and Mary Lawton and Blanche Yurka in Strindberg's extraordinary, "The Stronger," a dramatic experiment that would naturally be lost in the vast spaces of the Century, because the more important of the two characters speaks only by the expressions of her face.

Then there were contributions from Leo Beers and Leo Carrillo, stories from Maelyn Arbuckle, songs from Cecil Cunningham, a delightfully condescending speech from Lillian Russell, some songs and dances by the "Have a Heart" company, and a splendid effort by Herbert's Loop-the-Loop and Leaping Canines, who did just that. Then there was a new waltz composed by Manna Zucca and, toward the end, two orchestral selections, composed and conducted by James K. Hackett, who has taken to music in these later years.

Of all the big program one number only was missing. That was Elsie Ferguson in "The Mouse Trap" by William Dean Howells. It was announced from the stage that Miss Ferguson would not be well enough to appear. The news was greeted by a genuine and gratifying groan.

THE NEW YORK SYMPHONY.

Tschaikowsky's Second Symphony Given—Percy Grainger, Soloist.

The second symphony of Tschaikowsky, which Mr. Damrosch gave at the New York Symphony Society's concert yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall, was a refreshing contrast and relief after the sixth, and even the fifth, which are so often repeated in symphony concerts. It may not show so practiced and skillful a hand as these later works, written when the composer was at the height of his powers; it was composed twenty years before the sixth, when Tschaikowsky was 33 years old. In it he discloses a strong impulse that many of his works do not disclose, or disclose in a less degree, toward the utilization of Russian folksong as material for artistic composition.

Several of such songs make their unmistakable appearance in the music, and are identified and named in Mr. Mason's note upon the program. They give the symphony a strong flavor of its own. Their treatment is as characteristic as the material itself; insistent reiteration, with figurated accompaniment and decoration; "scrutinizing" treatment, as Sir Hunkey calls it, with varied transformations and brilliant orchestral coloring. The result is vigorous and original; and yet it is not difficult to see why this symphony has never laid so strong a hold upon the affections of the musical public as Tschaikowsky's fourth, fifth, and sixth. The performance brought out all the rhythmical character and the striking orchestral effects that the composer put into so strong a light.

Percy Grainger was the soloist, and played Grieg's pianoforte concerto, one of the most familiar of his offerings to this public, and one that he plays with all the masculine energy and sweep that the work requires. It is peculiarly adapted to his style, and his style to it, and together they stirred the audience deeply. The concert began with Beethoven's "Leonore" overture No. 3, played with much emphasis on its dramatic side.

"MARTA" AGAIN WELCOMED.

For the first time since "Marta" was made an occasion for holiday encores on Christmas night, the opera was repeated last evening at the Metropolitan, and again Caruso and his companions drew a great crowd. Hempel and De Luca sang as before, while Flora Perini as Nancy, new to the quartet, was not the least lively of those who masqueraded at the Richmond servants' fair.

In the third act the house set out to force a repetition of the tenor solo, "M'Appari." Four times Conductor Papi signaled the stars to go on, but no one could hear the orchestra, and even a storm of hisses from the subscribers, unusual in this theatre, was lost on the roaring standees. Caruso at last came out, shook his head, and the opera went on to a finish with the recurrence of "Last Rose of Summer" in the closing episode.

THEORIES OF NATIONAL DEFENSE

The "off-hand condemnation" of the Federalized National Guard system expressed in the resolution which the gentlemen of the Maryland League for National Defense presented to the President on Thursday was brusque and not tactful. When the Maryland league declared that the voluntary system upon which we are now relying is utterly and absolutely inadequate for defense and that "on "this point the opinion of those who "know anything whatever about mil-"itary affairs is practically unan-"imous" they were putting it rather strong. There is a division of opinion; possibly some of those who favor the present system really do know something about military affairs. At all events, that is not the way to approach a President of the United States.

President WILSON addressed a few earnest words to his visitors and reminded them that they did not particularly commend their cause to hospitable consideration by that method of presenting it. We should be sorry to believe, however, that in what he said to these Maryland gentlemen he was from conviction defending the Hay act for the federalization of the National Guard. We have had experience under that law, we have made a fair trial, and the results are before the country. No class of the people is more firmly convinced of the failure of the law than the National Guardsmen themselves who were called upon for service on the frontier. The letters of the guardsmen written from Texas, their entirely candid expressions of opinion, show that that is not the way to organize national defense. Their thoughts were of home, they were restive and indignant under the obligation that kept them at service, they were inquiring whether it was "politics" that sent them to the frontier and forced them to remain there. Now, anybody can see that that is not the proper spirit for an army. But the men were the victims of a false system, of an experiment that never should have been tried.

It is true, as the President says, that under a system of compulsory military service men would be withdrawn from civil pursuits. The difference is that the burden would then be equitably distributed. When the National Guardsmen enlisted in their home organizations they had no thought of distant service. They enlisted for very different reasons. But by the very fact of their enlistment as guardsmen they brought themselves within a very small class upon whom was imposed the burden and the toil of defending the frontier. They felt that it was unjust. Under a regular army maintained by a voluntary system, if that would be possible, or under compulsory universal service no soldier in training or at the front would have just cause to feel that he was bearing the burden of others.

But all this pertains to theory. The fact is that under the Hay law we have no army, we are not in the way to get an army. The repeal of that law and the substitution of some sounder method is indispensable to efficient preparation for national defense. In his first preparedness speech, the one delivered at the annual dinner of the Railway Business Association in this city on the evening of Jan. 27, 1916, President WILSON said in speaking of the National Guard, "I for my part am afraid, though "some gentlemen differ with me, that "there is no way in which that force "can be made a direct resource as a "national reserve under national au-"thority." He also said that a system of national defense must be created, it could not be created rapidly, it must be built up "by slow and effective stages." "We must see to it," he continued, "that a sufficient "body of citizens is given the kind "of training which will make them "efficient now if called to the field "in a case of necessity," and he added, "there is much to be done in the "meantime."

There is, indeed, much to be done. There is as much to be done now, a year later, as there was at the time the President spoke. Congress has made generous appropriations for army and navy increase, and we have as yet very little idea how we are going to spend the money, although the national legislators are fertile in suggesting methods for raising it by taxation. Unfortunate as may have been their method of expressing it, the men of the Maryland League were right in declaring that under present laws we shall be unable to make adequate preparation for defense. That may not be the unanimous opinion, it is without doubt the prevailing opinion, and it is based upon very solid grounds. The repeal of the Hay law will open the way to preparedness.

SHELLS FOR THE NAVY.

Owing to an unexpected veto from the British Government, the English company cannot supply the naval shells which it undertook to make when its bid was accepted by our Navy Department. The company had shown that it could easily meet the test requirements, its prices were more than 40 per cent. below those of the four American competing companies, and the shells were to be delivered in half the time they specified. Secretary DANIELS had been assured by the company that it had the British Government's consent.

Our Navy Department must have the shells. It cannot get them from foreign manufacturers, and must turn to the American companies which submitted bids. If it should wait for the completion of a Government factory there would be a long delay—two, or possibly three, years. What should it do now? Shells that will satisfy the tests can be made here at the present time. In the recent trials 73 per cent. of those offered by the Midvale Company and 37 per cent. of the Crucible Steel Company's samples met the requirements. But the prices are very high. The Midvale Company asked $900 for a sixteen-inch shell which the English company offered at $513, and required thirty-six months, while the foreign manufacturers undertook to do the work in sixteen months. The company that made the best record at the trials should explain why its prices exceed those of the English company by 75 per cent. It is not because two or more shells must be made for every one accepted and sold. There is proof to the contrary in the trial record. And the fact that every shell submitted by the English company met the requirements shows that the tests are not too severe. The public has a right to know why the difference in price and time between the American bids and those of the company in Sheffield is so great.

There should be another invitation for bids, but before it is issued the competing companies and the Secretary of the Navy should in friendly conference thoroughly discuss the whole question and strive in a patriotic way to reach a reasonable and just solution of the problem. The shells must be made here.

RIPER OPINIONS OF MR. WILSON'S ADDRESS.

Sustained by the commendations of the Pope, ex-President TAFT, and ex-Secretary ROOT, and encouraged by the welcome accorded to the lofty sentiments of his Senate address in other quarters where enlightenment and sound judgment prevail over the petty spirit of faultfinding, Mr. WILSON may face with a calm mind the criticisms passed upon it by lesser authority. It seems to be quite impossible for those who disagree with the President in politics or upon other matters to admit that any good thing can come from him. It is a very old story, but illustrative, that of the newly landed Irishman who, when asked what his politics was, declared that he was "agin the Government." That appears to be the attitude of a considerable number of persons in this country, they are "agin" Mr. WILSON, and that ends it.

ELIHU ROOT, politically an opponent of the President, is moved by no such partisan spirit. He is a distinguished advocate at once of peace established and maintained throughout the world upon the basis of justice and right, and he is an advocate of national preparedness as one of the guarantees of peace. He sees in the President's address an appeal for the peace of justice assured by means he has approved. He does not follow where some of the thoughtless have led in rejecting the whole of the President's wise counsel because of that single phrase about "peace without victory." "I sympathize with that," said Mr. ROOT, "but the peace that the Presi-"dent describes involves the absolute "destruction and abandonment of the "principles upon which this war was "begun."

> And every word of that declaration, which I believe truly represents the conscience and judgment of the American people, denounces the sacrifice of Belgium and of Serbia, and of the principles upon which they were made. * * * Now, one side of that is the declaration that peace must be without victory. Suppose that peace cannot be made without victory, which is the superior? Which is to obtain? Of course, the great end and choice of means become infinitely small. If that peace, the peace that enthrones in the world principles of individual liberty and national right and national subjection to the laws of morals, can be obtained without any further military pressure, then, thank God for it! But if it cannot be obtained without such further military pressure as to end in victory, then let us pray for the victory.

Mr. TAFT declares that the President's speech is "an epoch in the history of our foreign policy." Those who favor a League of Peace, he declared, "rejoice sincerely that the "President has so strongly expressed "his conviction of the high duty of the "United States to help organize the "world's power to suppress national "lawlessness and enforce due proced-"ure for the settlement of interna-"tional differences." "There are earnest supporters of such a league," he said, "who believe that only a victory "peace may be a just peace; not a "peace selfishly dictated by conquer-"ors, but a just peace wrested from "would-be conquerors. The event "must determine the correctness of "one or the other view." It was in the President's thought, he assumes, not to suggest exact terms of peace, but rather to intimate to the framers of peace that its terms must be in accord with the principles of international justice, "without which the greatest "and most influential neutral Power "will not give the strength of its sup-"port to a World League to preserve "peace."

These judgments of the President's address have been deliberately formed, they have the merit of candidly weighing the relative importance of all its parts, they are based upon a clear understanding of the President's real meaning. When the President devoted the major part of his speech to the formulation of a body of international principles absolutely at war with and destructive of the political theories and ambitions in which most Americans see the origin of the European war, it is safe to say that those analysts of the utterance who construe it as an approval of precisely those designs of aggression and wrong which it combats are venturing into mazes of absurdity.

NOT LIKE THE CIVIL WAR.

Arguments concerning the suggestion of "peace without victory" which are founded on comparisons or contrasts with the end of the War of Secession are entirely irrelevant. There can be no comparison. The War of Secession ended with the complete destruction of the Confederate Government. There was no treaty of peace, and could not be any. From the Union standpoint the war was not one between equals, but a rebellion. A rebellion can end only with the victory of the rebels or their submission. If a treaty of peace is negotiated, that in itself means that the rebels have won the war. If the Government wins, there can be no treaty, because a treaty implies that the rebels have become a treaty-making power; that is, have won the object for which they began the fight.

The American War of Independence was a rebellion. It was successful, and its success was proved by the fact that peace was made by a treaty negotiated between the rebels and the Government. The War of Secession ended in victory for the Government, and there was therefore no treaty. The Confederate General in each army handed his sword to the Union General, who drew up with him, not the terms of peace, but the terms of surrender. One Union General, SHERMAN, undertook to enter into a peace treaty with the Confederate General opposing him, JOHNSTON. His act was immediately repudiated and he was reproved by his Government, which held that the terms on which the South should live with the North must be imposed, not negotiated. It makes no difference that the South did not consider the war a rebellion. Since the North was victorious, it was the North's understanding of the case, not the South's, which controlled the manner of making peace.

The war in Europe is neither a rebellion nor a civil war. Since the North was making war to enforce its authority over the South, it could have ended only in the dissolution of the Union or in submission by the South. No such situation is presented in Europe. The war there will be ended by a peace treaty. It will be so ended even if one side is completely defeated. There could be no more complete victory in the field than that of Germany over France in 1871, but that war was ended by a treaty, and in theory by a treaty between equals. If the end of the War of Secession is not to be described as a victory by the North over the South, then there is no meaning in words, for the Confederate Government was destroyed, its independence abolished, and the republic which, according to its own view, it had established was merged in the Union. To maintain that there is a parallel is to say that the German Government may be wiped out and Germany annexed to France or Russia, and that still that would be a "peace without victory."

EXEMPTION OF FARM PROFITS.

The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle has found a reason why farmers should be exempted from the taxes imposed upon others:

> The taxing power of the Government is being exerted with such relentless zeal over men engaged in profitable business and manufacturing enterprises that it is sound policy to leave one class in the community free from liability to visitation by the Federal taxgatherer. After the business man or manufacturer has been taxed into discouragement, he may retire to a farm in some quiet community and there wring a humble living out of the reluctant soil, finding comfort in the thought that as a farmer Congress will protect him from its own rapacity.

It may be doubted that the promoters of the exemption of farmers will welcome an argument so open to suspicion of sarcasm. More serious is the argument from the practice of other countries having similar laws. British farmers are liable to tax upon alternative methods of calculation. They may allow their profits to be taken as a proportion of their rental, or they may elect to be taxed according to their accounts, if they keep them. Farmers are included in the tax law just introduced by the French Finance Minister proposing a surtax. Yet French farmers are suffering losses on a scale comparable with the abnormal profits of our farmers.

Professor BULLOCK of Harvard is not an authority on the politics of taxing or exempting farmers. He is an authority only upon the economics of taxation. What he says about the discrimination in favor of the farmer under the law of 1913 is stronger when applied to the exemption of the farmer from the excess profits tax now pending:

> These features of the law of 1913 are another cause of great inequality, and are absolutely without justification. They are contrary to the practice of the best income taxes, and are indefensible class and sectional legislation.

THE POSTAL TUBES AGAIN.

In the same dispatches it is to be read that new appointments of Postmasters are to be made in the cities in which the Post Office Department wishes to stop the pneumatic service, and that the Postmasters of more than one of those cities, including New York, will testify in the Senate for the retention of the tubes. It is only a coincidence. The Postmasters are not to be removed for insubordination, nor for the good of the service, but for the customary reasons which too often control political appointments.

The case for the tubes ought to be won more easily in the Senate than in the House, because there has been an accumulation of evidence both in their favor and against the attack upon them. For example, the Post Office officials having alleged damage to the mails in the tubes, the Secretary of the Philadelphia Pneumatic Transit Company replies:

> Out of over 8,000,000,000 letters transported in the tubes last year, perhaps 200 were injured or soiled through the opening of carriers. That is less than two-millionths of 1 per cent. In Philadelphia last week more mail was damaged in one automobile mishap than was equaled by all the mail tube accidents during the last year.

> insidious lobbies, which will put forward as their spokesmen well-meaning but ill-informed citizens who believe that they are acting in the interest of better postal service, will bring directly every influence possible to perpetuate this incubus.

The tube defenders assert that the Postmaster General lobbies himself. They declare that the Postmaster General was not satisfied with the publication of his annual report and the report of his committee. He sent them to every Congressman, accompanied with a personal letter from himself, asking their careful consideration. It is not stated that the "insidious lobby" has used any arguments of any other sort than that. It is natural that the Postmaster General should be strenuous in his methods of attack upon what seems to him "exorbitant and indefensible contracts" with the owners of the tubes, an "interest to which the "Government owes not the slightest "moral obligation." Feeling that way, the Postmaster General naturally has no compunctions against picking out the portions of the tube service which are beneficial to the postal service beyond doubt, and proposing terms which allow those alone to be continued. It may not be immoral to take the fat and leave the lean, but it is a question whether it can be done. The tube owners reply that their service must be taken or left as a whole, the profitable parts being necessary for the maintenance of the unprofitable. They have as good a right to make terms as the Post Office, and can reject the profitable contracts if the Post Office's action makes their investment unprofitable as a whole.

Users of the mails regret this controversy. They are fond of the postal service. They are proud of it, and wish its various activities to flourish. It is the one service of the Government for which the people get an equivalent for their payments, visibly and directly. The people do not grudge the department the money necessary for its support, despite its "profit." The department acquires merit enough without seeking credit upon false pretenses, and without attacking those who ventured their funds in an enterprise which the department did not give to the people.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Illiteracy Is Not Irremediable.

There is not much use, of course, in logical argument against the exclusion from this country of illiterate immigrants, as such, since everybody perfectly well knows that the real purpose behind the movement is not to keep out foreigners of that particular kind, but to decrease the supply, and therefore to advance the cost, of manual labor. Hence, presentation of the reasons, many and obvious, for the admission of immigrants willing as well as able to do the highly important work which has no attractions for settlers of earlier date has little tendency toward quieting the demand for exclusion. Nevertheless, as the pretense of antagonism to illiterates is kept up, the direct answers to it must also be continued, or at any rate they will be, and there is one which, if it has received any attention at all, deserves more than has been given to it in the current discussions.

Admitting, as everybody must, that illiteracy is an undesirable quality in itself, and that, other things being equal, the literate immigrant is preferable to the illiterate, it still remains a fact that, of all the motives for exclusion that exist, this one differs from most if not all of the rest in that its basis is removable. Physical and mental defects are permanent, the turning of criminals to the paths of rectitude is an undertaking the success of which is at least dubious, and the diseases which have been selected as causes for exclusion are practically incurable, at least in the conditions in which the immigrant is almost sure to live.

But illiteracy is a characteristic for which there is an easily applied remedy—one effectual in every case theoretically, and practically so in all except a few. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that every illiterate immigrant would prefer to become literate and is willing to make some personal exertion for the attaining of that end. He will not hate his teachers or consider them enemies or despots, and only in rare instances will he try to elude the acquirement of a rudimentary education—enough to free him from the measure of disgrace and humiliation which inability to read and write involves in any country where the power to do both is general in all classes. With a little help, consequently, he will soon cease to be illiterate and so become acceptable.

Papers and People Terrorized.

One of yesterday's dispatches revealed the discovery by a Federal Grand Jury of truly astonishing conditions existing in the City of Cincinnati. Not only did this body assert that "wholesale prostitution of the sanctity of the ballot seems to be generally prevalent"—by which, presumably, it meant that the buying and selling of votes is a common practice in Cincinnati—but a further and perhaps even more serious charge was made.

It was to the effect that certain newspapers there, instead of assisting in the conviction of the criminals by printing the facts, were making a systematic effort to save them from punishment, and were doing it by the particularly abominable device of creating in the city, to the extent of their ability, the false impression that "the United States of America is conducting a persecution of innocent men for insidious purposes."

Now, there is a lamentable consistency between this description of conditions in Cincinnati and the one given the day before by one of our correspondents, though the latter dealt with a wholly different phase of the situation. His accusation was that the pro-German element in the city has been able to impose a nearly complete silence on the resident friends of the Allies. The latter, according to this authority, only say "What's the use!" when one of the bolder among their number attempts to bring about an expression of public sentiment against anything done by the Kaiser or his armies, and the planning of a meeting to denounce the deportation of the Belgians was vehemently characterized by the Cincinnati Germans as an insolent and outrageous undertaking.

Our correspondent declared, too, that no Cincinnati paper now dared to say a good word for the Allies, and that one of them that started to do something along that line was promptly convinced by a big advertiser that to oppose, and even not to support, the German cause would not do.

That such a state of affairs could exist in an American city one would like to think incredible, but the presentment of the Federal Grand Jury certainly goes far toward confirming our correspondent's charges. Truly, journalism could not fall to a lower level than is disclosed from these two sources.

Struggling with Congestion.

There is nothing of exaggeration in the statements regarding the traffic situation in this city made by the Police Commissioner in his letter to the Mayor. He might, indeed, have written, not that business soon will be, but that already it is, seriously impeded by the inadequacy of our streets and avenues for the convenient movement of the vehicles using them.

The Commissioner's own recommendations for decreasing the congestion are probably the best that could be made for immediate adoption, but it is to be regretted that in considerable part they consist of proposals to increase the facilities for wheeled traffic by narrowing sidewalks and so decreasing those, now none too great, of people on foot. That there is work for the traffic commission, the creation of which he advises, is clear, and it would be well if drivers could be persuaded or forced to make a better utilization of the avenues a little further from the centre of the city than are the few into which they persistently crowd at present.

The probability is, however, that sooner or later New York will have to resort to the almost desperate remedy of providing itself with the new longitudinal thoroughfares it so badly needs. The very idea of doing that at this late day is enough to turn gray with anxiety whatever of the New York taxpayers' hair has not yet suffered that change, but there seems to be no other real cure for the original mistake of the visionless planners who made our north and south blocks short and our east and west blocks long. We can see the wrongness of that so plainly that their error is almost incomprehensible, but the gift of prophecy has always been rarely bestowed, and it is hardly fair to criticise those from whom it has been withheld.

But why does the Commissioner so emphasize as a cause of congestion the increased use of automobiles and motor trucks? Except for this change our troubles would be far worse than they are, for every motor car means the saving of the highway space that without it would have to be given to anywhere from one to a dozen horses.

Now the "Columbian Islands."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If your impatience over the many names that have been thought up by "a waste of gray matter" for our newly acquired islands is not altogether too great to admit of another one, I should like to suggest one which would be eminently appropriate—the Columbian Islands.

HENRY K. WHITE.
Northampton, Mass., Jan. 24, 1917.

TO A SOLDIER SWEETHEART.

This have I said:
Across the sea they need you; that fierce foe
Must be defeated. I would have you go
And God would have you. You are young and strong;
The war will soon be over, and ere long
The struggle but a story oft related;
Our love will greater be because we waited.

This have I thought:
I need you more than country could have need.
Without you life is darkness. Is the greed
Of nations worth the struggle and the pain?
God hear my prayer, and grant that you remain;
For I would have you hide away with me—
Where peaceful homes abide, and hearts are free!

PRO-GERMAN HISSED IN DEFENSE MEETING

PROTESTS HALT HIS SPEECH

Roosevelt, in Letter, Urges Preparedness—Education in Better Citizenship Favored.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The full scope of national preparedness ideas now abroad in the country, reaching from universal military service for men to registration of the nation's woman power against a war emergency, was spread before delegates to the National Security League's Congress of Constructive Patriotism here today and tonight by enthusiastically applauded speakers.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, Walter C. Piper of Detroit, Hermann Hagedorn, Jr., of Fairfield, Conn., Miss Grace Parker of New York, and Charles Nagel of St. Louis, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor, took occasion to declare emphatically their allegiance to the cause of universal military training and service. Letters were read from Theodore Roosevelt and Governor Edge of New Jersey expressing the same view.

The congress was thrown into an uproar late today when Ludwig Nissen, a Brooklyn importer, attacked Elihu Root for his speech at last night's session denouncing Germany. Amid hisses and repeated interruptions Mr. Nissen declared the address, while it might have been a great utterance if delivered at the proper place, "was the rankest outrage ever permitted and perpetrated upon an American audience on this particular occasion, under the guise of American patriotism."

Cries of "No!" and "Sit down!" greeted this declaration, and while the Chairman tried ineffectually to restore order Nissen shouted that he simply was protesting against turning the conference into a pro-Ally propaganda, and went on to say that "no paid propagandists could possibly have spoken more effectively for an English propaganda than Senator Root did here last night."

All Newspapers "Subsidized."

"I know I will be derided," he continued, when the hissing again had subsided, "and I know what I am saying here today will not be reported by the newspapers, because the newspapers will not print a bit of news that is favorable to Germany. If they do, they will lose their financial advertisements and every one of them is subsidized."

The speaker then began a defense of the German invasion of Belgium, but was interrupted by a motion to adjourn. After the motion had been seconded the Chairman intervened with a plea that Mr. Nissen be permitted to finish, and the audience again was quieted. The hissing and interruptions broke out afresh a moment later and continued until the end of the short address.

"Senator Root and Judge Parker both referred to Germany's action as a crime," said Mr. Nissen. "There was no crime, because there never was a guarantee. In 1839, England, France, Austria, Prussia, and Russia entered into an agreement to respect the neutrality of Belgium. That neutrality was respected up to the time of 1870, when Emperor Napoleon declared war on Germany. At that time no less a statesman than William E. Gladstone said, as Prime Minister of England, in the Westminster Parliament, that that agreement could not be considered binding upon either of the parties to it.

"What else happened? Gentlemen, you don't want to hear the truth—"

At this point it was announced that the time allotted Mr. Nissen, who had arisen under a rule permitting five-minute discussions by the audience, had expired. He sat down in the midst of a tumult and while a motion was pending to dispense with further speeches from other than invited speakers unless they indicated beforehand the nature of their remarks.

Mr. Hagedorn expressed the keynote of the congress when he declared that education toward citizenship was the vital part of any national preparedness, the only hope of the abolition of war.

"We must build up the army and navy," he said, "but force must be the servant of the spirit, or it will be the master. There can be no partnership there. An alert democracy must stand behind the army and navy, an inner wall of enlightened and vigorous citizenship."

Assailing the American educational system as calculated to produce men indifferent to national affairs, Mr. Hagedorn said: "It is treason to be indifferent. The stupidity of standpat educators makes quite as much for war as the stupidity of munition makers."

Roosevelt on Preparedness.

Colonel Roosevelt said in his letter that national preparedness meant spiritual, material, civic, industrial, and military preparedness, and the thorough Americanization of the country. He wrote in part:

"We need, more than anything else in this country, thorough-going Americanism, for unless we are Americans and nothing else, we are not a nation at all, and thorough-going preparedness in time of peace against war, for if we are not thus prepared we shall remain a nation only until some more virile nation finds it worth while to conquer us.

"The work of preparedness—spiritual and material, civic, industrial and military—and the work of Americanization are simply the two paramount phases or elements of the work of constructive patriotism which your Congress has gathered to foster. There can be no real preparedness in this country unless this country is thoroughly Americanized, for only a patriotic people will prepare, and there can be no deep, national feeling for America until we are all of us Americans through and through.

"Everything is un-American that tends either to government by a plutocracy or government by a mob. To divide along the lines of section or caste or creed is un-American. The things that will destroy America are prosperity at any price, peace at any price, safety first instead of duty first, the love of soft living, and the get-rich-quick theory of life.

"Preparedness must be of the soul no less than of the body. We must make Americanism and Americanization mean the same thing to the native born and to the foreign born; to the man and to the woman; to the rich and to the poor; to the employer and to the wage-worker.

No Loyalty on Fifty-Fifty Basis.

"Citizenship must mean an undivided loyalty to America; there can be no citizenship on the fifty-fifty basis; there can be no loyalty half to America and half to Germany or England or France or Ireland, or any other country. We must have one American language. The American standard of living conditions and the American standard of working conditions both must be high. We must insist upon them for immigrants as well as for the native born. We must insist that the people who work here, live here; that they are not mere birds of passage from abroad.

"I advocate military preparedness, not for the sake of war, but for the sake of safeguarding this nation against war so long as that is possible, and of guaranteeing its honor and safety if war should nevertheless come. We hope ultimately the day will come on this earth when wars will cease. But at present the realization of that hope seems as far in the future as the realization of that other hope—that some day in the future all crime will cease.

"We need first and foremost a thoroughly efficient and large navy. In the next place, we need a small but highly efficient regular army, of say a quarter million men; an army where provision is made for a certain proportion of the promotions to be by merit, instead of merely seniority; an army of short-term soldiers, better paid than at present, and an army which, like the navy, shall be under the guidance of a general staff. Moreover, every year there should be at one time field manoeuvres of from fifty to one hundred thousand men.

"The events of the last Summer have shown that the Hay bill was as foolish and unpatriotic a bit of flintlock legislation as was ever put on the statute book. I have the greatest admiration and respect for the individual militiamen who went to the border. But the system under which they were sent worked rank injustice to most of them, rank favoritism for some of them, and was worse than ineffective from the national standpoint. It is folly and worse than folly to pretend that the National Guard is an efficient second line of defense.

Navy Second to England's.

"Be it remembered that such a national armed force as that for which I ask, while very powerful for defense would be almost useless for aggression. I wish to see our navy second only to that of Great Britain, because Great Britain is the only power whose naval needs are greater than ours. I do not ask that our army become second, or anywhere near second, to Germany's, because Germany's military needs are far greater than ours; but merely that relatively to our size our army be made to correspond to that of Switzerland.

"This would mean that for the last two or three years of school our boys would have some military training, substantially such as is given in the Swiss and Australian schools; and that at about the age of 19 they would spend six months in actual service in the field (or at sea with the fleet) with the colors, and would thereafter for three or four years be required to spend a couple of weeks each year with the colors. Each year, among those who had served well for the six months, a number could be chosen to be trained as officers."

As presiding officer of the day session, Senator Fletcher called attention to the fact that the army and navy budget now before Congress had reached a total of $830,000,000. Taking up the failure of the National Guard and regular army to recruit up to authorized strength, he declared the time had come when the burden of military service "must be shared by all and shared alike."

Registration of Woman Power.

Miss Parker told the congress that England had now registered her woman power and set herself in the position that Germany was in twenty-four hours after the declaration of war. Germany already had registered her women, who were promptly substituted for men called to arms, she said, and had mapped out a program for similar action by the United States. She urged unification of American women's clubs and societies for defense purposes.

Mr. Nagel declared the budget system and a responsible Cabinet form of government were the cornerstone of national preparedness.

Professor Edward A. Steiner of Grinnell College, Iowa, speaking from the viewpoint of a naturalized American, repudiated suggestions that America could ever be "Chinafied or Prussianized."

"We are naturally too pugnacious for that," he said. "We are too impatient with slow, historic processes, too unamenable to discipline. Gone is the old optimism which made us rise every Fourth of July and challenge the whole world to stand up for a licking. We are now possessed by a spirit of pessimism which is equally dangerous; for as once we exaggerated our virtues and our strength, we now are in grave danger of exaggerating our faults and weaknesses."

Raymond B. Price of New York took a similar view. He cited that in the operation of 5,000 plants in the present emergency by the British Government, opportunity has been furnished to judge the economic effect of proper housing and clothing and feeding of workers, and the lessons were striking. The greatest accomplishment of Great Britain in the war had been, he said, the maintenance of her productive capacity at increased efficiency despite the fact that 6,000,000 men had been withdrawn from production as soldiers.

Miss Frances A. Kellor of New York expected to speak on "Americanization of Industry," but was unable to attend through illness.

Mayor Mitchel of New York, who presided at the night session, said pacifists might be divided into two classes, "Loyal, honest visionaries," and "dishonest, contemptible men who want to take everything and give nothing to the country."

Dr. William T. Manning of Trinity Church, New York; Henry D. Estabrook of New York, William T. Marbury of Baltimore, George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, and Major Abel Davis of Chicago also spoke.

PASSES BIG SUPPLY BILL.

Senate Puts All Post Offices Under Civil Service Regulations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The annual Legislative, Executive, and Judicial bill, the second of the big supply measures on the appropriation program to be disposed of before March 4, was passed late today by the Senate after provisions had been written into it placing all Postmasters on the civil service list, forbidding employes of the Bureau of Education receiving compensation from private educational foundations, and further increasing the pay of Government clerks.

The stipulation that Postmasterships of all classes shall be made non-political and put under civil service rules was adopted at the last moment as an amendment to the section providing for the salaries of certain officials of the Post Office Department. Several Senators insisted tonight that it was not germane to the appropriation measure, and predicted that it would be eliminated in conference with the House.

Under the scale of salary increases for Government clerks adopted by the Senate, the pay of those receiving less than $480 annually would be increased 15 per cent., and the pay of those receiving between $480 and $1,000 would be increased 10 per cent. As passed by the House the bill provided for an increase of 10 per cent. for all those whose salaries are less than $1,200, and of 5 per cent. for those receiving between $1,200 and $1,800.

About $1,000,000 was added to the measure in the Senate, bringing the total approximately to $40,000,000.

ATTACK INAUGURAL POMP.

Senators Appropriate $25,000, but Assert Ceremonies Are Too Lavish.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Senate voted favorably today on the $25,000 appropriation to pay for the inauguration expenses at the Capitol, but not until there had been some lively talk about how Washington hotel keepers "rob" visitors and some observations that the inaugural ceremonies have come to resemble a coronation pageant.

When Senator Overman brought the resolution from the Appropriations Committee, Senator McCumber, Republican, suggested that it should include provisions to prevent hotel keepers from raising their rates. He said he had been informed by one hotel that a room for inauguration week would cost $200.

"I'm not going to object to this resolution," said Senator Works, Republican, "but I would like to see one President inaugurated with appropriate ceremonies, suitable in a democracy. We are having a coronation every four years, and it is undemocratic and un-American, and I would like to see it abolished."

Senator Borah, Republican, observed that people who come to inaugurations do so with eyes open and pockets full for a good time.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We would appreciate your kindness in making known to the public that, owing to the alterations now being made in the Bide-a-Wee Home, at 410 East Thirty-eighth Street, we find great difficulty in accepting and treating all the animals brought to us.

We have never refused a homeless animal, but owing to the fact that we are spending over $4,000, which has been given to us specifically for the purpose of making our hospital department a model of construction, we are not at the moment prepared to receive sick animals.

We can hardly avoid this condition, but our experience during the recent past makes us reluctantly request that those desiring to place suffering animals in our care refrain from doing so until our hospital is in condition to receive them, which we confidently hope will be the case within a few weeks.

We regret, even for a short time, being compelled to have this most important side of our work remain in abeyance, but feel that in justice to the work it must be so for the moment.

FLORA D'A. J. KIBBE, President.

Dr. Jewett on the Peace Speech.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE NEW YORK TIMES of today's issue there is a report of an important meeting of the New York Peace Society. As I am mentioned in your report as a Vice President of the society, I may be allowed to say that I am not able to give unconditional approval to every part of the address which President Wilson made to the Senate last Monday. While I agree whole-heartedly with the President's aspirations and goals, I am firmly convinced that an immediate settlement, which left the victory of the allied cause uncertain, would have no permanency, but would lead to a speedy renewal of the very condition in which the present conflict was born.

DEMOCRATS HOLD UP BORAH RESOLUTION

Refuse to Adopt It Without Debate, Fearing It Will Be Viewed as Slap at Wilson.

MONROE DOCTRINE SECURE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—An unsuccessful attempt was made today to reach an agreement between the Democrats and Republicans on the disposition of the resolution introduced yesterday by Senator Borah reaffirming the faith of the Senate in the Monroe Doctrine and Washington's advice to avoid entangling alliances. At the opening of the morning session Senator Borah conferred with Senator Lodge and other Republican leaders, and then suggested to Senator Hoke Smith and Senator Lewis of Illinois, in the absence of Senator Stone, Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, that he would be willing to forego a debate on the resolution if the majority would permit an immediate vote on it.

The offer was not accepted for two reasons, the Democratic Senators afterward explained. In the first place, they believed the Democrats would be unwilling to consent to any agreement to vote in the absence of Senator Stone, in whose province the resolution properly belongs. Secondly, they said they believed practically all the Democrats would be willing to vote for the principles embodied in the Borah resolution, but before doing so they wished to make it clear that they considered this in no sense as in opposition to the proposals outlined in the President's address suggesting a concert of nations to guarantee a permanent peace.

"Personally I would be entirely willing to support the Borah resolution," Senator Lewis said, "because it does not conflict in any way with the President's suggestions. I see no reason why the resolution should not come to a vote, except that in the manner in which it has been introduced it might look like a reflection on the President's speech if we passed it without debate. It might easily look to the country as if we were passing the resolution because we were afraid the President intended to abandon the Monroe Doctrine. If we can have an opportunity to explain our view, which is that an indorsement of the resolution is at the same time an indorsement of the President, I personally see no reason why the resolution should not be passed unanimously."

Monroe Doctrine Safe.

Senator Smith was equally positive in his assurance that the President had not advocated a departure from the Monroe Doctrine, but only an enlargement of its principles to include Europe, and that a reaffirmation of faith in it would therefore not conflict with his views. "At the same time," Mr. Smith said, "we cannot permit the country to misunderstand our position. If the resolution went through without any discussion, coming as it does from the Republican side, it might be misinterpreted as a repudiation of some part of the President's speech. I personally am so heartily in accord with every word that he said that I can't permit any hint of such a view to be circulated.

"The speech is serving us now abroad and it will continue to serve us more. It is going to help greatly in keeping us out of trouble. My own view is that it ought to be permitted to explain itself to the United States and foreign countries without our interfering in the discussion at all. If we press the Borah resolution it must be with the distinct understanding that we are at the same time supporting the President."

Senator Borah said this afternoon that unless discussion on the Cummins resolution, which sets aside a definite time for a debate on the President's address, interfered with his plans he would call up his resolution for debate not later than Tuesday.

He said he did not agree with the Democratic leaders that the principles involved in his resolution created no conflict with the President's position, but that he would be entirely willing to confine his discussion to the necessity of maintaining the historic American position without any direct references at all to the President's address.

"I don't think the debate can fail to show a conflict in opinion," he said, "but if the Democratic Party thinks it can support the President at the same time that it votes for my resolution, so much the better. I can easily refrain from making direct mention of the President's speech and still say all I want to say about the Monroe Doctrine, and the principles will be clear enough to stand for themselves."

It was suggested in one quarter that if the resolution were allowed to come to a vote at all it might be with an amendment to the effect that the Senate in reaffirming its faith in the Monroe Doctrine also indorsed the address of the President. It is possible that this would be acceptable to some of the Progressive Republicans, so long as the Senate was definitely committing itself to the view that the President's proposals were not leading to an abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine.

Likely to Sidetrack It.

There is grave question, however, whether the resolution will ever be permitted to reach a vote. The issue is gradually becoming blurred, with both sides maintaining that they are willing under certain conditions to support the resolution. The Democrats are determined that there shall be no vote which can be interpreted as a back-handed slap at the President, and it is probable that they will end by burying the resolution in committee to avoid any danger of such a construction of the matter.

Although in the Republican view this would immediately place them in the position of acknowledging an apprehension that the President might have meant an abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine, it is known that this is what Senator Stone would like to have done with it, regarding it as the safest plan. If the resolution is permitted to pass it probably will go through in such a neutralized form as to carry no distinct impression with it, much as the Hitchcock resolution indorsing the President's first peace note was treated. It will have served the purpose of its author and the Republican side, however, in so far as it gives them an opening for pressing their views on any attempt to throw overboard the Monroe Doctrine and on the merits of a league to enforce peace.

In the House today Representative Temple, Republican, of Pennsylvania, a member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, called attention to the fact that a new code of international law, intended to secure to neutrals the freedom of the seas, prepared at the suggestion of Secretary Lansing, was submitted last Monday to the American Institute of International Law in Havana, at the moment when President Wilson was declaring to the Senate and the world that such a code was necessary. He obtained permission to print the document tomorrow in The Congressional Record.

Mr. Temple said the seas already were free in time of peace, and that the new code provided for freedom of the seas in time of war.

"It abolishes blockade entirely," he explained, "forbids interference with the mails, declares that merchant ships of belligerents as well as those of neutrals shall be free from capture, and abolishes the right of visit and search. Even vessels carrying contraband may in no case be confiscated or sunk under any pretext whatever, though the contraband itself may be confiscated or destroyed by the captor."

PRESIDENT TO EAT A 10-CENT DINNER

LUNCH WILL COST 8 CENTS

At That Meal Mr. Wilson Will Get a Salmon Croquette with Peas and One Lone Date.

A menu providing for a 10-cent dinner was delivered at the White House in Washington yesterday by Miss Eula McClary, a representative of the Life Extension Institute, which has charge of the police diet squad 25-cents-a-day food test here.

This was the day's menu delivered at the White House by Miss McClary:

Breakfast.
Oatmeal and milk.
Toast and butter.
Coffee, with milk.

Luncheon.
Salmon croquettes, with peas, and one date.
Bread and butter.

Dinner.
Stuffed green peppers.

Mrs. Wilson has not yet announced the date when the White House chefs will be requested to serve the food provided for on the menu.

Nine of the twelve members of the diet squad proved by the scales yesterday that they had thrived on a fare costing 25 cents a day for each man, but three of the rookies had lost weight during the economic food demonstration of eighteen days. These men from the Police Training School, who volunteered on Jan. 8 to take part in a test covering three weeks, and began it with some misgivings, are now so thoroughly pleased with their experience and the apparent success of the venture that they expressed a willingness to continue indefinitely.

But, so far as the rookies are concerned, the experiment will end with dinner on Monday. The scientific experts believe the demonstration has served its purpose in acquainting the public with information concerning thrift and the best methods for proper and healthful living, and that no practical gain would result in continuing the experiment.

The total weight of the squad on Jan. 8, at the beginning of the demonstration, was 2,030 pounds. Yesterday the total was 2,049¼ pounds, a gain of 19¼ pounds. Nine of the men have gained a total of 21¼ pounds, but this was reduced two pounds by the losses of three. The individual weights, gains and losses are shown in this table:

	Jan. 8.	Jan. 26.	Gain.	Loss.
Hanlon	167	166	..	1
Goldman	179	178½	..	½
Total	2,030	2,049¼	21¼	2

It is intended to continue the diet kitchen for several days to permit employes of one or more of the city departments to try the diet. It is expected that twelve street cleaners and their wives will form a special squad. The rookies had these dishes yesterday:

Breakfast.

Luncheon.
Baked rice and cheese.
Raisin bread.
Apple sauce.

Dinner.
German fried potatoes.
Prune pie.

A written request has reached the Life Extension Institute from a community organization in Philadelphia, asking that the diet experiment be repeated there.

Baron Jesko Von Puttkamer.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 26.—The Rhensche Westfalische Zeitung prints a Berlin dispatch announcing the sudden death there of Baron Jesko von Puttkamer, former Governor of the German Kamerun, West Africa.

A sensation was caused in 1906 by the announcement that Baron von Puttkamer, who was at the time Governor of the Kamerun, would resign on account of ill health. Early in the next year, after he had been removed from his post, he was found guilty in the Imperial Disciplinary Court at Potsdam on three charges of breach of discipline and reprimanded. The Baron was in his seventy-seventh year.

AID FOR FRENCH ORPHANS.

Women Here Agree to Support 50 for Year at Cost of $72 Each.

Many prominent people filled the ballroom in the house of Mrs. Walter B. James, at 7 East Seventieth Street, yesterday, in the interest of the Comité Franco-Americain pour la Protection des Enfants de la Frontière, with headquarters in Paris.

Appeals made for little children of France made orphans and homeless by the war induced a small group of women to offer to support fifty children for one year. This means $72 for each child, somewhat more than is asked by other organizations, because the Comité Franco-Americain receives no money from the Government. Mrs. William H. Hill, who gave an illustrated talk on the relief work, said, referring to this: "We cannot offer money to the French Government, but we feel that by relieving it of the care of any of the children we are aiding it."

The Marquis de Polignac presided at the meeting, and Will Irwin was a speaker. The meeting was under the auspices of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bliss, Bishop and Mrs. Greer, Mrs. Colbert P. Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Curtiss James, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Colonel and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, and Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer.

Is Your Son Successful at School?

Failure in his studies will shake his confidence in himself and make him less fitted mentally and morally to enter the larger struggle. Let us teach him to CONCENTRATE, as we have many boys and girls who had been unsuccessful at "large class" schools. The Clark Method of constant individual encouragement and examination by teachers who KNOW their subjects and who teach almost wholly without text books, engenders quiet, concentrated effort on the part of the student. A long record of remarkable results has established the great value of Clark methods for either the "slow," normal or brilliant student. Glance over the following

MRS. TRASK'S NEW NOVEL
THE INVISIBLE BALANCE SHEET
By KATRINA TRASK

"From beginning to end 'The Invisible Balance Sheet' is clever. It is full of sheer sparkle. It has an alert and attractive timeliness. Its gayety is delicious. And alongside of its gayety it has no little real loveliness. But its psychology remains, of course, the novel's chief claim to value. * * * In the simplicity and force of its narrative it brings home its theme, its warnings, its complexity, its hope with a directness and a human sympathy that give it high rank as a story—a story of marked significance."—New York Times.

"Humor, a sense of the timeliness of things and a very real interest in the problems of the day are elements which we expect to find in the work of Katrina Trask. * * * In her new novel * * * her people talk much as the people of real life talk of the Mexican situation and of the European war. * * * The most significant part of the book lies * * * in the very natural and realistic pictures of society life and the dialogue which the author has introduced and handles with great skill."—Boston Transcript.

"Around the central theme of our life to-day — money — Mrs. Trask has woven with deft hand an enthralling story of love and mammon. * * * While you are swept along with the swift movement of the narrative, idly amused by its rippling humor * * * an eloquent sermon steals upon your understanding without a word of preaching from the author to put you on your guard against it." — Boston Globe.

"An up-to-date story of beauty and strength, and with unusually entertaining elements of attractiveness. It is by all odds one of the best and brightest of modern love stories. * * * The story is of to-day. Its characters discuss the social and political questions of now, not last year. John Remington Wright's guests consider the present world's war with its complex problems, the Mexican relations of our Government and other questions, such as men of affairs were discussing last week or last month."—Albany Times-Union.

"An arresting plot. * * * Mrs. Trask writes with equal ease of the pastoral life of Spring on the farm with the apple blossoms and of the fevered artificiality of Fifth Avenue."—Hartford Times.

"There is a great deal of delicious humor in the story and also a great deal of the deep-down philosophy of life."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WEST SIDE TRACKS STIR NEW PROTESTS

PRENDERGAST ON DEFENSIVE

Takes Senator Burlingame to Task for Inquiry Proposal and Asks Hearing by Civic Bodies.

Sharp controversy over the New York Central's west side improvement plan broke out anew yesterday in three distinct places. First, decided irritation developed in the Board of Estimate when Borough President Marks introduced a resolution requiring the board to invite suggestions from the Public Service Commission as to the proposed agreement between the city and the railroad. Since the fight on the plan has centred chiefly about the demand that jurisdiction over the project be transferred from the Board of Estimate to the Public Service Commission the resolution was defeated after what was described by some of those present as a decidedly "snappy" debate.

Secondly, Controller Prendergast wrote a letter to State Senator Alvah W. Burlingame, calling him sharply to account for introducing a resolution calling for an investigation by the Legislature of the charge that there was "collusion" between certain public officials and officers of the New York Central Railroad.

And, finally, as an immediate response to the announcement that twenty civic associations would send representatives to Albany to urge that authority over the railroad changes be taken from the Board of Estimate, letters were addressed to all of these associations by Controller Prendergast, asking them to hear the Port and Terminal Committee of the Board of Estimate, which has accepted the plans, before joining in any demonstration at the capital.

The resolution introduced by Borough President Marks read:

> Resolved, That the Public Service Commission be, and it is hereby invited to submit to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York such suggestions as it may see fit to make respecting the proposed plan and agreement between the City of New York and the New York Central Railroad.

It was seconded at once by Henry P. Morrison, acting President of Richmond. The displeasure of Mayor Mitchel, Controller Prendergast, and Borough President Pounds of Brooklyn was easily detected in their faces.

"You'd abdicate your power, would you?" demanded Mr. Pounds of the Borough President of Manhattan.

"No, I think I can let a man suggest what I shall eat for breakfast without letting him eat the breakfast," retorted Mr. Marks.

"I think this board would be in a foolish position," broke in Mayor Mitchel, "if it created a doubt as to its own ability to handle this problem by inviting another public body to assist it. We have invited the public to come to public hearings to begin on Feb. 14. We shall be glad to have the Public Service Commissioners appear at those hearings."

Borough President Marks contended that it would be entirely proper for the board to extend a formal invitation for suggestions from the commission in its official capacity, and he demanded a roll call on the resolution. Borough President Connolly of Queens, Mr. Morrison, and Mr. Marks were the only ones to vote in favor of it.

EXAGGERATE MOVIE PROFITS

Patrick A. Powers, one of the heads of the Universal Film Company, appeared again yesterday before the legislative commission investigating the motion picture industry to determine the advisability of levying a special tax on it. Mr. Powers gave it as his opinion that the business would collapse if it was taxes further.

The witness said that the business was being inflated by large sums of outside capital which would be spent in making pictures to be sold at less than cost, and that while these conditions existed the established concerns could not make money. He said he had counted 54 companies organized during the last year with a capitalization of $100,000 each, none of which had survived.

When confronted with advertisements in trade papers in which his company was spoken of in terms highly laudatory and in which a wonderful future for the industry was predicted, Mr. Powers explained the policy by saying that no business man would predict anything but a rosy future for his concern. He advised the commission to take the figures furnished by press agents with large portions of salt and said that statements about the business were often exaggerated. As an example he stated that his company had made $65,000 on a film on which they were generally believed to have made $1,000,000.

The hearings will be resumed next Wednesday.

MITCHEL IGNORES SHERRILL.

Mayor Will Let Court Decide Whose Chauffeur Was at Fault.

Mayor Mitchel, refusing to enter into a controversy, made known yesterday his intention of letting the court decide whether the Mayor's chauffeur or the chauffeur of William L. Sherrill of the Frohman Amusement Corporation, 18 East Forty-first Street, was to blame for the motor car collision at Fifty-seventh Street and Sixth Avenue on Tuesday night, endangering the lives of ten persons in the two cars. With the Mayor were Mrs. Mitchel, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. Joseph Thomas, and Colonel William Hayward of the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Sherrill expressed surprise that the Mayor had not answered his letter of Jan. 24, in which he complained that the Mayor had used his official position to cause the arrest of Mr. Sherrill's chauffeur, who, Mr. Sherrill says, was blameless.

The Mayor's only comment was:

Mr. Sherrill's chauffeur, Patrick J. Dowd, will appear next Wednesday before Magistrate House in the Traffic Court for examination.

I. McCauley was called yesterday as a witness in behalf of Eleanor B. Fox, the seventeen-year-old granddaughter of the Senator, who is contesting the will.

JAPAN KINDLY TOWARD US.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Secretary Lansing made public today the text of excerpts from a speech which Viscount Motono, the Japanese Minister for Foreign Affairs, delivered at the opening of the Japanese Diet on Jan. 23, in which the statement is made that the Tokio Government "is giving deep consideration to the matter of an economic rapprochement between Japan and America."

Viscount Motono, with reference to economic questions in China, commented on the fact that American capitalists have indicated their desire for co-operation with Japanese capitalists, and declared that he regarded this as a "truly gratifying phenomenon." While there have been complicated questions between the two countries, Viscount Motono asserted that "friendly feeling between the two countries has markedly increased."

"The Imperial Government is constantly concerned about friendly relations with the American Government and the American people. It is a fact that questions of such a nature as to injure somewhat the friendly relations between the two countries have occurred, but these questions, by means of negotiations in good faith between the Governments of the two countries, have to a certain extent been satisfactorily solved. There are, of course, questions in regard to which the views of the Governments of the two countries do not agree but this is unavoidable in the relations between nations, and may occur even between allied countries, and is hardly to be wondered at. However, even though the most complicated questions should arise, in case the Governments of the two countries plan some questions without reserve in the spirit of harmony, they can always find a way of compromise. The fact that both the Japanese and American Governments are constantly observing the policy is a matter of great satisfaction to both countries."

WILSON TO SUFFRAGETTES.

Writes of North Dakota Victory—New Yorkers Picket Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The White House today gave out a letter written yesterday by President Wilson to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt indicating an extremely friendly feeling toward the suffrage cause. The letter follows:

"My Dear Mrs. Catt:

"May I not express to you and your organization, as well as to the women of North Dakota, my congratulations upon the passage by the Legislature of that State of a bill granting to the women of the State the right to vote for Presidential Electors and for municipal officers? As you know, I have a very real interest in the extension of the suffrage to the women, and I feel that every step in this direction should be applauded. Cordially and sincerely yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

Twenty-four New York women served today as pickets at the main entrance gates of the White house, holding banners bearing inscriptions that asked President Wilson, with other pertinent questions, what he intended to do for woman suffrage. Among them was Mrs. George Elder Adams, who was said to be a friend of Colonel E. M. House, confidential advisor of President Wilson.

PUTS NO BAN ON STRIKES.

Committee Draws a New Bill to Supplement the Adamson Law.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The Senate Interstate Commerce Committee virtually completed a bill today to supplement the Adamson law. Under the new bill railroad strikes and lockouts are not forbidden. President Wilson had suggested that a provision be included to prevent strikes and lockouts pending investigation of differences.

The new bill, however, would make it a criminal offense, punishable by heavy fine, for a railroad employe who has quit work to trespass on railroad property with a view to preventing by violence, intimidation, or threats the operation of trains.

Another important provision of the bill would authorize the President to take over and operate "such part of" a railroad or its equipment as is necessary to move troops or munitions in war time, threatened war, or insurrection.

HIS IDEA OF NEUTRALITY.

Captain of Scandinavian Liner Would Not Allow Gifts to Russian Blind.

Passengers arriving yesterday on the Scandinavian-American liner Hellig Olav from Copenhagen said that Captain Holst, the commander, was so strongly determined to keep his crew and ship neutral in the war that he would not permit $100 collected at the concert on Wednesday night to be handed over to the purser for the benefit of the maimed and blind Russian soldiers. He said the money must either be given to the Danish Seamen's Fund or refunded to the donors.

The concert was organized by Georg Harteveld, the Russian pianist, who was the chief performer on the program, and at his request the $100 was refunded.

Wilson Honors J. J. Carty.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—In recognition of his distinct ability in the realm of wire and wireless communication, the President today signed a commission appointing John J. Carty of New York City, who is Chief Engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, to be the Senior Major in the Signal Officers' Reserve Corps, the reserve auxiliary of the Signal Corps of the army. This reserve is being formed in each department of the regular army to be called into service in times of war under provisions of the National Defense act of June 3, 1916.

FARRELL DISCUSSES OUR FOREIGN TRADE

Steelmaker Declares Europe Will Have to Replace Property Worth Five Billions.

OPPOSES ANY BOYCOTT

Tells Foreign Trade Convention That We Must Set Ourselves Against "Commercial War in Peace."

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 26.—In an address on "The Future of Foreign Trade," delivered at the dinner tonight of the Fourth National Foreign Trade Convention, James A. Farrell, Chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council and President of the United States Steel Corporation, said, in part:

"When the period of hectic industrial activity, of inflated prices and pay rolls of unheard-of amounts comes to an end with the conclusion of peace, we shall have to reckon with conditions in Europe imperatively demanding the speedy resumption there of a foreign trade which experience has shown to be inseparable from domestic prosperity. Though hampered by the tragical reduction of man-power, the advent of women into the ranks of the workers in machine shops, the gain in efficiency from the wider and freer use of automatic tools, and the intensive co-operation both in production and distribution which will be universal, instead of partial in its application, all these will go far to reinforce the reduced vigor of European competition in the markets of the world. With us, entry into foreign trade is no longer a matter of choice.

"The opportunities of the near future are sufficiently alluring. There will be a period of industrial reconstruction for Europe, and the retarded development of neutral countries is likely to resume at least its former rate of progress. In this latter field there is room enough for all, the more so because in countries still bare of the appliances of modern civilization the process of equipment is apt to be a cumulative one. The new facilities of transportation, production or public convenience not only create a demand for more, but help to create the wealth needed to pay for them.

"We have seized unfairly the commerce of no people; we have taken no mean advantage of the industrial extremity of others, but we have accepted the responsibility of carrying on enterprises which had been begun by European capital whose further supplies were interrupted. Our entrance into new fields of business enterprise abroad has been of signal benefit, not only to the countries where the investments have been made, but to the original investors whose work we have taken up at the point where they were compelled to lay it down."

Mr. Farrell discussed at some length the probable requirements of Europe after the war. At least $5,000,000,000 worth of property would have to be replaced, he said. Then he continued:

"In presence of the gigantic needs of the war-swept territories in Europe and of their poverty-stricken populations, any application of the old-time methods of competition sounds trivial.

"Co-operation on the broadest and most generous scale, and in the most sympathetic spirit, must be the rule, if economic recovery is to be quick and thorough. We shall greatly facilitate international co-operation for the general welfare of the world by establishing a co-operative system of selling in foreign trade among ourselves."

Discussing the attitude of America to world trade after the war, Mr. Farrell said:

"We shall greatly lessen the possibility of perpetuating in the domain of commerce the bitterness and hatred engendered by the war if we refuse to be drawn into any convention, agreement, or understanding that would make us parties to a boycott of the commerce of any of the nations now arrayed against each other.

"It is a debatable question," Mr. Farrell continued, "whether the United States can become a member of an international league of peace for the prevention of further war, but it is not at all doubtful that we can render an invaluable service to the establishment of lasting concord among the peoples of the earth by setting our face against anything that looks to the perpetuation of commercial war in peace."

In closing his address Mr. Farrell said: "In sober truth, the motto of this convention, 'Greater Prosperity Through Greater Foreign Trade,' might with entire correctness be made to read, 'No Enduring Prosperity Without Foreign Trade.'"

More than 1,100 delegates were in attendance at the sessions of the convention today. The final sessions will be held tomorrow.

SAY B. N. BAKER HAS QUIT.

Washington Report That He Has Resigned from the Shipping Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A report was current in Washington tonight that Bernard N. Baker, a member of the new Federal Shipping Board, had resigned and that his resignation had been accepted by the President. Confirmation of the report was not obtainable from any other official source.

Only last week in a speech before the Navy League of the United States at its dinner in this city Mr. Baker assured its members that as a member of the new board he would do everything possible to aid the navy through the development of the merchant marine.

NEW PEACE MAGAZINE.

Women Edit Four Lights, Which Wants to Shine Against War.

The first issue of a publication called Four Lights will make its appearance today. According to the foreword in this number, "Four Lights will attempt to voice the young, uncompromising woman's peace movement in America, whose aims are daring and immediate—to stop the war in Europe, to federate the nations for organized peace at the close of the war, and, meanwhile, to guard democracy from the subtle dangers of militarism.

It will be a fortnightly, with three new editors for each number. The first editors are Anne Herendeen, Edna Kenton, and Zoë Beckley.

Magistrate Sues a Writer.

Magistrate Daniel F. Murphy commenced a $50,000 libel suit yesterday in the Supreme Court against Frank Harris, novelist and magazine writer, and the Pearson Publishing Company, based on a page written by Mr. Harris and published in Pearson's Magazine for February in an article entitled "The Prosecutor-Judge."

RULING ON ARMED TRADERS.

Netherlands to Treat Those in Colonies as Warships.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Jan. 26, (via London.)—The Dutch Minister of Foreign Affairs announced in the Chamber of Deputies today that armed merchantmen in the Dutch colonies would be treated as war vessels except in the case of ships carrying provisions.

The Government, the Foreign Minister said, had protested against the detention of grain cargoes, and he expressed the hope that Great Britain was prepared to pay compensation, as such detention arose from misconception. The same, he added, could be said with regard to the detention of copper cargoes.

Has Balfour Spiked the Guns of Prussian Logic?

Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, Balfour, in his note supplementing the Entente's reply to President Wilson's request for a statement of peace terms, declares that he does "not believe peace can be durable if it be not based upon the success of the Allied cause."

Apparently, one of the objects of this new communication was to convince the American public that the changes in the map of Europe suggested in the previous note of the Entente Allies would prevent future wars.

On the other hand, the pro-German "Fatherland," of New York, dismisses the Allies' terms as under no circumstances the possible basis for permanent peace and holds up the "principles of nationality" for ridicule.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for January 27th, the leading article deals with Mr. Balfour's note and by quoting the opinions of editorial observers of widely differing sentiment, reflects public opinion in this country upon the subject in a most comprehensive way.

Among other articles of unusual interest in this week's issue are

Keep Your Finger on the Pulse of Public Opinion

There is only one sure way to find out what the people think, either in America or elsewhere, and that is to compare the utterances of all the periodicals on any given question, and then to draw your own conclusions. This is a practical impossibility for any single individual, but it is done thoroughly and painstakingly for you each week in THE LITERARY DIGEST, which presents the consensus of all opinions for your consideration in the form of brief and pointed quotations from publications of all shades. It does this impartially, recording all views, but advocating none. It is thus a veritable digest of all that is being thought, said, and done the world over, preserved in compact form for your reading.

COTTON GAINS AGAIN.

Opening Showed Advance of 12 to 16 Points and Then Eased Off.

The cotton market was irregular in its movements yesterday. An early advance to 17.42 for May deliveries attracted considerable realizing, and local selling for a reaction soon developed, with prices easing off to practically Thursday's final figures. The market closed steady at a net advance of 2 to 10 points on a final flurry of covering.

The opening was steady at an advance of 12 to 16 points, and the active months sold 15 to 22 points net higher during the middle of the morning. A good part of the demand seemed to be in the way of covering and after this subsided the market turned easier, with May selling off from 17.42 to 17.21. That delivery closed at 17.31, with the afternoon trading narrow enough to be influenced by comparatively small orders either way.

Exports for the week were 164,213 bales, against 75,242 for the same week last year. The visible supply of American cotton showed a decrease of 80,619 bales, compared with a decrease of 53,119 bales for the same week last year. Yesterday's quotations follow:

OUTLOOK PLEASES LOVETT.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 26.—Judge R. S. Lovett, President of the Union Pacific Railroad, who was here today, said:

"Railroads over the country are making fair returns on their investment, especially last year. However, that was an abnormal year. Everybody wanting to ship at once and the absence of ocean shipping have created a little discomfort over the country on account of a car shortage.

"On my own lines I am looking for better business from now on because of the Federal farm loan law. The establishment of these banks and the use of the money by farmers are going to result in a great development of idle lands, and agriculture always goes good with railroad business."

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

WHEAT.

Heavy selling pressure developed in the wheat market, and at the close of the day prices were only slightly above the lowest and showed net losses of ⅝c to 3⅝c. In the local cash market No. 2 hard Winter wheat was quoted at $2.06¼; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $2.17¼; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $2.17¼, all free on board New York.

September	1.39⅜	1.37¼	1.38	1.38⅜	..

CORN.

The corn market showed heaviness, and at the close was ¼c net lower, mainly on the break in wheat. Increased export activity was noted, but mainly to fill ocean tonnage awaiting cargoes at the seaboard. Cash corn here was also easy, being quoted at 1.15, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, for No. 2 yellow.

OATS.

Steadiness was a feature around the opening on support from cash interests and commission houses, but later the market yielded to the weakness in other grains and at the close was ⅝c net lower. Buffalo advices reported that the highest basis of the season had been paid for oats needed to load vessels by seaboard exporters. The cash market was easier here; standard quoted at 69@69½c; No. 2 white, 69½c; No. 3 white, 68@68½c; No. 4 white, 67@67½c; fancy clipped white, 71@72½c; ordinary clipped white, 67½@69c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

After an easier opening in sympathy with lower hogs, provisions had a slight upturn and then weakened again, ruling heavy throughout the afternoon in sympathy with grain, and closing near the bottom. Receipts at Chicago were 35,000 hogs, with 32,000 estimated for Saturday. Kansas City had 4,000, Omaha 20,000, and all Western points about 132,000 hogs.

COFFEE.

No fresh feature developed in the coffee market yesterday. Recent trading has doubtless reflected an evening up of accounts, and as the interest created by conflicting ideas of peace prospects has diminished, trading has become less active. Yesterday business was particularly light, and fluctuations commensurately narrow and irregular, with the market closing net unchanged to 4 points lower. Sales were estimated at 11,750 bags. The local spot market was dull and unchanged at 10c for Rio 7s and 10⅝c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

The sugar futures market opened 4 points lower on January and generally 1 to 3 points higher on other months, with sales on the call 400 tons. Early in the day Cuban interests supported February and March freely, which caused the list to advance 3 or 4 points, but reports of the spreading of the strike at local refineries caused considerable selling pressure and values soon lost their gain, the close being net unchanged to an advance of 3 points, with sales estimated at 9,550 tons. The market for refined sugar was unchanged at 6.75c for fine granulated. There was only a light inquiry reported and refiners were delayed in making delivery owing to the labor difficulties at two of the leading refineries. Raw sugar was unchanged at the close of the day, at 4.89c, cost and freight basis. The spreading strike has further unsettled the market and some sugar was being placed in store, as it could not be handled by refiners. Operators were showing a buying interest in very prompt sugar at 3⅞c, cost and freight, equal to 4.89c duty paid for centrifugals. There was a sale of 8,000 bags prompt Porto Ricos at 4.75c. Quotations follow: Centrifugals, 4.89c; molasses, 4.02c; cost and freight, 3⅞c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 5,941 packages. Buyers are taking high grades of fresh creamery about as fast as they come in, and prices are firmly maintained, but without quotable change. For the secondary grades the inquiry is quite large, and values advanced another ½c, with a decidedly firm feeling at the close. There is a little stronger market for the best grades of storage creamery. Renovated quiet and unchanged. Ladles and packing stock steadier. Creamery, higher scoring than extras, per pound, 41½@42c; extras, (92 score,) 40½@41c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 36@40c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 34@35½c; thirds, 32½@33½c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 42¼@43c; extras, 41½@42c; firsts, 36½@40½c; seconds, 34@36c; creamery, held, higher than extras, 37½@38c; extras, 36¾@37c; firsts, 35@36½c; seconds, 33½@34½c; thirds, 32@33c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 39@39½c; good to prime, 35½@38c; common to fair, 29@35c; renovated, extras, 33½@34c; firsts, 32@33c; lower grades, 29@31c; imitation creamery, firsts, 31@32c; ladles, current make, firsts, 29@30c; seconds, 28@28½c; lower grades, 27@27½c; racking stock, current make, No. 1, 28c; No. 2, 27@27½c; lower grades, 25½@26½c.

EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 3,229 cases. The market gained a stronger tone, under a somewhat better clearance of stock free to be sold, and with light receipts there is a further hardening tendency, prices showing a sharp advance and closing firm. There is a little gap between the bulk of the express shipments and freight shipments, and previous accumulations have been cleaning up more closely, although there are still some lots here held under limits. Exchange sales ranged chiefly from 41½@42c, a few reaching 42½c, but latter price has been realized from store on high-grade firsts, the market closing quite strong at the improvement. Storage eggs are meeting a steady, moderate distributing trade, and tone of the market is firmer, with the sales of desirable lots at slightly better prices than lately quoted; very few of the remaining lots are, however, showing quality to exceed a range of 36@37c. Nearby white eggs are still in considerable accumulation, trade is quiet and prices unimproved. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 43½c; extra firsts, 43c; firsts, 41½@42½c; seconds and lower grades, 40@41c; refrigerator firsts, 37½@38c; seconds, 36@37c; lower grades, 34@35½c. DUTY ON SHELL GRINDERS.

Customs Case Which Disclosed How Projectiles Are Finished.

The part played by shell grinders in the preparation of finished projectiles for the Allies was set forth in the testimony of the Ford-Smith Machine Company in a customs protest case decided yesterday by the Board of General Appraisers. It appeared that the shell grinders were imported from Canada at the ports of Buffalo and St. Albans, Vt., by C. J. Tower and P. McGettrick for the account of the Ford-Smith concern.

The Collectors at the ports named classified the grinders as "manufactures of metal not specially provided for," and took duty at the rate of 20 per cent. The contention of the importers was that entry should have been given at 15 per cent. under the provision in the present tariff for "machine tools."

D. Ford-Smith, whose firm appeared as protestant, and which is furnishing shells under contract to the British and other allied Governments, said at the hearing that the shell-grinding machines were operated by belt power, ranging between twenty and thirty horse power, depending on the size of the shell on which they were operated. He stated that the grinders worked upon high carbon steel and shaped the shell from the lathe to the finished sides, but were capable of use for any kind of form metal grinding.

"When the shell enters this machine," said the witness, "it is very roughly shaped, and when it leaves it the diameter of the shell has been cut down to the proper dimensions required for the finished shape. The tool employed in this work is a revolving emery wheel, known as the 'abrasive wheel,' and operates in exactly the same way as any cutting tool in the ordinary machine tool. This tool performs the twofold function of cutting the shell to the desired shape and then reducing the rough shell to the finished condition, the machine working by either steam or electricity."

As the Government was unable to produce witnesses to contradict Mr. Ford-Smith's testimony, Judge Fischer held the shell grinders had been shown conclusively to be "machine tools" within the generally accepted and tariff sense of the term. The protest was sustained and the customs officials reversed.

DRY GOODS BUYERS ACTIVE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Wholesale distribution of dry goods for the current week is substantially in excess of the corresponding period of a year ago. Our road salesmen are now on their territories showing many lines for Fall delivery. While opening prices are higher than a year ago, merchants are placing liberal orders to cover their needs for their Fall trade. Road sales for immediate and Spring delivery are running well ahead of the corresponding period of 1916. Many Western and Southern buyers have been in the market during the week. Collections are satisfactory."

Names Receiver for Texas Railroad.

Special to The New York Times.

MARSHALL, Texas, Jan. 26.—The United States District Court today approved the application of the St. Louis Trust Company for the appointment of a receiver for the Marshall and East Texas Railroad, which runs between Winnsboro and Elysian Fields. Bryan Snyder was appointed receiver. A. T. Perkins of St. Louis is President of the railroad. The amount of outstanding bonds is $1,800,000.

Will Handle Claims Free.

At a meeting of creditors of the Michigan Furniture Company held here yesterday a committee of six representative men in the furniture industry, each representing a different branch, was chosen to handle the claims of the creditors without charging collection fees, a procedure which is said to be unusual in bankruptcy cases. The committee is made up of J. H. Haig of the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Company, John Trounsteine of the Greenpoint Metallic Bed Company, Peter Fauer of Theodore Fauer & Co., P. Nathan of P. Nathan & Co., William Myers of the Manhattan Bedding Company, and J. Goldstein. The liabilities, which were given in yesterday's TIMES as $163,000, are said to be the largest the furniture trade has seen in years. There are about 250 creditors.

Brassiere Outlook Is Fine.

The cut and materials of Spring garments for women appear to be all in favor of brassieres this season, and, as a result, a record business is presaged. The bust heights of the new corsets will also help the demand, as they are so low in many cases as to make figure-conforming brassieres imperative to all but the slimmest women. The need of the heavy figure for restraining brassieres is particularly great this season, but the desired effect will be gained more by the use of strong fabrics than by heavy boning. In fact, a great many of the models shown come in the "soft" class, in which crepe de chine, wash satins, &c., are used. Bandeau effects continue popular, and ribbon shoulder straps are widely employed. Drop shoulder and front-fastening brassieres also are favored by buyers. On all but the more strictly tailored models there is a wealth of trimming, generally of lace or embroidery.

Corset Sales Are Active.

The efforts of designers of women's outer garments this season to produce natural figure effects is reflected in corset models that feature low and medium high busts, ranging from 2½ inches up. The new models do not differ radically, however, from those of the last season or two. The waistline is still nipped in a little. The slightly curved back is also seen, but below the waist the lines are straight for the most part. Skirt lengths vary with the needs of the individual figure, but there is an apparent tendency toward longer skirts than last season. Sales are good generally, specialty corsets of one kind or another being very much in evidence in the orders placed. The trend of fabrics used in the new corsets is noticeably toward richer materials, especially so in the more expensive models. Silk fabrics, including brocades, wash satins, tricot, &c., are used quite extensively in the better ones.

Gray Goods Show Little Change.

Little change was shown in the demand for gray goods here yesterday, buyers and sellers still being apart as to price. More inquiries were in the market for 38½-inch 64-60s at less than mill prices, but they received scant consideration. Sellers say that it is now out of the question to get quick deliveries of these goods under 7½ cents, but buyers appear loath to bid more than 7⅝. For delivery during the next three months, sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made from first hands at 8¼ cents, but beyond this there was not a great deal of printcloth business done. From second hands 48 square four-yard sheetings sold at 8¾ cents, the mills being firm for a quarter more. Not much was done in fine goods, though some lawns offered by second hands were disposed of. Printcloths closed nominally as follows:

39-inch, 68-72s	8¼c	38½-inch, 60-52s	6⅝c
39-inch, 56-44s	6⅞c	38½-inch, 60-48s	6½c
38½-inch, 64-64s	7⅝c	27-inch, 64-60s	5⅝c

Demand for Better Values Noted.

While there is still a good deal of substituting going on in the buying of piece goods by the clothiers, the tendency now, it is said, is more in the direction of maintaining quality and paying more. The reason given for this change is that in event of a sudden readjustment of conditions the manufacturers with standard merchandise to offer will not be so likely to suffer. In other words, the decline in values, if there is any, will not be so great in the case of real quality goods as in the case of cheap substitutes. The buying at present seems almost equally divided between woolens and worsteds, which is regarded as evidence of the cautious policy described.

About Dresses for Spring.

The barrel skirt appears to be improving in demand here since the ingenuity of the American designers has been at work turning out adaptations of it that will meet the tastes of the women of this country. While more manufacturers are taking it up as the season advances, there is still some question as to its ultimate success because all kinds of figures cannot "carry" the fullness that is so essentially a part of this style. The natural figure silhouette continues in favor, though various adaptations of Empire ideas are being taken and some improvement in the call for semi-fitted models is reported. In sport dresses a profusion of colors, fabrics and styles is seen. Pastel shades are in general favor, with navy the best of the staple colors for street wear. Crepes, particularly crepes de chine, French serges, gabardines, &c., are among the popular fabrics.

Cost Method and Trade Acceptance.

Two of the most important topics to be discussed at the coming meeting of the local clothing manufacturers will be cost-finding methods and trade acceptances. According to an official of the organization, both these adjuncts to modern business have been constantly urged for adoption by the clothiers, but so far have not gotten very far beyond the stage of discussion. This manufacturer is certain that, by the installation of an up-to-date cost finding system, the trade can be benefited considerably. The percentage of manufacturers who still use the rule of thumb method in arriving at their costs, he said, is much too high. The success of the trade acceptance plan in other industries, he stated, may lead to its adoption by the clothiers' organization as a body.

What the Fur Sale Showed.

The New York Fur Auction gave, according to a prominent dealer, the following hints of what the fur trade may expect. The increased prices of ermine and other flat furs indicated that they will be popular skins for Summer, along with foxes. Mink, from the standpoint of buyers' operations, should prove a very popular article in making up coats for next Fall. Marten will be used as a substitute for sable by those who cannot afford the higher priced fur. The wide use which dyed muskrat, which is called Hudson seal, has attained will by no means diminish. As a trimming, according to the dealer, it will be popular both in men's and women's garments.

Another Phase of Preparedness.

War and all its necessities should lie far, it would seem, from the thoughts of an infants' wear manufacturer, but the representative of a house in that trade comes out with a plan to assist in the preparedness movement. He believes that a canvass should be started of all manufacturing plants to discover their ability to make certain goods needed by the nation in war time. Possessed with the information that this canvass would give, the Government, this man said, would be in a position to obtain more dispatch in gathering together war supplies.

BUSINESS NOTES.

SMITH DEFENDS LIGHTERAGE

Testifies at Rate Hearing That Ships Can't Be Loaded Direct.

Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith testified yesterday for the city in the rate hearings before Examiner Wilbur La Roe, Jr., of the Interstate Commerce Commission, at the Chamber of Commerce, on the petition of nearby New Jersey municipalities for a differential and more adequate switching facilities. Questioned by George W. Wickersham, he testified to the necessity of the present lighterage system in handling the shipping of the port, and said that it was not practicable to load ships direct from railway cars on piers at which they docked.

Statistics also were introduced to show that the rate of commercial growth of the New Jersey municipalities had been greater than that of New York. The hearings will be continued at 10 o'clock this morning, with Julius Henry Cohen conducting the case for the State.

Fashion Helps Neckwear Demand.

The vogue for tailored garments for early Spring is expected by manufacturers of women's neckwear to do a great deal toward giving them an excellent season. As a result of it a variety of large and small flat collars is seen, the larger ones apparently being the better liked. One of the features of the new collar is the depth of the openings at the neck, the V being much bigger than usual in collars of this type. Stocks and jabots are regarded as very much in the running for the better class trade and for certain sports wear. Windsor ties in unusual designs and colorings are in favor. Collar and cuff sets, guimpes, vestees, and fichus are among the more staple things that are being shown. Fine voiles, organdies, piqués, nets, and Georgette crepes are much used. Some filet lace collars are seen, but for the most part the filet is used as trimming. Imitation filet is also seen. Some of the higher-priced collars are decorated with hand-embroidered designs, imitations of which are said to be expected before long.

Carpet Co. Raises Wages Again.

The Alex. Smith & Sons Carpet Company, Yonkers, has increased the pay of its 7,200 employes 10 per cent. The increase is the second within ten months, and is granted to enable the operatives to meet the higher cost of living. The company's announcement comes several days before the distribution of bonuses as part of the profit-sharing plan instituted in 1914.

Maher Heads Third Avenue Co.

Stocks Reactionary on Peace Talk—England's Foreign Securities.

The talk of peace again disturbed the minds of traders yesterday. It is a more familiar thought and one much less capable of causing market unsettlement than it was in September last, when there existed a large open position in the stock market built up on war profit considerations. It still possesses, however, some force as a selling argument among traders, and they used it yesterday in transactions during the course of which prices which had shown some strength earlier in the day receded to a level below that of Thursday.

The report that the Kaiser would make another peace move today on the occasion of his birthday was the concrete suggestion around which bearish arguments associated with peace possibilities were built. It itself that report might not have been a factor of any potency in the stock market were it not that in the background of all such reports is the belief which is entertained in important banking quarters, that Germany is sufficiently in need of peace to make it necessary for her in one shape or another to keep alive the talk of peace until peace has been attained.

The main reasons why declines on peace suggestions, such as that which occurred yesterday are perfunctory affairs compared with the liquidation which was precipitated in December when peace talk first took concrete shape are, first, that liquidation has greatly lightened the market's burden, and second, that the opinion is no longer very widely held that an indefinite prolongation of the war would in reality add to this country's prosperity. The effect exerted by any given factor upon the stock market depends very largely upon the technical position of the market at the time the influence is exerted. News which would greatly affect an extended market has little effect in a market in which the volume of securities held on margin is small. It is relatively small now.

Some would have associated the softening of prices yesterday with the news that Great Britain has decided to resort to compulsory mobilization of the foreign securities still held in private hands in England, were it not that there is no reason at all for assuming that this further step toward utilizing English holdings of foreign stocks and bonds is a prelude to further selling of American securities in this market. They are in fact likely to be taken under terms which will preclude their sale though making them fully available for use as collateral.

There is no way of telling with exactitude the amount of American securities which will be affected by the order for compulsory mobilization. The amount will be large in itself, but probably not large in comparison with the amount of our securities which have already been sold by England or used by her as collateral for loans. Moreover, it is likely that the proportion of American securities to the total foreign securities remaining unmobilized in England is much less than the original proportion of American securities to the total of British foreign investments. Besides the American stocks and bonds already placed at the disposal of the British Government by their English owners, many more have been sold privately owing to the high prices at which American securities have sold during the war. On the other hand, the securities of many other countries in which England had large sums invested have been relatively hard to sell.

What is to be expected, therefore, is that a further large amount of securities, including some Americans, will come under the control of the British Government to be used as collateral, if the occasion arises, rather than to be sold outright. It was said in bond market circles yesterday that the response to the public offering of the $250,000,000 issue of British notes had exceeded expectations, and that all but a few of the notes had been placed. The Street expects that announcement of the closing of the subscription list will be made on Monday.

LONDON MARKET IS QUIET.

Money Scarcer as Applications for War Loan Increase.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Money is becoming scarcer as applications for the war loan increase. The Bank of England is holding supplies back to maintain rates, and it is expected tighter conditions will prevail soon. Another concession has been announced to popularize the war loan, namely, the abolition of practically all transfer fees on Government securities.

The order to commandeer foreign securities to maintain exchange rates did not surprise the financial district, as it is known that large amounts are still held privately.

The lists for the £10,000,000 Russian Treasury notes closed well subscribed.

The stock market was quiet. Consols declined again, but home rails were good on dividend announcements. The other sections were dull, including the American.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

No New Bethlehem Bonds Yet.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation desires to emphasize the wording of Mr. Schwab's statement in regard to the contemplated bond issue which he made after the Directors' meeting last Tuesday. After saying that day that the Directors deemed it advisable to provide for the creation of a first and refunding mortgage, the head of Bethlehem said: "Authority for the creation of such a mortgage may be asked of the stockholders at their annual meeting in April." Another statement came from the Bethlehem offices yesterday, which said: "No sale of bonds in the early future is contemplated. The company is simply taking advantage of the assemblage of stockholders at the forthcoming annual meeting to obtain the necessary authority for a mortgage in order that bonds may be available when the time comes."

Building Out of Earnings.

The Bethlehem management plans, according to views expressed by Mr. Schwab, to utilize the $15,000,000 to be obtained by the sale of 150,000 shares of new stock and judicious appropriations from earnings to carry out the construction program now under way. The plan calls for the expenditure of $100,000,000, it is said, within the next three years. Presumably, if business continues at the current profitable rate, liberal application of income above the 10 per cent. dividends will be made, and if the amounts thus available are enough to cover the three years' work, bonds will not be sold. In case earnings should fail to provide enough funds for the contemplated outlay, the task will be bonded from the point where the Directors decide that income should not be sacrificed as capital expenditures.

Lead at High Price.

Lead was reported as selling yesterday at 8⅛ cents a pound in moderate-sized lots, with the larger dealers well sold up until March. This price equaled the maximum quotation last year, and reflected another phase of the current demand for metals. According to information obtained in the trade, the high price was caused in part by the present congestion of railroad facilities, between 2,000 and 3,000 tons of lead being held up somewhere between seaboard and the Mississippi River.

Profits in Short Selling.

A prominent trader who has been asked to appear before the "leak" committee next week has prepared a record of all of his transactions entered into in the week of the peace note excitement. The most interesting item on the record is "net profits." What this amount is he would not tell yesterday, though he expects to present it in the hearing. He is also likely to explain his theories of short selling.

"The public has a very erroneous idea of the amount of money a few people made that week," he said. "They think that a big operator made millions in those few days. The popular belief seems to be that the man on the short side always makes big profits. I could tell them of a number of instances where I have lost a good deal of money. I could tell them of an instance in which I covered short stock at a loss and then saw it advance 100 points. I have bought stock at the top and sold it near the bottom like everybody else. No man is big enough to move the market up or down. If it is going up it will roll over him, no matter how much stock he puts out and if it is going down his buying will not do more than check the decline. I made money on the peace break, but if my judgment had not been good I might just as well have lost a large sum. It has always seemed to me easier to make profits on the short side."

Inside Information.

The Directors and other officers of a corporation have a great advantage over the general public in knowing at first hand just what a corporation is doing, but their experience in trading in the stock is usually the same as that of outsiders. It is a well-known fact that Directors of some of the companies which took war business sold most of their stock in the early stages of the rise and bought it back much higher than it sells today. They were slow to accept the market's estimate of earnings on the rise and slow to admit that it was not worth what it was selling for when the downward movement started. Some of the shrewdest men in the financial district today are carrying stock in companies whose affairs they helped to direct at prices far above those now prevailing. They believed so strongly in the companies that they refused to believe the ticker.

Increase in Cotton Consumption.

The constant increase in the consumption of cotton during the last twenty years is strikingly shown in figures just compiled by A. Norden & Co. For the five years from 1896 to 1901 it averaged 10,457,000 bales a year; from 1901 to 1906 it averaged 11,124,000 bales, an increase of 6.4 per cent.; from 1906 to 1911 it averaged 12,338,000 bales, an increase of 10.9 per cent., and from 1911 to 1916 it averaged 14,484,000 bales, an increase of 17.4 per cent. If for the next five years the increase should be 10 per cent., the average annual consumption, it is figured, will amount to 15,932,000 bales, and in the event of a 15 per cent. increase the yearly consumption will be 16,656,000 bales. This cotton firm argues that a large crop will be needed in case of continued war, and that with peace in sight a crop will be needed "such as the United States cannot produce except by miracle."

Citizens' Central to Change Name.

Directors of the Citizens' Central National Bank have called a special meeting of the stockholders, to be held Feb. 28, to ratify the recommendation of the board that the name of the bank be changed to "The Citizens' National Bank of New York." Originally the bank was a State institution, chartered in 1851, and in 1865 it became a national institution, under the name of the National Citizens' Bank. In December, 1910, it absorbed the Ninth National Bank, and in 1904 it consolidated with the Central National, adopting the name of the Citizens' Central National.

$354,000,000 MORE GOLD FOR RESERVE

House Committee Approves Plan to Increase Holdings of the System.

AUTHORIZES BRANCH BANKS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Important amendments to the currency law intended to permit the Federal Reserve system to increase its gold holdings by $354,000,000 and also to increase the loan facilities of the system were agreed upon today by the House Committee on Banking and Currency.

The amendments materially modify the existing law relating to reserves, authorize the establishment of branch banks in cities of more than 100,000 population, and establish what is virtually a national clearing house system. These changes were suggested by the Federal Reserve Board, but the committee rejected certain of the recommendations of the board.

Chairman Glass issued a statement tonight explaining in technical detail the importance of the proposed changes in the law. The statement follows:

"The most important of the proposed modifications of the Federal Reserve act, as agreed upon by the committee, has reference to the reserve section of the act. The new provision requires the final split of reserves to be made immediately instead of Nov. 17 next, and requires all reserves to be kept with the Federal Reserve Banks instead of requiring part of the reserves to be kept with these banks, part in the vaults of member banks, and part either in the reserve or member banks. Country banks are required to keep a balance of 7 per centum of the aggregate amount of their demand deposits and 3 per centum of time deposits with the Federal Reserve Bank; reserve city banks are required to maintain an actual balance of not less than 10 per centum of demand deposits and 3 per centum of time deposits, and central reserve city banks are required to hold an actual net balance with the Federal Reserve Bank of not less than 13 per centum of demand deposits and 3 per centum of time deposits.

"It is computed that this alteration in the reserve requirements will result in increasing the gold holdings of the Federal Reserve system by approximately $354,000,000. The proposed new provision leaves it to discretion of member banks, subject to the supervisory control of the Controller of the Currency and the Federal Reserve Board, to keep such amounts of till money as their necessities may require.

"The committee by practically unanimous vote rejected the provision of the bill authorizing Federal Reserve Banks to exchange their notes for gold and allowing gold thus acquired to be counted as part of the gold reserve which Federal Reserve Banks are required to maintain against Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation. Aside from other objections urged to this provision, the major contention seems to be that the alterations of the reserve section of the Federal Reserve act giving Federal Reserve Banks approximately $354,000,000 of additional gold, would strengthen the system sufficiently to meet any emergency that might reasonably be anticipated.

"By a very close vote the committee rejected the proposed amendment giving the Federal Reserve Board power, whenever extraordinary conditions justified, to increase, from time to time, for specified brief periods, the reserve requirements of the act with respect to member banks.

"The committee, by a decisive vote, also rejected the proposed amendment to permit mutual savings banks to become associate members of the Federal Reserve system.

"By a more than two to one vote the committee adopted the amendment proposed by the Federal Reserve Board to permit Federal Reserve Banks, solely for purposes of exchange or collection, to receive from non-member banks or trust companies deposits of current funds in lawful money, national bank notes, Federal Reserve notes, checks and drafts, payable upon presentation, or maturing notes and bills. In order to avail of such privilege non-member banks must maintain such net balance with the Federal Reserve Bank as may be prescribed by the rules and regulations of the Federal Reserve Board.

"Several proposed minor changes in the existing law were approved by the committee, the chief of which was to clarify the provision of existing law relating to United States bonds impounded in the Treasury by national banks organized prior to the passage of the Federal Reserve act. These bonds are to be released, as was intended by the Federal Reserve act; but in order to clear up some confusion of interpretation it is proposed to make the statute clear.

"By a vote of nine to five the Chairman of the committee was directed to report in a separate bill an amendment to Section 25 of the Federal Reserve act, which would authorize national banks located in cities of more than one hundred thousand inhabitants, possessing a capital of $1,000,000 or more, to establish not exceeding ten branches within the corporate limits of such city, but such authority shall apply only in States which by State law authorize State banks or trust companies to establish branches. In no case shall a national bank be permitted to establish a greater number of branches than State law permits State banks or trust companies to establish. This is a bitterly contested proposition, as shown by the discussions in the committee, and the bill will very likely be strenuously contested if it gets consideration at this session of Congress."

100 PER CENT. GAIN IN PROFIT

The General Chemical Company and the American Brass Company, whose activities have been stimulated during the war, report exceptional increases of profits in 1916 over 1915, the former gaining more than 100 per cent. and the latter about 85 per cent. General Chemical's net income was $12,286,826, after a liberal reserve for insurance had been made, against $5,958,746 the year before. A balance of $8,782,690 remained for the common stock after charges and preferred stock dividends, of which $3,408,636 was paid to common shareholders. The year's surplus was $5,374,054, compared with $772,670 in 1915.

The American Brass Company's net profit was $10,991,669, compared with $6,128,454 in 1915 and $1,450,347 in 1914. This was the sum available for dividends, being equivalent to $72.66 per share of stock. The stockholders received $3,750,000, and a balance of $7,241,669 was carried to the surplus account. The total surplus at the end of the year was $20,887,279, more than double that of two years before.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Commenting on the condition of trade and the business of the banks, Dun's Review says:

After a natural lull, the momentum of business increases, though there is no repetition of the feverish buying recently witnessed. Both domestic and foreign requirements, notwithstanding previous heavy purchases, remain extensive, but competitive bidding has largely subsided and the general situation is clearly more wholesome. Doubts regarding future supplies and prices cause hesitancy in many quarters and some buyers who are covered well ahead hold off in anticipation of concessions, yet where needs are pressing the element of cost is still little considered and premiums continue effective if special advantages on shipments are possible.

Heavy settlements through the banks reflect sustained business activity in all sections, total clearings this week at leading cities in the United States amounting to $4,779,824,402, an increase of 20.8 per cent. as compared with the $3,958,680,077 of the same week last year and of 82.1 per cent., as contrasted with the $2,623,815,507 reported for the corresponding week in 1915.

Bradstreet's says:

Industrial plants are surfeited with orders, some being sold twelve months ahead, the steel and shipbuilding industries being particularly favored in this respect, and seemingly in a position to be oblivious to peace propaganda. In fact, this week's developments indicate further strengthening of underlying factors. Industry just now suffers materially from inability to get cars, which restricts shipments of raw materials while hampering deliveries of finished products, and the consequences are especially felt in iron and steel, fuel and lumber, as well as in the movement of grain and textiles.

SILVER 77 CENTS AN OUNCE.

Almost Equals Highest Quotation Since War's Outbreak.

The price of bar silver rose yesterday to 77 cents an ounce, which is within one-quarter of a cent of the highest quotation since the outbreak of the war. The record was made last May on a heavy demand from European as well as Oriental sources, after which prices fell back to nearly 70 cents. The renewed strength of silver is in keeping with general conditions in the metal trade. The long suspension of mining operations in Mexico has helped to deplete supplies.

DRUGGISTS EARN 12%.

The year just closed was the most prosperous in the history of the American Druggists' Syndicate. In his annual report President C. H. Goddard states that during the year the syndicate increased its best previous volume of business by $1,000,000. All of this represented increased purchases by the 25,000 druggist stockholders throughout the United States, and no part of it was in war orders.

Out of its earnings of close onto 12 per cent. for the year, the syndicate set aside 8 per cent. for dividends and the balance for development purposes and reserve. The profits last year, says President Goddard, would have been doubled, but for the tremendous increase in the price of all raw material, due to the European war.

JUDGE HAND REBUKES JUROR FOR HECKLING

TALKED ON WRITING EXPERTS

Lawyer for Defense Says the Case Is One of Power Against Justice—Goes to Jury Today.

In the United States District Court yesterday there was presented the unusual incident of a juror heckling the prosecuting officer during the summing up to the jury. The interruptions of the inquisitive juror were features of the close of the trial of Franklin D. Safford, the Plainfield hotel clerk, who is charged before Judge Learned Hand and a jury with having sworn falsely that James W. Osborne, the lawyer, as "Oliver Osborne," took Rae Tanzer to the Plainfield hotel on Oct. 18, 1914. The juror was Gerson Stern, a real estate man of 530 West 125th Street. Judge Hand finally told him he was evidently trying to decide the case by what he had heard outside of the courtroom rather than by the evidence.

William Rand, Jr., the special prosecutor, took all afternoon to present the Government's case to the jury. Step by step he took them over the whole tangle that began when Rae Tanzer swore that it was James W. Osborne who met her after a street flirtation and told her he was Oliver Osborne. He said that he concurred with everything the defense had said regarding the character of Charles H. Wax, the self-confessed Oliver Osborne. He told the jury that they must regard Wax, whom he described as a "flashy" fellow, simply as an exhibit in the case.

Mr. Stern began his questions just after Mr. Rand had started to speak. He first wanted to know whether Mr. Swayne, a Post Office Inspector, did not have the keys to Oliver Osborne's trunks during the two weeks they were in the cellar of Mrs. Denham's boarding house, 161 East Sixtieth Street. Mr. Rand explained that he did not and the juror wanted to know whether the trunks could not have been burglarized. Again he interrupted when Mr. Rand said handwriting experts were often misleading.

"You would have us believe nothing that experts say?" Mr. Stern asked. Patiently Mr. Rand explained the circumstances when he thought experts were necessary.

"You are expert enough for me," he continued to the jurors, "I would rather trust the dog who suns himself in my yard to say whether Oliver or James W. wrote the letters than Mark Anthony Hamilton, the expert to whom Cleopatra confided her precious secret as to what she did when she got her feet wet. Hamilton said he charged $100 a day, and he came here for nothing to be revenged upon James W. Osborne, who denounced him in the Alds case."

Mr. Rand was referring here to the fact that Albert J. Hamilton, a handwriting expert called in Safford's behalf, had once sold remedies, among them one which he called "Cleopatra's Secret."

Again, when Mr. Rand was telling how ethical Harold Spielberg, a former lawyer for Rae Tanzer, had acted when his client recanted, Mr. Stern interrupted with another question.

"You say Mr. Spielberg has a high reputation. What about when he was running in the Tenth Assembly District?" asked Mr. Stern. He also wanted to know about a suit involving $10,000 and a Mr. Leventritt. The question caused a stir in the courtroom, and Mr. Rand hastened to tell the juror that there was nothing at all about Mr. Spielberg's conduct in the Tenth Assembly District in evidence in this case.

"I must say," Judge Hand exclaimed, "that I am amazed at your inquiry from the jury box. It seems to me that you are preparing to decide this case by things you have heard outside."

He told Mr. Stern that if he followed such a proceeding he would be false to his oath, and finally Mr. Stern nodded in assent. There were further interruptions, and Mr. Rand, in asking that they cease, said they got him "off his trolley."

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

An important purchase for the East Side Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association was made yesterday when Percy R. Pyne, 2d, who is Chairman of the board, bought for the use of the branch the two parcels at 152 and 164 East Eighty-seventh Street, adjoining the present building at either end. The former parcel, a five-story tenement adjoining the southeast corner of Lexington Avenue, 27 by 100.8 was acquired from William H. Schmohl, and the plot at 164, a stable, 25.6 front, was bought from George M. Fitzpatrick. With these parcels the Y. M. C. A. has a frontage on Eighty-seventh Street of 154 feet, and the present building also includes a plot 51.1 at 153 and 155 East Eighty-sixth Street, adjoining the Yorkville Theatre.

The present buildings are four stories high, but plans are being prepared to erect on the Eighty-seventh Street plot an eight or ten story building to provide accommodations for 5,000 men in addition to the boys' department for 2,000 boys. Francis G. B. Roche is Chairman of the committee in charge of the new building arrangements, and it is expected to begin work in a short time.

Lower Broadway Deal.

A lower Broadway deal, which will lead to a building improvement, has been closed in the sale by the Hemenway Estate of Boston of the five old structures at 35 to 39 Broadway, 89.7 by 195, running through to Trinity Place. The property adjoins the Hamburg-American Building, formerly the Aldrich Building, on the south. The buyer is the 37 Broadway Company, recently incorporated with A. W. Britton, L. H. Gunther and S. B. Howard as Directors. A six-story building to be leased to one tenant, it is understood, will be erected on the site.

Sale on East Fifty-Seventh Street.

Huberth & Huberth have sold to a client for Lucy A. Banfield and Gerard Banfield the building at 150 and 152 East Fifty-seventh Street, on a plot 32 by 120.

The present building is to be demolished, and the site improved with a modern structure. It is reported that the buyers have also secured the adjoining property, 25 by 100.5, from Emma L. Chadwick.

Harlem Block Purchased for Interborough.

An entire block in the upper Harlem section, bounded by Seventh and Lenox Avenues, 147th and 148th Streets, has been purchased from the estate of Mary G. Pinkney by the Public Service Commission for yard and the storage of cars by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. The plot contains sixty lots and the purchase price was about $275,000. The Interborough Company bought from the same estate last year the smaller block opposite, on the east, containing eighteen lots, bounded by Marginal Street on the Harlem River, on the east, and the company owns the undivided two blocks to the north between Lenox and Seventh Avenues.

John Hoge Buys on Fifth Avenue.

John Hoge of Zanesville, Ohio, was the buyer of the seven-story commercial building at 400 Fifth Avenue, adjoining the southwest corner of Thirty-seventh Street, which was sold last December by the United States Realty Company. The building covers the site of the former General Butterfield residence, purchased by the United States Realty Company, which erected the present building. It is leased to P. Centemeri & Co., glove dealers, until September, 1927. The title was recorded yesterday.

Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks Buys to Protect Light and Air.

Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, daughter of the late Hetty Green, is the buyer of 10 West Eighty-second Street. The property, which was held at about $35,000, is directly in the rear of the new Wilks home now being erected at 7 West Eighty-first Street. The purchase was made to protect light and air.

The Roman-Callmann Company sold for M. H. Hauser to the Navahoe Realty Company, two furnished cottages on Grandview Avenue, one furnished cottage on Beach Avenue and a block of lots on Grandview Avenue, all adjacent to the Edgemere Club, at Edgemere, L. I. In part payment the purchaser has conveyed to Mr. Hauser three residential plots, each an acre in extent, on Willow Road, in the Park section, at Woodmere, L. I. The Navahoe Realty Company was represented in the sale by L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co. and Mr. Hauser by Maurice B. and Daniel W. Blumenthal.

Big Staten Island Plant Leased.

The entire property of the Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling Company, on Kill van Kull, Staten Island, has been leased by the Ruland & Whiting Company to the Vandam Warehouse Company for twenty years.

The property consists of about five acres, and is located at the foot of Bush Street, fronting about 260 feet on Richmond Terrace (Shore Road), extending north to the main channel opposite Shooter's Island.

On the property are six large buildings, four and six stories, containing about 300,000 square feet of floor space, which were for years the main eastern milling plant of the Hecker Company.

The property includes a pier 100 by 700, extending out to the pierhead line; also a private railroad spur 1,000 feet long to the tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Extensive alterations will be made by the tenants so as to give them the best of warehousing facilities on the waterfront.

The property has been held at a rental of $30,000 a year. Harrison S. Colburn of the above brokerage concern negotiated the lease.

Commercial Leases.

The Rowantree-Schley Company leased for Edward H. Landon the entire five-story and basement stable and warehouse building at 335-41 West Sixteenth Street, containing 60,000 square feet, to the American Express Company for a long term of years. Frederick Winant represented the owner in the transaction. Extensive alterations are to be made to meet the requirements of their business. These premises were formerly occupied by the Fourteenth Street Store at an annual rental of $12,000.

LEGAL NOTICES

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED States for the Southern District of New York.—BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, Trustee, Complainant, against THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY and BENJAMIN F. BUSH, as Ancillary Receiver of the property of THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILWAY COMPANY, Defendants.—In Equity.—No. E 13-179.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the terms and provisions of a decree of foreclosure and sale entered in the above entitled cause on the 24th day of July, 1916, the undersigned Special Master, in and by said decree appointed to make the sale therein directed to be made, will offer for sale, without valuation, appraisement, redemption or extension, on the 28th day of February, 1917, at twelve o'clock noon of that day, at the north main entrance of the County Court House in the County of New York, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, Southern District of New York, State of New York, the property in said decree directed to be sold, said property being as follows:

Three hundred seventy-two thousand five hundred and fifty (372,550) shares of the capital stock of St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern Railway Company in one parcel and as an entirety.

The Special Master will receive no bid from any one offering to bid who shall not have deposited with him at his office, No. 49 Wall Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, prior to the day for which the sale is fixed, as a pledge that he will make good his bid in case of its acceptance, the sum of seven hundred and sixty thousand dollars ($760,000) either in cash or by certified check on some national bank or trust company of the City of New York, made or endorsed payable to the order of said Special Master, or, in lieu thereof, Forty Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds of the defendant The Missouri Pacific Railway Company secured by a Trust Indenture, dated February 15, 1905, between The Missouri Pacific Railway Company and The Mercantile Trust Company, as Trustee, for the principal amount of $1,520,000, together with the coupons appertaining thereto maturing September 1, 1915, and thereafter. The Special Master will accept the highest and best bid received for the said shares of stock and will knock down the same to such bidder therefor subject to confirmation of said sale by the Court, but the Special Master will accept no bid of less than Fifteen million two hundred thousand dollars ($15,200,000), which sum is by said decree fixed by the Court as the lowest sum for which the said stock shall be sold, unless the Court shall hereafter otherwise order.

The successful bidder may assign his bid and his assignee shall thereupon succeed to all the rights and be bound by all the obligations of the purchaser under said decree. The word "purchaser" wherever used in said decree or in this notice shall be taken to include the plural as well as the singular number, and to include the successors and assigns of any purchaser or purchasers.

The deposit received from any unsuccessful bidder will be returned to him when the stock shall be struck off. The deposit received from the successful bidder will be applied on account of the purchase price.

The undersigned is authorized by said decree to accept temporarily in lieu of the actual deposit of Forty Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds of the defendant The Missouri Pacific Railway Company as aforesaid, the certificate of any national bank or trust company that it then holds the amount therein specified of said bonds and all coupons aforesaid subject to his order and direction.

The complainant, Bankers Trust Company, or any other party to said cause, or any owner or holder of any of the Forty Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds of the defendant The Missouri Pacific Railway Company, may bid and purchase at said sale.

In case a bidder after the acceptance of his bid shall fail to comply with any order of the Court requiring or relating to the payment of the balance of the purchase price, then the sum deposited by such purchaser as hereinbefore provided, whether paid in cash or by check or represented by bonds or certificates, will be forfeited as a penalty for such failure and will be applied to the payment of the expenses of resale of said stock and towards making good any deficiency or loss in case said stock shall be sold at a less price on any such resale and to such other purposes as the Court may direct. If the Court shall not confirm the sale for which a deposit shall have been made either by cash, by check or in said bonds or certificates, such deposit will be returned to the bidder.

The purchaser, on confirmation of the sale by the Court, will be required to make such further payment or payments in cash on account of the purchase price as the Court may from time to time direct. So much of the purchase price as may not be required by the Court to be paid in cash may either be paid in cash or the purchaser may satisfy and make good such residue of his bid in whole or in part by turning over to the Special Master Forty Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds of the defendant The Missouri Pacific Railway Company, and coupons secured by said Trust Indenture, dated February 15, 1905, to be cancelled or credited as in said decree provided. The purchaser will be credited on account of the purchase price upon bonds and coupons turned in as aforesaid with such sums as would be paid in cash upon such bonds and coupons out of the proceeds of sale if the whole amount of the purchase price had been paid in cash.

Payment of the purchase price in the manner in said decree provided must be made within sixty (60) days after confirmation of the sale, unless the Court shall otherwise direct.

In lieu of turning over to the Special Master under the provisions of said decree Forty Year Four Per Cent. Gold Bonds of the defendant The Missouri Pacific Railway Company and coupons, the Special Master may temporarily accept the certificate of any solvent national bank or trust company that it holds subject to his order the amount therein specified of Gold Bonds in negotiable form accompanied by the coupons therein stated.

By the terms of said decree the Court reserves the right to retake and resell the stock upon such notice as it may direct at the risk and cost of the purchaser, in case the purchaser shall fail or omit to make any payment on account of the purchase price as in said decree provided.

The purchaser, or his, its or their successors or assigns, shall not be required to see to the application of the purchase money and shall have the right to enter his, its or their appearance in said Court and become a party to said cause.

By said decree all questions not thereby disposed of are reserved by said Court for future adjudication.

Reference is hereby made to the above mentioned decree, which is on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, for a further and more detailed description of the conditions of sale of the stock therein directed to be sold. Copies of said decree may be obtained from the undersigned upon application to him at his office, No. 49 Wall Street, New York City.

Dated New York, January 26, 1917.

The city high schools have recently held the fourth contest for the Municipal Art Society Trophy for good draftsmanship. This contest is held under the direction of Dr. Haney, head of the art department in the high schools. In it the pupils compete, not as individuals, but as groups representing different high schools. Thirteen teams of five pupils each entered the contest, the pupils in each team being students in the fourth term of the high school course. Hugo B. Froehlich, Superintendent of Art and Manual Training of the Newark public schools; Ernest Watson, instructor in Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, and Dr. James P. Haney, director of art in the high schools, acted as judges. The De Witt Clinton High School won the trophy by a total of 981 points out of 800. Boys' High School secured second place, and the Bushwick High School third place. On the same day teams from five high schools contested for a similar trophy offered by the School Art League to advanced pupils. In this contest the De Witt Clinton High School again won first place, with the Bay Ridge High School second, and the Wadleigh High School third. The trophy offered by the School Art League consists of a bronze medallion designed by John Flanagan. SHORTAGE OF COAL HAMPERS SEA TRADE

The scarcity of coal for steamship bunkers in New York Harbor is getting worse daily instead of improving, as it was expected to do after the Christmas holidays, and, according to steamship managers, there is no improvement in prospect.

The White Star liner Baltic, which should have sailed at noon on Thursday for Liverpool with passengers and a big cargo, is still at her pier at the foot of West Twentieth Street waiting for coal. Agents of the line said yesterday that 2,900 tons of fuel had been ordered to be alongside the liner last Sunday, but that not a single lighter had appeared. It is hoped, however, that the Baltic will be able to sail tomorrow.

At the American Line pier the officials have been making every effort to get the Philadelphia away at noon today for Liverpool with a big list of passengers and heavy mails. It was said last night that the 2,400 tons of coal required for the voyage was alongside and that six hoists on each side of the ship were putting it on board.

Four big freighters were sent from New York to Norfolk this week to coal because no fuel could be obtained here. Tugboats have been tied up, and several coastwise freighters have been delayed in port for lack of coal. Steamship managers said yesterday that the shortage was partly due to the falling off in the output at the mines and to the congestion on the railroads leading from Pennsylvania into New York. There was no lack of labor in New York to handle the coal or of lighters to carry the fuel to the piers after it arrived at the railroad terminals in Jersey City, they said.

Pennsylvania Railroad officials in Philadelphia, when asked yesterday about New York steamship sailings being delayed through failure of the railroad companies to deliver coal, denied responsibility. "The congestion of coal on our tracks around New York Harbor," a Pennsylvania traffic official said, "is due to the failure of coal companies to make prompt disposition of coal consigned to them, which they sell sometimes months before it is shipped. These cars block the storage yards and prevent the free movement and quick delivery of coal.

"The fact that cars are not unloaded promptly makes it impossible to supply the mines with empties as fast as they are wanted and results in a lessening of the tonnage of coal reaching tidewater."

The Unwelcome Man
A NOVEL
By Waldo Frank
The Boston Transcript says:
"The study of his unsympathetic environment is remarkably clear . . . The story is naturally not a happy one . . . But technically, as an analysis of character, it is distinctly admirable. The study of Quincy Burt himself is, of course, the most minute, but that of the other players in the sordid tragedy is no less keen."
Mr. Frank's novel is for those who seek, in American fiction, not mere story telling so much as psychological analysis on a par with that of the leading European writers.

Nine Beautiful Manuals in Full Color in The New Country Life

$4.00 Now — $5.00 Feb. 1st

Frank Alvah Parsons in the February number explains the principles of interior decoration for the home in fourteen color-illustrated pages. Every phase of the subject is covered, and the information is so clearly presented that it can easily be applied by the reader to simple or elaborate problems. Mr. Parsons tells you how the arrangement of hangings, furniture and pictures may affect interiors.

New Color Features for 1917

Not satisfied with what they have already accomplished, the Publishers have set out to make THE NEW COUNTRY LIFE more beautiful than ever.

They will print this year nine special numbers, each to include an additional section, richly illustrated in full color, and each presenting an exhaustive treatment on some subject of vital interest to the owner of a country home.

In March there will be a Color Guide to Garden Making. The best garden flowers and how to know them—128 illustrations in four colors—a manual of information, telling you of the collection and grouping of your flowers, their reproduction and how to secure the desired rotation of blooms. In April a Color Guide to Home Orchard Fruits. This feature article will illustrate with full color plates the best fruits for the home garden and orchard. It will tell you why they are best. Fruits require more time to develop than do flowers, and more care should be used in making the first choice.

Among other numbers scheduled are:—"What a Decorator Would do for your Summer Home," "The Rose Number," "A Color Guide to Oriental Rugs," "Our Own Dog Show," "Old Prints."

Nine Authoritative Manuals Written by Experts and Printed in Full Colors

On February 1st the subscription price will be raised from $4.00 to $5.00 a year, which is a little more than half the cost of producing the magazine.
